

A. S. BLITON.

MEDFORD, OREGON, APRIL 21, 1905

The land fraud trials commenced Monday at Portland with the argument of counsel for both sides on the issue of "abatement" entered by a writ of those arraigned on indictment for defrauding or attempting to defraud the government. The argument came up on the plea made by John H. Mitchell, and the contention of the defense is that the grand jury which found the indictments was illegal, inasmuch as some of the jurors were not qualified, and that District Attorney Hony was not, at the time, qualified to act as such, and the defense further demands that the plea of abatement be tried before a jury. Among those interested are Wenger Hermann, J. N. Williamson, Chas. Nickell, U. S. commissioner and publisher of the Southern Oregonian, and many others. Each of their pleas must stand or fall according to the decision made in Senator Mitchell's case. Every one of those defendants have expressed their ability to triumphantly exonerate themselves from the charges brought against them, but now put in a plea of abatement on purely technical grounds, which, if they win, will not be the exonerated, but like the old Scotch verdict, "not proven," be as much of a moral disgrace as a conviction, simply lacking the attendant punishment. Judge Bennett, for the defense, contends for the right to file the plea in abatement in a Federal court, and argues that if it raises a question of fact the defendant is entitled to a trial thereof by jury; that if it does not raise a question of fact, the issues must be decided by the court. Judge Hollinger seemed to sustain by frequent interruptions to the argument that a plea in abatement is merely a permit to challenge the grand jury where there has been no opportunity, and says the question becomes of added importance by reason of the fact that the case could never be tried on its merits if separate pleas in abatement are to be given any trial.

We do a Legitimate Business.

And it came to pass in those days when Ross Tedefelt, who was king in the land of America, was shooting mules, rabbits, bears and mountain lions, that it became noised abroad in the land of Oregon, in the valley of the Rogue river, that Slim & Shortie were in it strictly as to hardware, tinware, stoves, plumbing, etc., that people began to wonder with amazement because many merchants claimed to them that they were selling as cheap as it was possible to sell; but on examining Slim & Shortie's goods and prices they found a vast difference, so much that they are made to marvel, and so have competition, for they are offering all kinds of bait to hold the trade; even going so far as to offer a 10 per cent cut on goods sold. Yet they can't reach us on locks, hinges, paints and oils, and hardware in general. They will have to figure again if they catch us. We don't offer any bait, or practice tricks in trade, but suffice it to say, we have been in the business and have run up against just such snags before. Let this take deep root in your memories, where naught but eternity can erase, that we, Slim & Shortie (Roberts & Garnett) never did, are not now, and never shall be connected with any combine. We buy where we please, pay as little as we can, and sell just as cheap as consistent business principles will allow. We know it will take us some time to get acquainted with the people, but we will all right, and when you know us you can say we are glad to have met you. We guarantee every article we sell, and if it doesn't suit bring it back and get your money. We are agents for the Charter Oak stoves and know them to be far superior to any other sold in Medford. You who are hunting cheap material stoves made by convicts of some penitentiary will have to go elsewhere for them, for Slim & Shortie don't have any such. If you want a cheap, water-mixed paint, please pass us by, for we don't carry such. We have with us a worker in metals that can make anything you want in tin, copper, zinc, galvanized or black iron. He has no equal in this city as a plumber; so when J. A. Smith turns over a job its right. Now, people, take this for what it is worth. We have to pay for printing it; so come in and see us, and if not on business, then on pleasure. We now leave you to your meditations. ROBERTS & GARNETT.

Daily, who has been appointed local agent for the company at Jacksonville, made a drive into the Applegate country last week, going as far as Bridge Point, and in two days' time wrote insurance to the amount of $11,000—not so bad, in fact pretty good two days' work.

C. A. Edler, of Lake creek, was in Medford Friday upon business before Commissioner Bliton. Mr. Edler and his brother, A. C. Edler, are having remarkable success in raising goats. They have 240 old ones and the increase this year will probably swell their band a hundred or more. During the past winter there were only four or five days that they found it necessary to feed their goats—they having found ample food in the woods at all other times. They recently sold their clip of Mohair at thirty cents a pound.

J. C. Stuart, representing Norris & Rowe's circus, was in Medford last week, arranging for the appearance of this show in Medford on May 3d. Mr. Stuart was with the show last year as advance agent and by his courteous treatment of all with whom he came in contact made a great many friends, both for himself and his show, and all will be pleased to learn that he is on the road again this season. He is a very clever gentleman and is one of the squarest and most honorable men that ever traveled the pike.

Additional Local.

—S. C. Bartram, forest supervisor, returned Wednesday from a trip of examination to the camp of the rangers who are surveying the west boundary line of the Cascade reserve. During the two weeks they have been out the rangers, five in number, A. S. Ireland, of Olalla; Henry Ireland, Sam Swenning, Silas McKee, of Medford, and Will Nichols, of Central Point, have surveyed and marked eighteen miles of the boundary. Besides this they have cut out the brush along the line and posted notices at every place where the line crosses a mountain trail, so that anyone knows when he crosses the line of the reserve. Mr. Bartram expresses himself, as well pleased with the work done by the rangers. Mr. Bartram informed The Mail that under a late ruling of the department forest rangers are now authorized to make arrests without warrants for violations of the rules and regulations of the reserve. This is an authority which should have been given the rangers before, as it has frequently happened that violators of the law have escaped on account of the rangers not having the power of summary arrest. In company with Ranger Henry Ireland, Mr. Bartram left Thursday for Klamath county, to look after some extensive sales of government timber.

—Wilber Walden, son of Mrs. O. Walden, of Medford, was the victim of a peculiar accident Thursday morning, by being kicked by a cow. The calf belonging to this cow had been sold and while young Charlie Hoover was leading it away, his dog attacked it. Hearing the bleating of her offspring and the bark of the dog, the cow cleared several intervening fences and went to its rescue. Young Walden attempted to drive her away from the other boy and in the melee was kicked by the cow on the inside of the left thigh, receiving an ugly wound. If the blow had landed but a little higher the consequences would have been serious, as it is he will be laid up for some time.
