

Home Made

Have your cake, muffins, and tea biscuit home-made. They will be fresher, cleaner, more tasty and wholesome.

Royal Baking Powder helps the house wife to produce at home, quickly and economically, fine and tasty cake, the raised hot-biscuit, puddings, the frosted layer-cake, crisp cookies, crullers, crusts and muffins, with which the ready-made food found at the bake-shop or grocery does not compare.

Royal is the greatest of bake-day helps.

Eagle Point Eaglets.

BY A. C. HOWLETT.

J. B. Jackson has a number of men at work on his house at this time, remodeling and enlarging it.

Rev. Austin preached here twice last Sunday and once at Brownsboro. He reports having good congregations and an interesting time.

Our roads are getting dried up now in the hills and the result is that there is a large amount of hauling of lumber, posts, shanks, etc., through our town and to the local yards.

Miss Mae Abbot came out from her mountain home on the head waters of Clarks creek, north of Big Butte, last Monday, to spend a few days with old neighbors and friends in our town. She meets with a cordial welcome.

Miss Lizzie Wolgamott, formerly of Medford, but now of Grange Pass, came out last Sunday to the Sunny Side to recuperate and a friend of hers told her after she had been here but two days that she had improved very much. Her many friends here are giving her a warm reception.

There was man by the name of Pentig came here on Thursday of last week and engaged board for a week, who has been lecturing on the subject of moral education, telling of times, a little ventriloquist, etc. He closed his lectures last Monday night.

Messrs. Harris and Young are pushing their contract to completion on the railroad bridge across Butte creek as they have all of the piling and long timbers out and now are putting up a saw mill on the east side of Round Top, near the Obenbach road, to cut out the smaller timbers.

S. J. Jones, another one of our boarders, who is trying to recuperate his health, is trying out sulphur springs with marked results. He has invested in timber land in this section and expects to locate among us, as he is now looking for property in our town with an eye to purchasing.

G. W. Canning, district deputy of M. W. of America, was out last Saturday and assisted in the work of the camp. We have a nice camp here and the present prospect is that we will have a good one. Adams here as there is in the county in proportion to the number of inhabitants.

Notwithstanding the fact that there will be several towns have celebrations on the Fourth of July, we all know that when Eagle Point celebrates it means business and this year the committee on arrangements will spare no pains or expense to make this celebration a crowning success. See bills.

Lyman Adams, his son, Earl, and a man by the name of Highton, all of Washington, were pleasant callers at the Sunny Side hotel one night last week. They came from Washington via the Lewis and Clark exposition, where they report having seen a fine display and heard some fine talks, etc. Then preceding on their way to this county, where Mr. Adams was raised—on their wheels. After visiting old-time friends and neighbors they proceeded on their way to Klamath county, where they have relatives and where Mr. A. formerly lived.

Well, we have a new doctor in our town, Dr. A. B. Cartie and wife, of Grand Rapids, Michigan. He has come to locate among us, partly for his own health and principally for the benefit of others. He and his good wife are stopping at the Sunny Side hotel and while here he is taking advantage of our sulphur springs that are situated here. He says that either

Sometimes the hair is not properly nourished. It suffers for food, starves. Then it falls out, turns prematurely gray. Ayer's Hair Vigor is a hair food. It feeds, nourishes. The hair stops falling, grows long and heavy, and all dandruff disappears.

Poor Hair

A Funny Blunder.
According to Law Notes, Sergeant Ballantine used to tell this story on Lord Chief Justice Cockburn of England: One night while Ballantine was passing along Piccadilly he came across a policeman who was arresting a woman he claimed was drunk. He stopped to expostulate and stated that the woman seemed to be ill rather than intoxicated. Just at this time Lord Cockburn, who was then attorney general, came by on his way home from the house of commons and joined in the discussion. Immediately another officer rushed up and, seizing Cockburn by the collar, exclaimed, "I arrest you also." "Arrest me?" cried the astonished attorney general. "What for?" "Oh," replied his captor, "for many things. You are well known to the police."

The Isle of Man.
The Isle of Man is situated in the Irish sea, nearly equidistant from England and Ireland and belongs to Great Britain. The government is vested in a lieutenant governor, executive council and house of keys. It was ruled by Northmen from the ninth or tenth to the thirteenth century; was annexed to Scotland by Alexander III, and was afterward ruled by various kings. It was ruled by the Stanley family from the beginning of the fifteenth century to 1758, when it passed to the crown of Athole. In 1755 the British government acquired most of the royal rights of the Athole family, the last rights falling to the crown in 1829. English is generally spoken, and the native Manx is fast disappearing. It has an area of 230 square miles and a population of 50,000. The three legends on its coins are the emblem of the island and signify "The Isle of Man kneels to England, kicks at Scotland and spurs Ireland."

Three Physicians Treated Him Without Success.
W. L. Yancy, Paducah, Ky., writes "I had a severe case of kidney disease and three of the best physicians in Kentucky treated me without success. I then took Foley's Kidney Cure. The first bottle gave immediate relief, and three bottles cured me permanently. I gladly recommend this wonderful remedy." For sale at the Medford Pharmacy.

Lord Liverpool's Rape of the Teapot.
Lord Liverpool, who was traveling incognito, after breakfasting at a hotel in London, ordered his valet, a raw Sussex youth, to clear the table and pack everything in a portmanteau. By this order, of course, was meant Lord Liverpool's letters and papers. But the youth took it to include the silver teapot and spoons. When Lord Liverpool was leaving down Oxford street a cry of "Stop thief!" was raised, and the landlord of the hotel arrived in hot pursuit. There in the street the prime minister had the mortification of having his baggage opened, and in it was found the plate. Never would the statesman laugh at the episode even years after, so great was his fear that the story might get into the newspapers.—London Spectator.

Smoking in a Powder Magazine
Is courting death more suddenly but not more surely than neglecting kidney disorders. Foley's Kidney cure will cure a slight disorder in a few days and its continued use will cure the most obstinate cases. It has cured many people of Bright's disease and diabetes who were thought to be incurable. If you have kidney or bladder trouble, commence taking Foley's Kidney Cure today, before it is too late. Sold by Medford Pharmacy.

A Bold Bet.
In Thomas E. Farish's book, "Gold Hunters of California," are some good stories of the old days. Here is a yarn about the biggest gambling Mr. Farish knew of in that time of big betting: "A man of the name of Moore had been betting and lost over and over sums aggregating several thousands of dollars on the game of faro. Finally, as he turned to leave, the dealer asked, 'Are you through?' Moore halted, hesitated, then, turning and taking from his pocket a key, held it up and said, 'I will bet you everything in my safe, which this key unlocks, on the ten.' 'How much is in your safe?' inquired the dealer. 'I do not know, but it is a large sum. If you win take the key, open the safe and secure all the money you find there. If I win we will go to the bank together, count the money and you must cover the amount,' was the answer. The challenge was accepted, the bet made, and Moore won something over $47,000."

London's "Mohocks."
At the beginning of the eighteenth century a number of ruffianly young men of the higher classes—called by Swift "a race of rakes—played the devil about the town every night"—known as "Mohocks," infested London, sniffling out drunk into the streets, carrying short clubs loaded with lead at both ends and perpetrating shameful cruelties upon peaceable passersby, wantonly wounding and disfiguring the men and subjecting all alike to atrocious insults.

He Understood.
"How is your guardian on diplomacy? Do you think that he can understand the finer points of a secret alliance like ours?" asked the young man.
"I can answer that question for myself," said a sudden voice. "I am in favor of an open door policy just now—and I believe this is your hat, sir."—Chicainetti Commercial-Tribune.

George Couldn't Stop.

Ye fellowe satte beside ye maide:
Lord Liverpool, who was traveling incognito, after breakfasting at a hotel in London, ordered his valet, a raw Sussex youth, to clear the table and pack everything in a portmanteau. By this order, of course, was meant Lord Liverpool's letters and papers. But the youth took it to include the silver teapot and spoons. When Lord Liverpool was leaving down Oxford street a cry of "Stop thief!" was raised, and the landlord of the hotel arrived in hot pursuit. There in the street the prime minister had the mortification of having his baggage opened, and in it was found the plate. Never would the statesman laugh at the episode even years after, so great was his fear that the story might get into the newspapers.—London Spectator.

She had a well shaped, slender waist,
A twinkling, roguish eye,
And through ye stille night ais there cam
This artfulle little crye:
"Stop it, George!"

Her plump cheekes they were tinged
With redde lips Cupid's bowe—
Whate meant ye subtle words that cam
Ye atmosphere arose:
"Stop it, George!"

She had ye hair of Tithon hue,
Ye dimple on each cheekie;
Ye fellowe hee didd love her, too,
And eured might for her shriekie:
"Stop it, George!"

Ye auto pumped into a tree,
Ye ratte ye beets o'er head,
And whenne ye malle came to gasped
she,
"You ought-done-as-I-said-and-
Stopped-it, George!"

An Open Question.

"Mamma says girls ought to learn to cook instead of to play the piano. What do you think?"
"Well, it all depends on whether it would be worse to eat what they cooked or hear what they played."

Did Not Matter.
Booker T. Washington tells the following story of a member of the "top" white trash who endeavored to cross a stream by means of a ferry owned by a negro.

"Uncle Mose," said the white man, "I want to cross, but I haint got no money."
"Uncle Mose scratched his head, 'Doin you got no money 't all?' he queried."

"No," said the wayfaring stranger, "I haven't a cent."
"But hit done cost you but free cents ter cross ferry?"
"I know, but I haven't the money," insisted the white man.

Uncle Mose was in a quandary, and after a few moments' thought said: "Boss, I done tole you what. 'Er man what aint got no free cents an' jes' ez well off on dis side of der ribber as on der odder."—Philadelphia Ledger.

According to Her Light.
A much indulged little girl of six years was being read to. The story related to a small boy who was discontent because his piece of pie was not sweet enough to suit him. His mother thought otherwise and suggested his taking a piece to a poor little cripple in the alley near them. This child's delighted enjoyment of the dainty so impressed the boy that he returned and ate his piece, quite satisfied with it. The reader pointed out the moral to the small listener, trying to improve the opportunity. Her face lighted up, and she said with conviction:
"I bet his mother put plenty of sugar on his pie while he was gone."—Lippincott's Magazine.
