Home Made

Have your cake, muffins, and tea biscuit home-made. They will be fresher, cleaner, more tasty and wholesome.

Royal Baking Powder helps the house wife to produce at home, quickly and economically, fine and tasty cake, the raised hot-biscuit, puddings, the frosted layer-cake, crisp cookies, crullers, crusts and muffins, with which the ready-made food found at the bake-shop or grocery does not compare.

Royal is the greatest of bake-day helps.

Eagle Point Eaglets.

BY A. C. HOWLETT

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Abbot, who went to Klamath county some time ago, returned last week.

Mrs. E. B. Stowel started last week with her children for Klamath county, to visit her sister, Mrs. Wm. Beal.

Mrs. A. L. Haselton, her daughter, Bessie, and Mrs. George W. Daley, Jr., went to Medford on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. George Daley, Sr., and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Simon, were pleasant callers at the Sunny Side last Sunday.

Wisley and Thomas Childreth, our blacksmiths, went to Medford last Sunday afternoon, to meet their sister, who came from Oklahoma.

E. C. Pomeroy started up his threshing machine on Wm. Ulrich's farm last Monday. The present outlook is that the crops will yield abundantly.

Benj. F. Baker, now living on the north side of Rogue river, called last Saurday evening, remaining over Sunday and on Monday went to Medford to dispose of a fine mare he has.

George Parsons, assistant civil engineer on the M. & C. L. R. R. and Charley Obenchain, who have been working on the railroad in this part of the route, had a business call to Ashland last Saturday, returning on Sunday.

Mrs. Hermon Meyers, of Salt creek, has been stopping for several days at the Sunny Side, receiving medical treatment from Dr. A. B. Curtis, returned home last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Meyers speak in high terms of our new M. D.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Schatt, of Titusville, Pa., who have been spending a week or more at the Sunny Side, and drinking sulphur water from our famous sulphur spring, for their health, started for San Francisco on Wednesday of last week.

J. B. Smith and his brother, J. N. Smith, of Big Sticky, were calling on some of their Eagle Point friends last week. J. B. Smith is here from Boulder, Colo., on a visit to his brother and the two are having a good time visiting old friends.

J. M. Heckathorn and wife returned from their trip to the coast last week, where they have been recuperating and visiting some of her old-time friends. On their return Mr. H. sold his entire stock of goods, including billiard table, pictures and in fact every thing except house and household goods.

There is a rumor afloat here that there has been a joint stock company formed to purchase and operate the grist mill at this place and if it can be done and the mill run properly and on milling principles, there is no better investment for there is all the water power that is needed and the mill has as good machinery for making flour as can be found in the county.

Speaking of the railroad, there seems to be considerable activity in that line of business, as the contractors are putting in all the force they can muster and the two mill men, Messrs. Gleson and Lee, having a contract for 50,000 feet each, are sending out the timber for the bridge across Butte creek as fast as they can get teams. The iron is on the ground and Contractor Hartman has his force framing the timbers. We are anxiously waiting to hear the whistle of the locomotive as it rushes into the depot on the Wm. Ulrich farm. Last week the Parson Bros. commenced to survey the plat of ground to be used for depot grounds and the addition to Eagle Point and by the time these Eaglets are read by the public we will probably know just where the depot will be. I should have remarked that Parson Bros. had made a change in the railroad survey on the Young farm, so as to raise the road above the irrigating ditch in one place.

Take Kodol After Eating.

After a hearty meal a dose of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will prevent an attack of Indigestion. Kodol is a thorough digestant and a guaranteed cure for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Weak Heart, Sour Risings, Bad Breath and all stomach troubles. L. A. Soper, of Little Robk, Ky says: "Kodol Dyspepsia Cure deserves all the commendation that can be given it, as it saved the life of our little girl when she was three years old. She is now six and we have kept it for her constantly, but, or course, she only takes it now when any thing disagrees with her. We feel grateful for the benefit derived from its use and would not be without it." Sold by Chas. Strang.

Kanes Creek Items.

Mrs. Stover was the guest of Miss Higinbotham recently.

Mrs. Bean's baby, who has been quite sick, is getting better.

H. May, of Medford, is visiting relatives on Kanes creek this week.

Mrs. Swinden was the guest of friends and relatives on Kanes creek recently.

Will Higinbotham was called to Butte creek last week by the illness of his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichols spent Sunday as guest of Charley Nichols and wife, near Central Point.

The weather is still quite warm. Plenty of smoke, as all the Kanes creek mountains are on fire.

Elmer Higinbotham came down from Elk creek and spent a few days with home folks, returning Thursday.

Henry Nutt, who has been visiting his family for a few days, returned to Prospect on Tuesday, where he has employment for the summer.

G. B. Burhans Testifies after 4 years

G. B. Burhans, of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney cure. It entirely stopped the brick dust sediment, and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed and I am evidently cured to stay cured, and heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from Kidney or bladder trouble.' Lake Creek Items.

By W. T. Kinney.

John A. Miller is completing a large stock barn for David Cincade at Eagle Point.

T. L. Farlow is helping his brother, Frank, in haying on his Deer creek ranch, this week.

David Wilkns and A. E. Hart visited the former's son, who lives near Jacksonville, last week.

A goodly number of people from various parts are enjoying the pleasures of an outing at Dead Indian.

Gustoph Peck made a business trip to Medford last Friday and while there sold Geo. Nichols some nice beef cattle.

Kinney, Hart and Wilkins have about concluded arrangements for their saw mill, which will be erected near the McAllister springs, on North Butte.

A number of ranchers are harvesting the second crop of alfalfa on South Butte this week. A fine crop in general has and will be harvested in this section, as is always the case on Little Butte, the garden spot of Jackson county.

(SPECIAL)

We are glad to state that our little girl, Ruth, who has been feeble for so long, is improving nicely. We wish again to extend our many thanks to our neighbors and friends for their kindness and sympathy in our sad bereavement which we have to bear.

THE EASY WAY.

I have not boundless wealth to spend
On modest wages I depend.
My bank account is of the kind
That keen detectives could not find,
Yet everything that's known to man
Is mine, no matter what I seek,
By paying on the easy plan—
One dollar down and one a week.

The modest garments that I wear,
The dress my wife selects with care,
The rugs and carpets in the hall,
The pictures that adorn the wall,
My shoes, the latest tint of tan;
A parrot with a Roman beak,
Are all mine on the easy plan—
One dollar down and one a week.

Of books a wealth I have indeed
Of everything that one should read,
For when the agent comes along
And sings his little airy song
The list quite carelessly I scan,
The German, Latin, English, Greek,
And stock up on the easy plan—
One dollar down and one a week.

I have a mansion on the square,
A country home for summer wear,
An auto that will bring me in
And take me Sundays for a spin;
I surely get my money's worth;
Each payment is but one small leak,
Next week I think I'll buy the earth—
One dollar down and one a week.

What They Missed.

We can't help thinking what a good time Nero and some of the old school tyrants could have had with some of our modern appliances as playthings.

With an automobile to turn their loving subjects into pancakes they could have enjoyed so thoroughly their morning spin, and such as were left they could have taken up the elevator to the top of a skyscraper and thrown them off to the pavement below.

Life could have been one endless round of pleasure for them, but it is with the live wire they could have had the most fun.

A merry monarch might have had the chairs for his cabinet connected with a dynamo, and when they were all pleasantly seated about he could have touched a button and given them a neat little shock. If by chance he turned on too strong a current and killed all of them it would have been easy enough by a stroke of the pen to have made a new cabinet.

Even Up There.

"Why didn't the explorer proceed when he was within such a short distance of the pole?"

"He got cold feet."

She Is Resigned.

Although an actress hates like sin
To see her name in print
And blushes and kicks up a row
At any such a hint,
She wouldn't pay, to keep it out,
Enough to buy the mint.

Of Short Service.

"He is sore because his umbrella was stolen."

"Was it a new one?"

"Almost. He just stole it yesterday."

Not For Her.

"Does he treat the hired girl as one of the family?"

"Not much. He is anxious to have her stay."

With a Machine.

Raked the meadow sweet with hay.

The job she did was rather coarse,
For Maud was nothing but a horse.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

According to John Adams, It Should Be July 2.

On the 3d of July, 1776, John Adams, then one of the representatives of Massachusetts in the Continental congress, wrote to his wife Abigail:

"Yesterday the greatest question was decided which was ever debated in America, and a greater perhaps never was nor will be decided among men."

In a second letter, written the same day, he said:

"But the day is past. The 2d of July will be the most memorable epocha in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other from this time forward, forevermore."

When the resolution was taken up on the 2d, all the states, except New York, voted to accept it. Thus, on the 2d day of July, 1776, the independence of the thirteen united colonies from the throne of Great Britain was definitely decided upon. The 2d, and not the 4th, may be called the true date of the separation. We could with propriety celebrate the Fourth two days earlier. That the participants in the work considered the 2d as the true date is shown by the letters written by John Adams, quoted at the beginning of the article. The popular fancy, however, seized upon the 4th, the date of acceptance of Jefferson's more dramatic declaration of the reasons for the separation, as the proper day to celebrate.

The debate upon the document was continued until the afternoon of the 4th, and, says Jefferson, might have run on interminably at any other season of the year. But the weather was oppressively warm, and the hall in which the deputies sat was close to a stable, "whence the hungry flies swarmed thick and fierce, alighting on the legs of the delegates and biting hard through their thin silk stockings. Treason was preferable to discomfort," and at last the delegates were brought to such a state of mind as to agree to the Declaration without further amendment.

It is a mistake to suppose that the document was signed by the delegates on that day. It is improbable that any signing was done save by John Hancock, the president of the congress, and Charles Thomson, the secretary.—Paul Leland Haworth in Harper's Magazine.

ADAPTABILITY.

Adaptability's sails are set to catch any wind that blows.

To the man with adaptation an emergency is an opportunity.

Adaptability is the ability to adapt yourself quickly to unexpected conditions.

The bankrupt law is meant as an asylum for men who are without adaptability.

When one plan fails the man with adaptation has forty-nine untried others waiting.

Adaptability is always ready, is never taken at a short, is the great lightning change artist and often turns hopelessness into victory.

A general in battle, a statesman in office or a financier handling large enterprises without the ability to readily adapt himself to suddenly changed conditions is a misfit.—From Cent Per Cent.

The Shamrock.

In Ireland only one shamrock is known. It is an indigenous species of clover which trails along the ground among the grass in meadows. The trefoil leaves are not more than one-fourth the size of the smallest clover usually seen in America and are pure green in color, without any of the brown shading of white and pink clovers. The creeping stem is hard and fibrous and difficult to dislodge from the earth. On St. Patrick's day the true shamrock has to be searched out among the grass, for, though comparatively plentiful at that season, it grows close to the ground. Later it bears a tiny "white crown" blossom. The information that shamrakh is the Arabic word for trefold may be of service to those interested in the origin of the Irish race.

Varied Commencement Addresses.

An anxious inquirer was discussing with Bishop Prendergast the complex nature of some of his episcopal duties. "I should think you would find giving addresses at commencements particularly trying," said the inquirer questioningly. "I do," sighed the bishop. "How can you manage to find anything original to say year after year?" probed the inquirer, determined to get at the root of the matter. "Oh, I don't," said the bishop, his face lighting up and expanding into a whimsical smile. "I don't say anything original. Each time I simply use different adjectives."—Philadelphia Record.

Playing Her Cards.

Tommy—May I stay up a little longer? Ethel—What do you want to stay up for? Tommy—I want to see you and Mr. Green playing cards. Mr. Green—But we are not going to play cards. Tommy—Oh, yes, you are, for I heard mamma saying to Ethel that everything depended on the way in which she played her cards tonight.

His Past and His Present.

"What do you know about his past?" asked Mabel.

"Just enough to make me a little suspicious about his present," said Maud, examining with a magnifying glass the diamond ring the young man had sent her.

A Step Too Far.

"And what then?"

"I was foolish enough to ask what they said."

SUMMONS.

In the Circuit Court in and for the County of Jackson, State of Oregon.

H. C. Garnett, Plaintiff,
vs. SUMMONS.
Clara M. Brown, Defendant.

To Clara M. Brown, the above named defendant: IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON: You are hereby required to appear and answer plaintiff's complaint now on file in the Circuit Court for the County of Jackson, State of Oregon, on or before six weeks from the day of the first publication of this summons (said day and date being the expiration of the time required by the order for publication of this summons), which said first day of said publication is the 30th day of June, 1905, and you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer or otherwise plead to said complaint, for want thereof, the plaintiff will apply to the said Court for the relief demanded herein, to-wit:

For judgement against you in the sum of $533.56 together with interest thereon from May 6, 1905 at the rate of six per cent per annum, and $35 attorney's fees, and costs and disbursements, and for a decree of foreclosure, foreclosing you from any and all right, title and interest in and to the said premises, described in your mortgage deed, and that upon a decree of foreclosure being had, execution to issue for the sale of said premises in the manner as by law provided, and that you be forever barred and foreclosed from any and all right, title and interest in or to said mortgaged premises, and that plaintiff have judgment against you for any deficiency remaining unpaid after said mortgaged premises have been exhausted, and for such other and further relief as may be just and equitable in the premises.

This summons is published by order of Hon. H. K. Hanna, one of the judges of the Circuit court for Jackson county, Oregon, which said order was dated at Chambers June 24th. Summons to be published in THE MEDFORD MAIL, a newspaper of general circulation in Jackson County, Oregon, for six successive weeks from the date of the first publication thereof, the first publication being June 30, 1905, and the last publication being August 11, 1905, and requires the defendant to appear and answer on or before the last day of the publication thereof.

W. I. VAWTER,
Attorney for plaintiff.

SUMMONS.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, in and for the County of Jackson.

Margaret J. Poyser, Plaintiff,
vs. } ss
Frank Poyser, defendant.

To Frank Poyser, the above named defendant: IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON; you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled Court and cause, within "Ten" days from the date of the service of this Summons upon you; if served within this (Jackson) County, Oregon, or if served within any other county within the State of Oregon, then within "Twenty" days from the date of the service of this Summons upon you; or if by publication of this Summons, then within six weeks from the date of the first Publication thereof, and if you fail so to answer for want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief prayed for in her complaint herein to-wit:

For a decree dissolving the contract of marriage now existing between plaintiff and the defendant, and for such other, further and different relief as to the court may seem equitable.

This Summons is Published in THE MEDFORD MAIL pursuant to an order of Hon. H. K. Hanna, Judge, made in chambers at Jacksonville, Jackson County, Oregon, July 25, 1905, the first publication being on the 28th day of July A. D. 1905, and the last publication being on the 8th day of September A. D. 1905.

M. G. HOOK,
Attorney for the Plaintiff.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Success doesn't amount to so much if a lot of age goes with it.

How many things we all have to do that "goes against the grain."

If you are willing to spend money on your fads you can find plenty of encouragement in them.

No man says exactly what he means. To do that would require too much explanation and qualification.

When you have no other reform to think about, here is one that is always important and timely: You talk too much.

The kicker attracts attention for a time and affords amusement, but in a little while people become very tired of him. And how he is hated in his old age!

We frequently see this statement: "It requires courage for a man to do his duty." This isn't true. It is always easier to do right than it is to do wrong.—Atchison Globe.

City Versus Country Eyes.

In one of his delightful books Dr. Jessopp remarks that whereas country people look up Londoners look down. It is largely this habit that has limited their observing powers, but London has itself to blame. I take it that one can observe well only by the power of taking large views, and in London this is impossible, even if one would, partly from the circumscribing effect of bricks and mortar, partly from the dim light of a London distance and partly from the need of avoiding collisions. One's eyes unconsciously acquire a habit of restricted vision; our observation specializes, like that of the little girl in Mrs. Meynell's book who beguiled the tedium of her walks by collecting shopkeepers named Jones. Perhaps that is the kind of observation for which we in London are best suited.—London Outlook.

Woman's Logic.

"Yes, my father made me give him up. He isn't any good at all."

"Is that so, dear?"

"Yes, indeed. Why, even the neighbors said he was worthless. He dissipates and is horrid."

"You don't say?"

"In fact, I hate him."

"Gracious! But have you heard that he is to be married to Belle?"

"What? That Belle? Why, what on earth does a nice young man like him want with such a girl as Belle? I am surprised."—Columbus Dispatch.

He Wanted to Know.

Scotchmen are fond of an argument, and delight to find flaws in an opponent's logic. Two blacksmiths were once conversing as to which was the first trade in the world. One insisted that it must have been gardening, and quoted from Genesis: "Adam was put into the garden of Eden to dress it and keep it." "Aye, John," retorted the other, who had stood up for his own trade, "but wha made the spades?"
