Reduced Rate to Visiting Easterners.

The Southern Pacific Co. will make a rate of one fare for the round trip from Portland to all points in Oregon, Ashland and north for visitors from the east to the Exposition at Portland, to enable them to look over Western Oregon with the view of settling or investing. These tickets will be good for 15 days limit, with stop over at intermediate points, and will be sold to holders of the Exposition round trip tickets from points east of the Rocky mountains.

This will afford the various counties and communities that will maintain exhibits and advertise in other ways at the Exposition, every inducement to have Eastern people visit their section.

JAPANESE WHALERS.

The Curious Way They Do Their Work With Nets and Kalves.

Whales are captured in nets by the Japanese. The whalers put off from the shore as quietly as possible, and when they come within the proper distance of their objective the boats, which have hitherto worked in couples, separate and, dropping their nets as they go, work around to the rear and flanks of their expected kill. The nets are made in large squares, each side being about forty feet long. One net is composed of six squares in line, and the squares are fastened to each other lightly. When all is ready the boats which have been worked around to the rear of the whale then commence to drive him gently toward the nets. Moving along lazily at first, the whale soon realizes that something untoward is happening and, hurrying forward, dashes on to one of the nets. This is the critical moment, and when the fishermen see that the whale is well in the center of one of the squares they raise a great shout and charge in upon him.

When the whale is about spent a man chosen for his strength, activity, pluck, coolness and general fitness for his work then leaps upon his back and with a great triangular shaped knife proceeds to cut two great gashes in his body just back of his head. Through the underlying blubber and these two gashes he passes a rope and, knotting it, makes a loop of it. He then repeats the same operation as far back on his body as he can. When the light has been completely knocked out of the whale, boats range alongside of him, and by the help of the loops already mentioned the hapless cetacean is slung between them in such a manner as to minimize the danger of his carcass sinking.

Then the boats form in procession, and, making for the shore, there commences the most curious part of the whole affair. The whalers, with real fervor and in the most solemn manner possible, begin a chanting prayer for the ease of the departing spirit by calling out "Joraku! Joraku! Joraku!" in low, deep tones. Upon the third day after the kill a memorial service is held in the village temple, and prayers are offered for the repose of the dead whale's soul.—Chicago News.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

How many men work too hard? How many do you know? Every good husband is henpecked. That's all there is to it. Classical music is like some people—very hard to understand.

It is said that a farmer gets the best work out of a farm hand who is aspiring to be his son-in-law.

Perhaps one reason why a poor man lives longer than a rich one is that the doctors don't take so much interest in him.

When an economical man suffers a ten dollar loss he cuts off expenditures reaching to $50 before he feels right about it.

If you have faults the idea is not to humiliate yourself by acknowledging them to your enemies, but to get over them, if possible, for your own good.—Archibald Globe.

Mrs. Bowser Declares That Feline Creatures Love It, While Mr. Bowser Scoffs.

DINNER had been finished half an hour, and Mr. Bowser was enjoying his evening paper and cigar, when the family cat wandered up from the basement, looked around for a moment, and then rolled over and over on the floor and set up a wailing.

"Now, then, what in thunder ails that old cat?" exclaimed Mr. Bowser, as he laid down his paper. "He acted like that this afternoon when Mrs. White was in here, and she said he wanted catnip," replied Mrs. Bowser.

"Wanted catnip?"

"Yes. You know what catnip is, don't you?"

"I've heard of a plant called catnip, but what has it to do with cats?"

"A good deal. At certain seasons of the year, particularly in the summer, cats are crazy for it. I've heard it said that they would die if they didn't get it."

"Bosh! What our old cat wants is a blamed good thumping with a club, and he'll get it if he tries any funny business around this house."

"I meant to have got some catnip of the old man who comes along here every week selling it," said Mrs. Bowser, "but he passed yesterday before I could call him. I'll be on the watch for him next Wednesday."

"Are you an idiot, or do you take me for one?"

"I don't know what you mean. What is there to call for such vigorous language?"

"Our old cat comes upstairs and rolls around and meows, and you tell me he wants catnip."

"Well, what of it?"

"What of it? Are you trying to make me believe that because some idiot named a certain plant catnip cats like it or must have it? Don't attempt to get funny, Mrs. Bowser."

"Cats love catnip, and everybody knows it," she replied. "Your mother used to raise it for her cats, and you ought to remember that she did. Would a man come along here selling the plant every week if cats didn't love it?"

"And I say that catnip is a medicinal plant and is used to make poultices of. No human being ever saw a cat taste of it or ever will. You might as well look for them to eat thistles or hay. When a woman of your age will believe such stuff and nonsense it's no wonder I find clothespins scattered all over the place and have to figure on how long I can keep out of the poor house. Catnip! Catnip! I'll catnip that old cat if he gives another yell."

Mrs. Bowser realized that argument would be of no avail, and she had read a page or two in a magazine when Mr. Bowser returned to the attack. He wanted that catnip question settled then and there, and he wanted it settled in his favor.

"You have made certain statements about cats and catnip," he continued, "and I want you to either back them up or admit that you were geying me. I want your authority for saying that catnip is grown for cats."

"There may be other uses for it as well, but everybody knows that cats love catnip. If a cat is sick, it is better after eating of the plant."
