Browning and an Umbrella.

A correspondent writes to the Lon-don Chronicle that he once came upon Robert Browning in Piccadilly in lively dispute with a stranger who had carried his closed umbrella over his shoulder or under his arm, with the end sticking out. Browning, walking behind, struck down the dangerous point with an energetic stick. "I al-ways do it," said the poet with just indignation and in no measured tones. The man protested aloud, but Brown-ing explained to the gathering crowd and justified himself fully. No one seemed to know how illustrious was
