

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING

An Indianapolis barber says he can't shave a man's chin while talking; that is, while the man is talking.

Why it is, a cat's a, seven-year-old kid can drop a half burned match in an alley and burn up all the barns in a block, while an able bodied man has to use up a whole box of matches to get a wood fire started in a heater that has draft enough to draw all the furniture up the stove pipe!

Despite her alliance with Japan England is forming a strong naval base at Singapore. She will pay $14, 175,000 for the transfer of docks at Singapore and Phuang and expend many millions more on harbor fortifications. England must now envy as the ownership of the Philippines.

It is related that a female footpad in Ohio tickles a man under the chin with a newspaper and extracts his watch or diamond stud before he recovers from the surprise. There is nothing new in a woman getting money from a man by tickling him under the chin.

Amid all the current excitement the discussion continues as to whether the United States "is" or "are." Those who contend for the plural form say our forefathers who made the constitution settled the matter about 120 years ago. But the dispute was reopened forty-five years ago, at which time a victorious army and navy decided that the United States "is." No one has ever had occasion to regret the decision.

James Manning, aged fifty-seven years, the man who is said to have ed Chas. Guttaun, the murderer of President Garfield, to do the deed which sent him to the gallows, and once wealthy and prominent, died in the lot of a stable in Chicago last week. He squandered his fortune and sank to a common stable hand and a race tout. He died calling for his wife, from whom he separated, after dividing fortunes, upon the discovery of his improper conduct.

The schoolmaster opened the dirty envelope and smothered out the crumpled sheet of paper. His brow contracted as he read the first word. Who had dared to insult him thus—she, a village schoolmaster? This was the word: "Cur, ass, you are a man of no legs I wish to inter my son in your skull." Who was insulting him? Who had dared to play a practical joke on him? Then the truth slowly dawned. He had received some queer letters from illiterate parents, but this was the strangest of all. With a fellow-master, he translated it correctly like this: "Sir—As you are a man of knowledge, I wish to enter my son in your school."

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxin, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would do. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise, instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all its remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pain in the stomach and bowels, and has never been known to fail. For sale by Chas. Strang.

Klamath County News.

From Klamath Falls Express:

Ky Taylor, justice of the peace elected, qualified for the office last Friday and presented his resignation to the county court on Saturday. The resignation was accepted and Judge Griffith appointed S. F. Nicholas to fill the vacancy. Mr. Taylor resigned because he felt that he could not give the office the time that it should receive.

James Calvin Sigler died last Saturday morning at 1 o'clock at his residence in this city of inflammation of the stomach, and was buried the same afternoon under the auspices of the A. O. U. W., the Rev. J. W. Bryant reading a short service over the remains of the deceased at the residence. Mr. Sigler was born in Detroit, Mich., on the 20th day of November, 1853, being fifty-three years of age at the time of his death.

The seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mason was thrown from a pony near camp No. 1. Tuesday morning and sustained a fracture of the left arm just above the elbow. Drs. Cartwright and Steiner reduced the fracture and the lad is getting along nicely. Healy, employed in the tunnel at shift No. 1, was thrown from the bucket on reaching the surface and in the mix-up had both bones of the left arm broken almost midway between the wrist and elbow. Dr. Cartwright set the arm and the injured member is getting on as well as could be expected. A crew of five men at work in one of the new tunnel shafts was partially asphyxiated last Thursday by the powder smoke from blasting and the foul air in the shaft. All of the crew was removed before any serious consequences resulted. One of two of the men became unconscious, but revived immediately upon reaching the surface.

Early Tuesday morning, about five o'clock, H. E. Childers, residing in East Klamath falls, went to a bath house nearby to take a bath and was considerably startled when he discovered a corpse lying in the water which in only about eight inches deep. He immediately notified Coronator Martin and Sheriff Oenchaun, who went to the scene of death, where they found the body of a man lying on its back in the warm water. The clothing was scattered about on the outside of the bath house and was thoroughly soaked, indicating that he had been in the water before he had removed his clothing. An inquest was held and the following jury was summoned: O. C. Wilson, foreman; W. O. Smith, Ky Taylor, Marlon Hanks, C. K. Branden and W. C. Sanderson. A number of witnesses were examined, the substance of the evidence being about as follows: The man came to Klamath Falls Monday afternoon from Keno with Oliver Head. He had been employed in the city and McCollum bridge mill, near Keno, for about ten days. He drank freely of Keno booze and when he arrived here he finished up his last spree. He was last seen on the streets about midnight, and having left his blankets in Head's wagon at an Alexander stable, it is generally supposed that he had been to there to find his bed, but being intoxicated he fell in to the stream flowing from the hot springs. He must have removed his clothing to dry while he went into the bath house to take his final wash. The jury returned a verdict as follows: We, the coroner's jury, find that the deceased, known by the name of Mike Moore, came to his death by accidental drowning while in an intoxicated condition.

From Klamath Falls Republican:

Judge J. B. Griffith, Commissioner Walker and Melhase and County Clerk Chastain visited Merrill Tuesday for the purpose of inspecting the county bridge at that place and decide on what repairs are necessary to put it in first-class condition.

G. D. Urzista, the tombstone man of Klamath Falls, has opened a valuable stone quarry on the mountain side northeast of the valley, and has been getting out stone bases for monuments this spring. The stone is a gray conglomerate, almost as hard as granite. He says it is the best stone he has been able to find in the county. He has brought the land and thinks himself fortunate.

Mr. and Mrs. Peary, of the reclamation service, and F. M. Chapman and wife enjoyed a trip to Odessa Sunday on a launch. Mr. Chapman, who has been here collecting specimens for the American Museum of New York, left Tuesday morning. His trip here was very successful and he speaks in words of highest praise over the cordial treatment accorded him.

A. H. Natzger, president of the California-Northeastern, arrived here last Friday. He had no public statement relative to the street railway situation. C. N. Hawkins, head of the Klamath Canal Company, arrived here today. He was equally reticent on the subject. Both gentlemen, however, admitted a conference was possible and it is understood that the question of reaching an agreement will be taken up today.

Claude R. Fountain, nephew of P. L. and John Fountain, of this city, has been elected to the chair of physics in Williams College, Massachusetts, one of the best established and high-class colleges of the New England states. Prof. Fountain is a Klamath Falls boy, having graduated from the public school in this city, after which he passed through the State University of Oregon and Columbia University, New York.

The following officers were installed by District Deputy Geo. I. Baldwin, of the A. O. U. W. Lodge, on Tuesday evening: W. O. Smith, E. M. W.; Roy Hamaker, M. W.; John Taylor, foreman; Frank Wilson, overseer; J. W. Stemons, recorder; Geo. T. Baldwin, receiver; Alex. Martin, J. F. Hunsaker; Walter Lenox, guide; Carl Egert, inside guard; W. W. Baldwin, outside guard. In his remarks after the ceremonies, Judge Baldwin stated that twenty years ago he assisted in installing the late J. W. Hamaker, father of the present M. W., as the first Master Workman of Linkville Lodge No. 110.

Twenty Years Battle.

"I was loser in a twenty year battle with chronic piles and malignant sores, until I tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve; which turned the tide, by curing both, till not a trace remains," writes A. Bruce, of Farmville, Va. Best for old Ulcers, Cuts, Burns and Wounds. 25c at Chas. Strang, druggist.

In Moderation—Yes.

A lady received the following reply from a neighbor in answer to the question why she allowed her children and husband to litter up every room in the house, and the sentiment will find lodging in the heart of every home-loving person in the land. "The mark of the little feet upon the floor can be easier removed than the stain when those little feet go down into the highways of evil. The prints of the little fingers on the window pane cannot shut out the sunshine half so much as the shadow that darknesses the mother's heart over the one who is but a name through coming years. And if my husband finds his home a refuge from care and trouble, and his greatest happiness within its four walls, he can put his boots in the rocking chair and hang his coat up on the floor every day in the week. And if I can stand it and he enjoys it, I cannot see that it is anybody else's business."

A Tragic Finish

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dike, which a cold's finger could have plugged, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth McIver, of Vanover, Me., permitted a little cold to go unnoticed until a tragic finish was only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure, at Chas. Strang, Medford, Ore. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

GAY FASHIONS OF THE PAST

Dandies of Past Centuries Would Make Solomon Look Sad.

Compared with the gay apparel worn by the dandies of the past ages the youths of our time in the gayest of gay raiment make but a poor show. The bishop of Ely in the fourteenth century had a change of raiment for every day in the year. The Earl of Northumberland boasted no less than sixty out of gold suits at his time. In Queen Mary's time the wardrobe of a bishop must have been the envy of Solomon for the variety and costliness of its contents, and even a simple village priest wore "a vestment of crimson satin, a vestment of crimson velvet, a stole and fanon set with pearls, etc."

In the time of Chaucer the men wore clothes as many colored as Joseph's coat, so that while one leg would be a blaze of crimson the other would be tricked out in green, blue or yellow without any regard for harmony or contrast.

Even as late as the middle of the eighteenth century a dandy would dress himself in a vivid green coat, a waistcoat of scarlet, yellow breeches and blue stockings.

And the gentleman of a few years later wore, among other vagaries, a coat of light green with sleeves too small for the arms and buttons too big for the sleeves; a pair of fine Manchester breeches without money in their pockets; clocked silk stockings; a club of hair behind larger than the head which carried it; a hat not larger than a siren's pipe.

It was a common thing in the early part of the eighteenth century for a man of fashion to spend several hours daily in the hands of his valet. Among the many operations which took up this time was "the starching of the beard and the proper perfuming of the garments, the painting of the face and anointing with oils, tinctures, essences and pomatums."—New York Herald.

THE FLAGOLET.

It Has Always Been the Love Plute

The flagolet is of peculiar interest to Americans, as from time immemorial it has been the medium through which the Indian youth courted their sweethearts at a distance when they were so unfortunate as to be unable to gain a personal audience.

The love or courting flute of the Apache is made of a round stick of cedar about twenty-four inches long, split lengthwise and hollowed to form an air chamber. A hole is made on each side of this diaphragm and a shallow air passage cut from one hole to the other.

Above it a cap of wood is placed for the purpose of covering the upper hole and the air channel. The lip is made of a thin sheet of lead and the whole bound together with a slender thong. In the tube part or body of the instrument are placed six finger holes, a condition that points unmistakably to the influence of contact with the white man.

The flagolet, as ordinarily understood, may be described as a whistle headed flute. In the seventeenth century English ladies often played on it. Sometimes two or three flagolet tubes were constructed with one head for the purpose of introducing notes in harmony. These were called double or triple flagolets, and a patent was taken out for this instrument by one Bainbridge.

An old English diary of 1687 contains this quaint reference to the double flagolet: "To Dumbleby's, the pipe-maker, there to advise about the making of a flagolet to go low and soft, and he do show me a way which to do, and also a fashion of having two pipes of the same note fastened together, so as I can play on one and then echo it upon the other, which is mighty pretty."—American Inventor.

Throwing Mud.

Unless words without meaning are used a person's vocabulary must be bounded by his knowledge. Many years ago I was teaching a class of poor children in the school connected with the Church of St. Paul's, Covent Garden. One day I exhibited a picture of a hayfield with men carting hay. I asked the children what the men were throwing up into the cart. They answered, without a moment's hesitation, "Mud!" It then occurred to me for the first time that these children had never seen a hayfield or the carting of hay, but the scavenger's cart, carting mud, they were quite familiar with, and hence they spoke within their knowledge.—London Notes and Queries.

The Word "Tarr."

Why is the word "tarr" a synonym for "sailor"? Some dictionaries say that the allusion is to the seaman's tarry hands and clothes—the "savour of tar" of Stephano's song in "The Tempest." Burns uses "tarrybrecks" as equivalent to "sailor." But it is regarded as much more probable that "tarr" is short for "tarpaulin," since Clarendon and other writers colloquially use "tarpaulin" to signify a seaman. Of course, this ultimately gets back to tar, a tarpaulin being a tarr'd "pallin," or covering (the same word as "pall").

Sure of His Choir.

A peppery New England person who was disturbed by his choir during prayer time got even with them when he gave out his closing hymn by adding, "I hope the entire congregation will join in singing their grand old hymn, and I know the choir will, for I heard them humming it during the prayer."
