Beverly of Graustark

placed the missile in her hands. The iron countess, however, had mistimed her lips with his tongue two or three times. Something told him that a valuable chance had gone. "I shall be only too happy to have your highness read the result of my first lesson in the Graustark language," she said, smiling gayly upon the count. Two men in uniform came rushing up to the party manifestly excited. "Laying the general, both began to speak at once."
"One at a time," commanded the count. "What is it?"
Other officers of the guard and a nobleman from the castle came up, out of breath.
"We have discerned signal fires in the hills, your excellency," said one of the men from the fort. "There is a circle of fires, and they mean something important. For half an hour they have been burning near the mountain, also in the valley below and on the mountains to the south."
There was an instant of deadly silence, as if the hearers awaited a crash. Marlow looked steadily at Beverly's face, and she saw the triumphant, acing gleam in his eyes. Helplessly she stared into the crowd of faces. Her eyes fell upon Baldo, who suddenly appeared in the background. His face wore a hunted, imploring look. The next instant he disappeared among the shadows.

Flame Built the Mansion House.
The Mansion House, London, was partly built out of money unjustly wrung from dissenters. By an act of Charles II. no one could take office under the corporation without taking the sacrament according to the rites of the Established church. By another act a sheriff who declined to serve was rendered liable to a fine of £400. A dissenter was elected sheriff, and, as he could not take the sacrament, he declined to serve and paid £400. A second was elected, with the same result. This ingenious method of taxing dissenters was repeated until forty-five had successively paid the fine. No. 46 was a stiff-necked gentleman, and he declined to either serve or pay. He was sued for the fine, but the judge held that the disqualifying act relieved the dissenter of the duty of service. The £18,000, however, already secured, was voted by the corporation to the building fund of the Mansion House.—London Standard.

Whipped Cream.
"Look here," shouted the irate neighbor over the fence, "your youngest son has been stoning my cats and pilfering my apple trees! He is a scoundrel!"
"Don't talk that way about my son," blurted the fond parent. "Why, he is considered the cream of our family."
"The cream, eh? Well, I'd like to see him whipped!"—Chicago News.

Tomatoes to the Livins.
"To a stranger the erection of a tombstone to a living person seems rather ghastly, but it's the custom in some New England villages," said the traveling man. "I was collecting quaint epigrams for a magazine article, and after I had put up my motor car on my arrival in a village, I would go straightway to the cemetery on an epigram hunt. There I would find, set up in lot after lot, tombstones of living people. Each stone would contain the name and the date of birth. Ghastly, wasn't it? I met a pretty girl in a hotel in New Hampshire. She was the land-lord's daughter. She showed me her stone in the cemetery. The last name was left blank in her case. 'I may marry, you know,' she explained."—New York Press.

Incapacitated.
As the "extra hand" rose from his dinner in the farm kitchen the farmer's son informed him that he was to pitch hay in the afternoon.
"I won't do it!" was the curt reply.
"All right, please yourself. It doesn't make any difference to me," retorted the farmer's son. "My father told me to deliver my message, and if you don't pitch you'll get into trouble with him!"
"I won't do it for either you or your father!" rejoined the man. "You should have told me sooner. At dinner time I filled myself for raking, and I can't pitch!"

Best Liniment on Earth.
Henry D. Baldwin, Supt. City Water Works, Shullburg, Wis., writes: "I have tried many kinds of liniment, but I have never received much benefit until I used Ballard's Snow Liniment for rheumatism and pains. I think it the best liniment on earth." 25, 50 and $1.00 Sold by Chas. Strang, Medford - Central Point Pharmacy

SUMMONS.
In the Circuit Court of Oregon for Jackson County.
George W. Daley, Plaintiff.
Belle Daley, Defendant.
To Belle Daley the above named Defendant: IN THE MATTER OF THE STATE OF OREGON: You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of plaintiff now on file in the above entitled court and cause within ten days from the date of the service of this summons upon you. If served within Jackson County, Oregon, and the date of the service of this summons upon you, and if served by publication then within six weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons, which is the 23rd day of November, 1906, and if you fail to answer within the time required, the plaintiff will apply to the court for relief demanded in his complaint, viz: for a decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony heretofore and now existing between plaintiff and defendant, and for the care and custody of the minor children of plaintiff and defendant.
This summons is served by publication in the Medford Mail, published at Medford, Jackson County, Oregon, once a week for six consecutive weeks, the first publication on the 23rd day of November, 1906, and the last on the 11th day of January, 1907, by order of the Hon. H. K. Hanna, Judge of said court, which order was made on the 20th day of November, 1906, in court. The time within which you are required to appear and answer is the 4th day of January, 1907.
GUS NEWBURY,
Attorney for plaintiff.

Dyspepsia of Women
Caused by Female Disorders and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. M. Wright

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.
These are the Kattos, or Vaipens, as they are nicknamed by the Boers on account of the dusty color their clothing acquires from the habit of brooding into holes in the ground, who live in the steppes region of the north Transvaal as far as the Limpopo.
As their complexion is almost a pitch black and their stature only about four feet, they are quite distinct from their tall-Bantu neighbors and from the yellowish Bushmen.
The "dogs" or "vultures," as the Zulus call them, are the "lowest of the low," being undoubtedly cannibals and often making a meal of their own aged and infirm, which the Bushmen never do.
Their habitations are holes in the ground, rock shelters and lately a few hovels. They have no arts or industries or even any weapons except those obtained in exchange for ostrich feathers, skins or ivory.
Whether they have any religious ideas it is impossible to say, all intercourse being restricted to barter carried on in a gesture language, for nobody has ever yet mastered their tongue, all that is known of their language being that it is absolutely distinct from that of both the Bushman and the Bantu.
There are no tribes, merely little family groups of from thirty to fifty individuals, each of which is presided over by a headman, whose functions are acquired not by heredity, but by personal qualities.
So little information is available concerning the Kattos that it is impossible to say anything about their racial affinities.—Scientific American.
