Klamath County News.
Klamath Falls Republican:
 The annual meeting of the stock holders of the Little Klamath Canal Co. was held at the Klamath County bank Monday when the following officers were elected: President, J.
 Frank Adams; vice-president, A. B.
 Libbey; secretary and treasurer, Alex Martin, Jr.; Mr. Adams was re-elected superintendent and ordered to collect the amount due the company. No further business of importance was transacted.
 A number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Cantrall surprised them last Friday evening and "warmed" their beautiful new home in the Hot Springs addition in good, old-fashioned form. Among those in the party were Messrs. Rhodes and Durham of Merrill, Morgan, Brock, and Lennox, Huson, Jacobs, Nickerson and Misses Golden, Hunt, Marple, Willard and Orem. The evening was most enjoyable, being enlivened by vocal selections by Mrs. Jessie Brock Morgan and others. Dancing was indulged in, music being furnished by Mr.
 Lennox. It was an occasion that will long remain a pleasant memory to Mr. and Mrs. Cantrall, as well as to those who so pleasantly surprised them.
 The lid came down last Sunday with a slam and a bang that was loud enough to be heard from one end of the county to the other, and right on top of it came Sheriff Obenohain.
 If there were any leaks no one was able to find them. The driest spot on earth was a roaring torrent when compared with this jolly. A few of the far-sighted ones had provided for the occasion by laying in a supply of the "Oh, be joyful." One chap wanted everyone to know what a far sighted cuss he was and got out on the street and proceeded to tell everyone within a radius of half a mile that he was not "dry," and to prove the correctness of his diagnosis he proceeded to do the serpentine down the middle of the street with a bottle in each hand. Last Friday Sheriff Obenohain issued his proclamation number two and this time took in everything from the cigar stand up. There was a howl, of course, but it will do no good for it is the Sheriff's intention to sit astride the lid until he turns the keys of his office over to his successor, and when Stiles says he is going to do a thing he generally does it.
 James M. Johnson, who was injured at the Klamath Bar Christmas eve, died at his home in this city Sunday morning. As a result thereof Frank Corpen and Peter Peterstainer are confined in the county jail on the charge of murder. Following the death of Johnson the coroner took charge of the remains and the inquest was held Monday. Practically the same evidence published in last week's Republican was given as the inquest, with the addition of that of Dr. Merryman who made the post mortem examination. He stated that the only injury found was that of the right eye. Death was due to a fracture and abscess back of the wounded eye. The silver that caused the injury first came in contact with the side of the nose, near the corner of the eye, glanced and penetrated the upper eyelid and the skull immediately back of the eye. [The piece of wood removed was 2 3/4 inches long. It was Dr.
 Merryman's opinion that if the injury had been inflicted by an instrument surgically clean death might not have resulted.]
Klamath Falls Express: Frank Corpen and Peter Peterstainer, charged by the coroner's jury with the murder of James M. Johnson, waived examination and were held to await the action of the grand jury without bail.
 Monday night at the meeting of the City Council the saloon license of Geo. Blehn for the Klamath Bar was ordered revoked. This action of the council was taken not altogether on account of the recent altercation there, resulting in the death of J. M.
 Johnson, but also because the saloon is within the proscribed limits of the public school grounds.
 Sheriff Obenohain has issued the following notice which has had the effect of closing Klamath county tight on Sunday—"If any person shall keep open any store, shop, grocery, ball alley, billiard room or tipping house, for purpose of labor or traffic, or any place of amusement, on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, or the Lord's day, such person, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not less than five nor more than fifty dollars, provided that the above provisions shall not apply to the keepers of drugstores, doctor shops, undertakers, livery stable keepers, barbers, butchers, and bakers, and all circumstances of necessity and mercy may be pleaded in defense, which shall be treated as questions of fact for the jury to determine, when the offense is tried by a jury." This is to inform you that on and after this date and the service of this notice upon you, any violation of the foregoing Section will be vigorously prosecuted.

A PERSIAN SERVANT.
 He Was Poetical Even if Useless and Dishonest.
 In one way Persia reminds one dimly of England, for there are such things as difficulties with servants even in Teheran. The author dismissed one of his servants, who, as he had been a tailor, was incompetent to do anything but sew on buttons. The man protested, "What will become of me now that I have been eating your salt for such a long time and am driven out into the streets?" He was reminded that he had only been employed for a fortnight. He answered that he felt it had been no good, but his volubility only increased. "How can I be no good after having stayed with you? Can you forget what I said? A piece of clay having fallen into the Hammam from my beloved's hand into mine, I took it. Art thou musk or ambergris, which catches at the beard?" He answered: "I was but a worthless piece of clay, but I was in company with a rose for a moment. This companionship transformed me or else I should still be the same piece of clay that I was."
 One can pity the state of an English mistress confronted with such an argument. The author kept his servant another week, and he remarks disconsolately that in that time he discovered that if the tailor was a poet he was also a thief.—London Globe.

THE MULE IN THE JUG.
 An Arab Proverb and the Legend That Gave It Birth.
 Who can affirm that the mule entered the jug?
 This proverb is frequently quoted to show that, though one may consciously believe in a thing which may seem extravagant in itself, it is better not to repeat it from fear of being disbelieved. It arises from the following Arabic legend: An Arab who denied the existence of gull once bought a mule and took it home. When performing his evening ablutions, he saw the mule enter a jug, and this so scared him that he ran shouting to the neighbors and told them what he had seen. They, thinking him mad, endeavored to appease him, but all in vain. He reiterated more and more, so that the authorities sent him to the madhouse. When the doctor came to see him, he repeated the account of what he had seen, whereupon the doctor ordered him to be detained. He continued upon each visit of the doctor to repeat his statement until his friends succeeded in persuading him that if he wished to regain his freedom he must recant. This he did, and the doctor set him at liberty, to the great joy of his family and friends. On making his ablutions as before he again saw the mule, this time peeping out of the jug, but on this occasion he contented himself with remarking to the mule: "Oh, yes, I see you well enough, but who would believe me? And I have had enough of the madhouse." Needless to say that the gent to avenge themselves for his disbelief in them had transformed one of themselves into a mule and as such entered the jug—

A ROCKING STONE.
 New York's Souvenir of the Remote Glacial Period.
 Though tons of thousands of persons yearly see the great rocking stone of Bronx park in New York city, few realize that it is the city's most conspicuous souvenir of the glacial period, when all of this section was covered with an ocean of ice some 1,500 feet thick that was moving slowly toward the south.
 That pinkish bit of granite, weighing thirty tons, standing seven and one-half feet above its rocky base, being ten feet broad and eight feet thick, came from the far north, carried in the relentless ice arms of the glacier that swept over the continent down to this latitude, marking its path by depositing great boulders as it moved and leaving scratches on the firm rocks beneath, from the sliding, grinding bits and masses of granite that settled to its base and were pushed along as it moved.
 This same boulder left its mark on the bare face of the rocky hill to the north of it, in which lies the crocodile pool. There the scratches are visible today, pointing to where the boulder stands and telling the story of part of its travels.
 When the melting ice departed from the great block of granite, it left it standing through the ages a rocking stone so delicately poised that a profuse shower of heavy snows exerted on its north northern angle causes its apex to sway north and south about two inches.—New York Herald.

ADVERTISING.
 The Mightiest Factor in the Modern Business World.
 "Advertising is today the mightiest factor in the business world," writes Truman A. De Weese in System, the Magazine of Business. "It is an evolution of modern industrial competition by a business builder, with a potency that goes beyond human desire. It is something more than a 'drummer' knocking at the door of the consumer, something more than mere salesmanship on paper.
 "Advertising is a positive creative force in business. It builds factories, skyscrapers and railroads. It makes two blades of grass grow in the business world where only one grew before. It multiplies human wants and intensifies desires. The result is that it forces man to greater consumption, hence stimulates his production to keep up with his buying desires.
 "Before advertising was developed into a fine art and before it became a factor in the commercial world the business of the manufacturer and merchant was to supply the normal needs and desires of the human family; merchandising was bounded by man's necessities and by his meager knowledge of the luxuries which he deemed worth his while."
Hint of Utterance.
 "If you want to study human nature just try being a salesman in a department store for even a short time," said the clerk over his evening meal. "There isn't a day but I have a quiet laugh over the remarks of customers, or, more frequently, would be customers. Today, for instance, I was approached by a well dressed elderly woman with the request to show her some caps and saucers. She did not want china ones—something in porcelain, for 'common everyday use,' she said. I brought out samples, and finally her choice stammered down to a plain white and the other a white with a dull grayish green figure. As if to account for her decision she said to me in a most confidential tone: 'I guess I'll take the gray ones. They won't show the dirt so soon.'—New York Press.

A Pugnaulous Super.
 When F. R. Benson, the actor, was training two armies of "supers" for a battle, he had some difficulty in persuading the weaker side to submit to be conquered. Even at the first performance the vanquished force, which included a somewhat pugnaulous Irishman, who may be called X, upset traditional usages by severely manning the victors, and the play must have suffered if the hint of one of the warriors had not been taken.
 "Look a-ber, Mr. Benson," he said, "if you want us to be beaten, you must put X in the other army. That's the only way."—London Standard.

Margaret's Alphabet.
 Little Margaret was having difficulty with the alphabet, which was being taught her in the good old way.
 The letter H was a desperate pitfall.
 If she could not remember, so her mother said, "See, Margaret, it looks like a gate." That was an inspiration.
 Now Margaret is in clover. She never forgets, but this is what she says: A, B, C, D, E, F, G, gate, I, etc. Her mother sees that her work ahead in making the little maid forget.—Washington Star.
