A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING

Belgium has one law that should appeal to our woman-suffragists. It gives to each married man two votes, while bachelors only have one.

Thirty servants will be required for the honeymoon ocean voyage of Gladys and her count, when she returns, about her divorce, fewer will do.

Chief Justice K. S. Egan of the supreme court has filed this petition, declaring himself a candidate for nomination and re-election to the supreme bench.

Honey has now convicted every man in Oregon he has prosecuted. The remaining land-fraud defendants will doubtless regard this information as both interesting and important.

Preaching socialism is one thing, practicing it quite another, as was once more demonstrated when Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Phelps Stokes sailed for Europe, occupying the most costly suite on the steamship.

Students at the University of Oregon have learned to erect a three-story railroad trestle, which is vastly more important than the modern science of building a three-story bonded debt on a railroad stock foundation.

The report that Bryan made $52,000 last year from his lectures is seized upon by Harper's Weekly as the subject for a cartoon representing the poetical leader as a bloated plutocrat. And yet, with all his faults, Bryan was well worth $52,000 to the people of the United States. If he did nothing else, he made such men as Fairbanks, Knox, Foraker and Cannon impossible Republican nominees for the presidency. And that alone is worth $52,000.

John Sharp Williams proved that he, too, could make pungent epigrams on occasion, when he said "the tariff on printing paper is a brain tax."

FROM COUNTY EXCHANGES

Gold Hill News:
The Gold Hill Gun Club held another practice shoot Sunday afternoon. The boys are taking unusual interest in shooting and a great many of them are developing into remarkable good marksmen. Marlon Lauce seems to lead with a small majority, but has many number of close seconds.

Word comes from Heppner, Oregon, that Frank Parker, of Heppner, Oregon, and Mrs. C. P. Parker, of Lexington, Oregon, were married at the home of Mrs. Parker's daughter, Mrs. Clyde Wells, Saturday, February 1, 1908. The contracting parties are both well and favorably known in Southern Oregon having lived at Gold Hill for a number of years. Mrs. Parker is the mother of Mrs. A. E. Kellogg, of this city. The News joins with a host of friends in offering congratulations.

Ashland Tidings:
Mrs. Bierenius an old time and respected resident of Jacksonville died at her home there on Sunday, February 2, 1908, of influenza and other complaints. Mrs. Bierenius is survived by several children among whom are Mrs. Ernest Langley and Mrs. Della Barber, of Jacksonville.

Omer W. Orviatt died at the home of his father, P. H. Orviatt on First Avenue yesterday, of consumption, aged 28 years. The deceased was a native of this county, but for years had resided at Portland, where ill health overtook him and with his wife he went to Southern California and Arizona. He grew worse, however, and started back to Portland, reaching Ashland on the homeward journey three weeks ago. Funeral services will be held here tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock after which the body will be taken to Jacksonville cemetery for interment.

John B. Griffin, of Holland, Josephine county, is greeting old tithemes in Ashland. It is his first visit here for half a dozen years and the place has grown out of his knowledge until he can scarcely get his bearings. Years ago John and his dog "Trailer" were the terror of bear in this region. He resided on a ranch in the Dead Indian country east of Ashland, whence he went on such frequent successful quests for brim that his reputation as a bear hunter, spread far and wide. He is now engaged in more peaceful and profitable occupation of farming and dairying and has abandoned bear hunting altogether.

Jacksonville Post:
Ephraim Owens, formerly a resident of Jacksonville, was found dead at Salinas, Cal., and was brought to this place for burial Saturday. He was lying near the railroad track and it is thought he was struck by a train. He was a native of Missouri and was 61 years of age. He leaves a mother and brothers who reside in Medford.

A Waiting Part.
One of my friends has a playhouse in her back yard, where all the children of the neighborhood delight to gather.

One day she went out to see what a crowd of them were doing and found they were playing at "keeping house" very happily, with one exception, her own five-year-old son, who was sitting afar off, rather lonesomely, holding a large rag doll.

"What's the matter, Sydney?" she inquired. "Won't the others play with you?"

"Oh, I'm playing," he replied. "I'm stork, but they ain't quite ready for the baby yet!"—Woman's Home Companion.

NOAH'S RAVENS.

A Knotty Question Answered by a Blacksmith Preacher.

Many years ago there lived in one of the mountain counties of Tennessee a blacksmith who to his reputation for honest work during the week added that of being a powerful orator on Sundays. Held in high esteem by his neighbors, possessed of a sufficiency of this world's goods for that primitive community, he seemed to have solved the question of terrestrial happiness, but the "thorn in the flesh" is indelible to all climes and conditions, and for the blacksmith it grew in the person of one Tom Bradley, a tall, lank mountaineer, who was the wit and wag of the neighborhood and who also occupied the unenviable position of skeptic in that orthodox community.

Tom delighted to prod the smith with certain inexplicable Biblical statements, and these encounters sometimes resulted disastrously for the exhorter, causing him much humiliation and making him, as he said, "wraasse in prayer and cry to the Lord and spare not."

Once at the yearly camp meeting the old man was giving his "experience" in the tone and manner that were considered devotional in those parts. "My brethren, ah," he said, "as I was a standin' in my shop an' gittin' ready to shoe Billy Hite's old gray mare, ah, 'long come that son of a gun Tom Bradley, ah. He sat me of I believed everything in the Bible, ah. I said everything from kiver to kiver, ah. 'Believe that yarn about Noah bein' shot up in the ark with all them different sort of critters, ah? sezze. 'Si, I done swallered Jonah an' the whale, ah, an' I wa'n't a-goin' to gag at Noah, ah.' 'Well, sezze, ah, 'ef that raven Noah sent out got lost, ah, where did all these here ravens come from, ah? Brethren, I thought for a minute, ah, that old Satan had got the underfoot on me, ah, an' was about to thoe me, ah; but, thank the Lord, ah, I just thood back my head, ah, an' the sperrit of knowledge pum filled me, ah, an' I sez, sezzi, 'It was the old be raven, ah, that got lost, an' the old she raven was a-settin' on five eggs in the nest, ah, an' that's where these here ravens come from, ah.'"
