Klamath County News.
Klamath Falls Republicans:
 W. A. Wright and son, Carl, will arrive home from Seattle Friday evening. Mr. Wright went to Seattle to bring Carl home, and found he had made a rapid recovery from his injuries, and is now able to walk with crutches.
 Superintendent H. G. Wilson, of the Indian reservation, who is in town, says that the Indians have commenced signing leases for the grazing of cattle. Over two hundred leases have already been given on that number of allotments. The new season commences the first of May and by that time the leases will probably exceed four hundred. This will accommodate over 200,000 head of outside cattle, besides the stock owned by the Indians themselves, and will mean an income of close to $25,000 for the government wards.
 The people of Klamath Falls have an opportunity of receiving their mail 3 hours earlier than at present if they wish it. Do the various clubs and organizations of this city intend to remain inactive, or will they win the praise of our citizens by doing something towards improving our mail service? The post office department has shown a disposition to accommodate the people as soon as they learned what their wishes were. Klamath county hasn't the only mail line in the United States, and Uncle Sam is not going to order any change, as long as the people, by their apparent disinterest, appear satisfied with the present service. Postmaster Murdoch states that he is ready and willing to endorse any recommendations or petitions made by the commercial bodies of the city, tending toward the improvement of the service. Under the contract the department can order the mail contractor to leave Pokogama with the mail immediately upon its arrival at that place. If this was done the mail would arrive here early in the morning and the patrons of the office would have all day to answer their correspondence. This would also be a great convenience to the local office. Under the schedule the entire mail from Pokogama, Fort Klamath, Bonanza, Lakeview and way stations, arriving here within a few hours of each other in the evening. This necessitates working a greater part of the night and sometimes, on account of the bulk of mail it is not possible to get it all distributed in time to make up the outgoing mail in the morning. Instead of the outside all laying over at Pokogama, it should be here being distributed during the day, and there would be only the east mail to handle at night.
Klamath Falls Express:
 At 5:30 Friday morning the jury acquitted Lee N. Johnstone on the charge of horse stealing after being out all night. The first ballot was 7 to 5 for acquittal; the second showed the jury evenly divided, 6 and 6, where it hung until the seventh which was 10 to 2 in favor of acquittal. The verdict of "Not guilty" was reached on the next ballot.
 Charley Combs worked hard and saved his money, depositing it in the Merrill bank. There being little work here now, about two weeks ago he went to Kennett, Calif., where his brother, Sam, has been for some time. While there he made the acquaintance of a young man, who was working with Sam, who persuaded him to go with him to Redding. When Charley's money came they got on the train the night of the 6th. The train reached Redding soon after midnight and at 7 o'clock in the morning Charley was found under the depot platform. Carrolls sold had done the deadly work, a broken bottle having the label of the Kennett drug store, lying near. All his money had been taken but 15 cents. The young man who was with him cannot be found. The remains were brought home and interred in the Merrill cemetery on the 12th. He left a father, mother, sister and four brothers to mourn his loss.

Neglected Colds Threaten Life.
 (From the Chicago Tribune.)
 "Don't trifle with a cold" is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in the case of a child. Proper food, good ventilation, and dry, warm clothing are the proper safeguards against colds. If they are maintained through the changeable weather of autumn, winter and spring, the chances of a surprise from an ordinary cold will be slight. But the ordinary cold will become severe if neglected, and a well established ripe cold is to the germs of diphtheria what honey is to the bee. The greatest menace to child life at this season of the year is the neglected cold. Whether it is a child or adult, the cold slight or severe, the very best treatment that can be adopted is to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is safe and sure. The great popularity and immense sale of this preparation has been attained by its remarkable cures of this ailment. A cold never results in pneumonia when it is given. For sale by Charles Strang.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Favorite.
 "We prefer Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to any other for our children," says L. J. Woodbury of Twining, Mich. "It has also done the work for us in hard colds and croup, and we take pleasure in recommending it." For sale by Chas. Strang.

KEEP THE LIVER CLEAN.
 Don't Overwork It and Give It a Rest Once in a While.
 A man of common sense and a doctor at that said: "The liver is misunderstood and undervalued in its functions. If it can be kept clean and active there is no reason why we should ever be ill a day, and we should live to be 150 or 200 years old. It would be necessary to rip this organ all to pieces with ten grains of calomel to get it stirred up. The best thing to do is to shut off your food supply for two or three days, drop your whisky and clear your tea and coffee, and give your liver a chance to rest. This should be done once a month."
 It is well known, of course, that in olden times the liver was supposed to be the seat of the affections. Friends when they met in the morning did not salute each other with "How's your health?" but with "How's your liver?" Men take horseback exercise principally for their livers. A good shaking up every morning drives away the circulatory encumbrance. It is an error to assume that whisky alone produces cirrhosis. Overfeeding is more often the cause. If the digestive organs would organize a union and work only eight hours a day all of us would be healthy and long lived. The trouble is we require the liver, stomach, bowels, heart, brain, muscles, nerves, kidneys, spleen, etc., to work all the time and overtime. Wrong. Give them a rest—New York Press.

MINING FOR RUBIES.
 The Primitive Methods That Are Still in Use in Burma.
 The system practiced for obtaining rubies in the mining districts in Burma is of the most primitive description, says the Searchlight. The mining shafts are simply holes about two feet square sunk to a depth varying up to fifty or sixty feet. The shoring up of the walls of the shaft is most crude, the sides being supported by posts at the corners and branches of small trees secured carefully against the sides by means of stout sticks.
 The miner carries a tin pot similar in shape to a blunt edged cone on his head. He squats down in one corner and digs between his knees in the opposite corner. The earth, or byon, as the ruby bearing earth is called, is conveyed to the tin as fast as it is excavated in small buckets let down from above.
 The apparatus for raising and lowering the buckets is simple in the extreme. A stout bamboo post about twenty feet high, called a manangon, is fixed upright in the ground at a convenient distance from the pit, or drain, and a long, thinner bamboo pivoted horizontally into the upper end of it so as to project an eighth from the mine and the long arm toward the mine.

FISHING LINES.
 The Very Finest Are Those Formed From Silk-worm Gut.
 Silk-worm gut forms the best line for fishing purposes, partly on account of its great tenacity and partly because it is so transparent. Every year a sufficient number of Spanish silk-worm grubs are selected for this purpose. After they have eaten enough mulberry leaves and before they begin to spin they are thrown into vinegar for several hours. Each insect is killed, and the substance which the grub in the natural course would have spun into a cocoon is forcibly drawn from the dead worm into a much thicker and shorter silken thread.
 The threads are then placed in pure water for about four hours and afterward dipped for ten minutes in a solution of soft soap. The fine outer skin is thus loosened so that the workman can remove it with his hands. The threads must be dried in a shady place and are often bleached with sulphur vapor until they acquire the bright appearance of spun glass.—London Telegraph.

The Witches.
 Doubtless of any man or woman has opportunity to do as well as they possibly can whatever comes their way. As a rule, it will be found that the most successful in the world are those who are "willing" for something to turn up. And by the same sign it is a fact that the most useful beings are those who have taken up the first thing that came to hand and done the best they could with it. These people usually find something to their liking in the long run, too, and if this be denied them they have the good sense to learn to like what comes.
 Long Flight by Night.
 Nearly all small birds make their long flights by night, spending the daytime quietly feeding and resting, so that if on any day in May the treetops are full of singing little warblers it is an sign that the following day will find them still there. Some kinds, like phoebe, song sparrows, meadow larks and bluebirds, come very early—as soon as the snow is all gone and the south sloping hillsides begin to feel warm and "smell of spring."—St. Nicholas.

Suspicious.
 Junior Partner: The bookkeeper has been married nearly six months now. Senior Partner: Well? Junior Partner: —Well, he hasn't asked for a raise in salary. Senior Partner:—Heaven! We'll have to have his accounts examined.—Philadelphia Press.
 Be brave in trouble: meet distress with dauntless courage; but when the going for prosperity blows be wise, no less, and shorten sail.—Horace.
 Repressed Sentiments.
 People who marry always bear good wishes, congratulations and other pleasant remarks, but they miss much in not hearing the repressed sentiments which burst forth to others. A woman who recently received a wedding announcement from a friend was heard to exclaim in tones of disgust, "What a willful disregard of the manufacture of Providence when she was so plainly intended for an old maid!"

When You Have a Bad Cold
 You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but will give permanent cure.
 You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectoration easy.
 You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.
 You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.
 Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all of these requirements, and for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds stands without a peer.
A Severe Cold Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
 "Last winter I caught a very severe cold which stopped my work," says J. O. Quibart, of Eagle, Ontario. "My cough was very dry and harsh. The local doctor recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One small bottle of it cured me. I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I have ever used."
