On Sunday the people of Butte Falls had memorial services in Albert's hall, which were well attended.

Mrs. Jennie Simpkins of Woodville came up last week to visit her mother, Mrs. Heckathorn, and her sister, Mrs. Frank Lewis.

Mrs. Lottie Van Scoy, widowed daughter of George Brown, went to Ashland last week to visit in her father-in-law's family.

Mrs. Joseph Rader was in Medford last Monday on business and on her return was accompanied by her brother, Mr. Rose of Phoenix.

Miss Lottie Taylor, Dr. Holt, Merritt Brown, Thomas and George Lewis and Wilbur Ashpole went to Portland last Monday to attend the rose carnival.

There was an entertainment given by the Butte Falls school last Friday evening. It is spoken of in the highest terms and those who attended report that it was a grand success and that the children performed their parts fine.

Messrs. Spencer and Farris and Miss Maud Prim of Butte Falls stopped here last Tuesday on their way to Medford. They report that they had a nice dance at Butte Falls Monday night; that Mrs. Albert gave the supper which gave very general satisfaction. Miss Prim has just closed her school in Butte Falls and was on her way to her home in Jacksonville.

Miss Bessie Haselton, having closed her school at Footh Creek, has returned home and gone to Lake Creek to finish the term of school there commenced by her father, Professor A. L. Haselton, which he had to give up on account of poor health. I stated in a former article that Miss Bertha Peachey had gone to Lake Creek to teach the school, but on her arrival her and the school board could not agree on the price of teaching and so she has gone to Grants Pass.

Died—At the family residence, in Brownboro, May 31, James K. Bell, aged about 55 years. He leaves a wife and several children, who are all about grown. Mr. Bell had been in poor health for several months and his death was not a surprise to his family or friends. He was a man who was highly respected by those who knew him.

The same day, May 31, Mr. McDonald, another old pioneer, passed away near Brownboro, quite suddenly, having been sick but a few days. He is supposed to have been over 70 years of age, but I have no way to get the facts. His remains were interred in the Brownboro cemetery last Tuesday.

Last Friday your correspondent took a trip to Ashland to attend the annual meeting of the Congregational association and on my arrival found that body at work planning for future work. Among those who were in attendance was Rev. H. N. Smith, superintendent of the Sunday school work in Oregon; Rev. A. A. Stillman of Eugene, H. B. Pinkerton, Mrs. T. A. Lipp, Mrs. Gillette, Rev. A. F. Fulson of Forest Grove, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hines of Portland, secretary of the Oregon Historical society; Rev. C. F. Clapp of Forest Grove, now state evangelist of the Congregational church; Rev. A. E. Bradstreet of Hubbard, E. C. Oakley of Oregon City, P. S. Knight of Salem, Rev. H. M. Lennay and H. H. Hicoff of Berkeley, Cal.; and Dr. J. E. Walker, who has been a missionary in China for 28 years. The services were well attended and the utmost harmony prevailed. Rev. Mr. Green, the pastor of the Congregational church in Ashland, and his wife seem to be very popular and the attendance at the regular church services, Sunday school and the Union league all showed their popularity. Arrangements were made to supply some of the places in this county that have been only partially cared for and the work was given a new inspiration. The preaching and lectures were exceptionally good and every one seemed to feel as though they had come to the right place to have a good time.

The stereopticon lecture, showing the work having been done by the missionaries in India, was a grand success and those who attended the series of meetings will have something to think of for a long time.

The Local Market

The first of the week found the produce market liberally supplied with potatoes, onions and the leading descriptions of miscellaneous vegetables, new arrivals being up to the average and the carry-over from last week large. Rhubarb and peas were firm, features and new arrivals of string beans sold at slightly higher prices, while squash, asparagus and carrots were easy with prices pointing downward. Potatoes were weak for both new and old stock, the arrival of news being slight.

Business in eggs and dairy produce was of unusually large proportions for Monday, as retail traders had allowed their stocks to run very low during the last of the week and were obliged to purchase more freely than usual in consequence. The increased trading was offset by liberal arrivals of all three descriptions and the only improvement in values was a slight advance in extra eggs.

Business in fresh fruits started off with a fair show of activity. Strawberries and early arrivals of the other berries sold readily at good prices, but the quotations for crated stock still had a wide range as to size and style of package. Citrus fruits were unchanged, there being nothing new to report in that department aside from the arrival of a shipment of navel oranges.

The poultry market had little interest to offer, opening rather quiet after the holiday and Monday being always a dull one for poultry, anyway. Fancy hens were in better demand and prices hardened a trifle, but broilers showed little or no improvement. The demand is a particular one and seeks fat fryers, young roosters or large hens, of which there is little or none received. Present receipts consist too entirely of medium or old hens and the trade is pretty well tired of them.

A groceryman said yesterday: "Notwithstanding the heavy fruit crops, we do not look for an excessively heavy pack of canned fruits, as the financial scare of last fall has evidently resulted in bringing about a most conservative course on the part of large buyers. The result of this is already seen in the fact that fruit canners are not in a position to name prices on crops excepting for a limited quantity. We believe that a number of canners will be unable to pack on account of not being able to obtain the necessary financial assistance. This is a problem that is facing many of the canners throughout the state, and notwithstanding the heavy fruit crop, it is our opinion that the output will likely be curtailed.

All indications point to the fact that the heavy purchasers in the East are going to buy on the hand-to-mouth policy, and this will undoubtedly take away the speculative feature of the business. The same applies to the dried fruit trade, which ordinarily uses the largest quantity of the fresh fruit crops. This trade is for the time being thoroughly demoralized, and it remains to be seen whether the cheap prices will stimulate business in a large way, or whether the buyers will pursue an ultra-conservative course, which seems quite likely. From present indications the buyers of these goods propose to force the producer and manufacturer to carry the goods from this year into next, excepting what buyers need for immediate requirements. The result will be that it will take millions of dollars to carry the products of Oregon. The dried fruit packer, therefore, will be unable to carry the goods, and it may devolve upon the producer to dry his own fruit, and carry it until the trade requires it. This will cause an outlay on the producer's part of money for labor and other incidental expenses, and unless the producer is financially fixed to carry this load he will be faced by a serious problem."

Low Rates to Newport and Yaquina.

Excursion tickets to Newport and Yaquina and return, June 1 to October 15, the Southern Pacific company will sell round-trip excursion tickets to the above-named points, good for six months, at $10. Full information at the depot.

A Handsome Publication.

Medford has to thank the Southern Pacific for one of the most handsome booklets that has as yet been issued regarding any location in this state. From the Sunset Press, the booklet is a thing of beauty and will no doubt be a joy forever to those whom it will undoubtedly induce to come to Medford.

Not alone is the presswork upon the booklet of a high order, but the material contained in the booklet is of a nature that will induce home-seekers to turn their attention to Medford. The truth is told and in a most entertaining manner. The booklet contains a large map showing the different routes to Medford and all over the map are hands which point out the way. All roads lead to Medford.

In the introduction, William McMurray, the general passenger agent of the Southern Pacific lines in Oregon, says:

"Vice-President Fairbanks, while on a recent visit to the West, termed Oregon 'The Land of Opportunity.' "The climatic conditions that characterize the state, the fertility of its soil, its deposits of precious metals, its magnificent forests, its immense water power that can be made available, its proximity to the Orient, and the vast possibilities which will be opened for it by irrigation, make those who have given the matter even a superficial consideration enthusiastic as to the future of this great state, and prove the above characterization a mild expression. The chief theater of events in the world's great hereafter is to be on the shores and islands of the Pacific. Oregon is one of the states that is thus placed in a position of extraordinary strategic importance. On account of this, it teems with opportunities for energetic, progressive men, and every consideration points to a very rapid increase during the next few years in the population of the state. It is one of the few sections of America that represents a virgin field of wonderful possibilities for men and capital.

"The interest of the Southern Pacific company in the development and upbuilding of Oregon is the reason for the publication of this little booklet. In presenting it for the earnest consideration of home-seekers, the Southern Pacific company does so, knowing that it can heartily recommend the Rogue River valley to their careful attention. The statements made in this booklet can be relied upon as accurate, and correspondence is solicited from those in any part of the country who may desire further information about the Rogue River valley or any part of Oregon. If intending home-seekers will communicate with the undersigned or with any of the names given in the latter part of this booklet, full information will be immediately and cheerfully furnished them, and every facility rendered in order that they may reach their destination with ease. We shall also be glad to wire the Medford Commercial club of the departure of any home-seeker for that section, and endeavor in other ways to render the journey pleasant and profitable."

There were 20,000 copies of the booklet printed. Of these, 10,000 are to be given to the Commercial club for distribution and 20,000 copies will be distributed by the Southern Pacific.

No Need of Suffering from Rheumatism.

It is a mistake to allow any one to suffer from rheumatism, as the pain can always be relieved, and in most cases a cure effected by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. The relief from pain which it affords is almost worth many times its cost. It makes sleep and rest possible. Even in cases of long standing this liniment should be used on account of the relief which it affords. Do not be discouraged until you have given it a trial. For sale by Chas. Strang.

Circuit Court Proceedings.

Martha S. Stunkard vs. Matthew Stunkard—Dismissed.

Lucy Mee vs. Harry Messler—Ordered that judgment be set aside.
