JACKSONVILLE AND VICINITY.

(By An Observer.)

Mrs. M. Bellinger and son Frank of Medford spent Sunday with her son, John, and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Godlove are being visited by Mrs. G.'s mother, sister and brother from the east.

The old Karewski house is being torn down and remodeled into a neat little cottage, which will add much to the appearance of the city.

Last Friday Dr. Hester of Jacksonville was called to the bedside of John Bellinger, who is quite ill, with a complication of la grippe and stomach trouble.

Mrs. Roberts, formerly of Sticky, has put up some fine buildings and greatly improved the place she has bought of W. D. Carey, and has now taken possession.

J. Nunan and wife are rusticating at Newport while their son Charles and daughters, Mrs. Josephine Russell and Miss Fannie, are looking after interests at home.

Mrs. John H. Bellinger has returned home from Dr. Burke's sanitarium near Santa Rosa, Cal., where she went for medical treatment, very much improved in health.

Mr. Gall, who is living on the Osgood place, was taken seriously ill last Wednesday. He was taken to Medford, where he received prompt attention from Dr. Seely, and at last accounts was improving.

Mrs. S. R. Taylor has sold her hostelry, known as the Taylor House, and has bought a cottage where she will take life easier. The new owner is making marked improvements in the building and grounds.

Wallace Woods of Medford has purchased the Denton farm, consisting of 32 acres. Part of the farm is set to fruit, but there are no buildings now on it, and just what improvements Mr. Woods intends making is not yet known.

A fishing party composed of Messrs. Raypholtz, Harrison and Van Widgin and another composed of Messrs. Bellinger, Himes, Mitchell and Himes, spent part of last week on the banks of the beautiful Rogue, but, having failed to provide themselves with anaesthetics to lull the finny beauties to sleep until they could catch them, they were obliged to return home unrewarded for their trip. Methinks next time they had better engage the services of "Toggery Bill," as he appears to be the crack fisherman.

BLACK LAND ITEMS
BY PECK'S BAD BOY

Haying is now on and every one is busy.

J. W. Smith has been indisposed for some time, but is somewhat improved at this writing.

At the Roosevelt school meeting last Monday F. G. Stinson was reelected director for a term of three years and Arthur Smith was elected clerk.

Miss Lucy Stimson spent a week recently with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Centers, who, having sold their farm near Medford, have rented a house until they have purchased a new home.

Alfred Smith, the rustling real estate man, accompanied by his wife and little daughter., took a ride out from Medford in their auto and spent the night with Alfred's father and brother, J. W. and Arthur.

Mrs. Lulu Perry and daughter Nellie of Jacksonville spent last Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gall, and also attended the Roosevelt school meeting, where the former handed in her report as clerk.

Mrs. E. J. Roberts has about finished moving her household goods and livestock from the old home, where she had resided for 20 years, to the 27-acre farm between Jacksonville and Medford, which is now ready for occupancy.

F. C. Roberts returned from a trip to Fort Klamath last Saturday, and after spending the night with his sister, Mrs. E. E. Gall, started for the Dead Indian ranch, where he will spend the summer herding cattle for M. F. and E. B. Hanley.

Mrs. John Bigham has returned home from a very pleasant visit at Portland with her sisters. Her two youngest daughters accompanied her and her oldest daughter, Miss Mary, kept house for her father and took care of the rest of the children during the absence of her mother.

My Hair Ran Away

Don't have a falling out with your hair. It might leave you! Then what? That would mean thin, scraggly, uneven, rough hair. Keep your hair at home! Fasten it tightly to your scalp! You can easily do it with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is something more than a simple hair dressing. It is a hair medicine, a hair tonic, a hair food.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONGRESS.

Hundreds of Additional Visitors Gather in Louisville.

(Associated Press Dispatch.)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 19.—Hundreds of additional visitors arrived in Louisville today to attend the international Sunday school convention. One of the most important matters under consideration is the report of the lesson committee, which will be acted upon by the convention tomorrow morning.

The executive committee recommends the adoption of the "findings" of the Boston conference held in Boston, January 2-3, 1898, when 60 prominent Sunday school leaders, representing 12 of the largest denominations and more than one-half the entire Sunday school enrollment of North America, unanimously agreed that "the system of a general lesson for the whole school, which has been in successful use for 35 years, is still the most practicable and effective system for the great majority of the Sunday schools of North America," and recommended "its continuance and fullest development." This conference also recognized the expressed need of a graded system of lessons, and voted to ask the Louisville convention to instruct the lesson committee "to continue the preparation of a thoroughly graded course."

If the recommendations are adopted, the convention will approve the continuance of the present uniform lesson—the same lesson for the entire school, and will also provide for a complete graded course of lessons for such schools as may desire it.

Jigley—You look prosperous, old man.

Grafton—Yes. I suppose you read about Markley's ambition to be governor

Jigley—Yes, I see by the papers that he says he's in the hands of his friends——

Grafton—Exactly. Well, I'm one of the friends.

Stomach Troubles.

Many remarkable cures of stomach troubles have been effected by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. One man who had spent over two thousand dollars for medicine and treatment was cured by a few boxes of these tablets. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at Charles Strang's drug store.

Good Roads.

(Oregon Journal.)

A speech delivered in the senate last April by Senator Bankhead ought to be in the hands of every farmer, yes, and of every business man in the country. Probably the rest of the senators did not listen to it at all; possibly it was not even delivered, but printed as having been delivered. This is as well, if it could get into general circulation. It was not about the currency, or the tariff, or railroads, or any subject occupying a great deal of public attention and space in the newspapers, but about good roads. And very few subjects are of greater importance throughout the country, including Oregon. The proposition under discussion was an amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill appropriating $500,000 for improving rural delivery route roads, providing states or counties appropriated equal amounts. In the course of his speech Mr. Bankhead said:

"Good roads are avenues of progress, the best proof of intelligence; they aid the social and religious advancement of the people; they increase the value of products; they save time, labor and money; they are the initial sources of commerce, which swell in great streams and flow everywhere, distributing the products of our fields, forests and factories. The highways are the common property of the country, their benefits are shared by all, and they are needed by all; they benefit all, and all should contribute to them." Farther along he said:

"The effects of good roads reach everybody. Both city and country share in their benefits. In justice and equity, therefore, everybody should contribute to the cost of their construction and maintenance. . . The average cost of hauling over wagon roads in this country is 25 cents per ton per mile and that the average haul is over 8 miles. The cost of hauling in Europe has, in many cases, been reduced to as low as 7 cents per ton per mile, and it has been established that good roads will reduce the cost to the farmers to as low as 10 cents per mile in this country. This means a reduction by half of the annual cost of transportation to the farmers. It is only necessary to consider the fact that the immense tonnage of farm products is hauled over the common roads to the railroad stations to realize what a tremendous saving is possible when we reduce the cost of transportation even 12½ cents per ton per mile."

Senator Bankhead is right in his reasoning that the people living along a highway should not have to pay all the cost of making a good road of it. This cost should be borne by all who are benefited. Whether the general government should help is a large question. How and to what extent the state should carry on the work is an important question. But whatever the best solution of the problem it should not be neglected. More interest should be taken in it, both in country and city. People need to educate themselves better to the great benefit of good roads. When this is once fully apprehended the ways and means will be devised.

NO DRINKS ON TRAINS.

Passenger Department Prepares to Comply With Law.

PORTLAND, June 19.—As a result of the June election, at which so large a part of the state went dry, officials of the Southern Pacific and O. R. & N. are making preparations to stop the sale of liquor on Southern Pacific and O. R. & N. trains through the dry counties. No liquor may be sold on trains while they are passing through the dry counties of the state and passengers will be obliged to do without whatever intoxicating beverage they specially favor.

From Gregory, on the state line to the south, to Jefferson, where the Southern Pacific crosses into Marion county, the first oasis in this state for northbound trains is about 200 miles, requiring almost a day's run. Through all that dreary waste of country passengers on trains will not be able to get a drop of liquor to drink.

On the O. R. & N. trains it will not be quite the same. Portland-bound, their last drink after entering the state may be taken in Baker county until they reach Wasco county, where prohibition has not yet been proclaimed.

The passenger department of the two Harriman lines is preparing to have printed on the menu cards in the diners on both lines that drinks cannot be served on board trains while passing through the dry counties. The same plan is followed in the East, when dry states are crossed by railroads.

The railroads cannot do otherwise than comply with the law in regard to selling liquor in dry territory and the passengers must abide by the restrictions. As the new regulation goes into effect througnout the Oregon counties which voted themselves dry on July 1, plans are now being made by the railroads to prevent liquor being served on board trains while passing through the dry counties after that date.

OREGON'S BIRTHDAY.

Steps Being Taken to Properly Observe the Day.

PORTLAND, June 19.—People of Oregon, led by the legislature in joint assembly and encouraged by speakers noted in the nation and honored in the state, will join in the semi-centennial celebration of admission day, Monday, February 15, 1908. On that date it is planned to have one of the most noteworthy gatherings in the history of the state assembled in the hall of representatives at Salem, where due honor and remembrance may be given to those who stood the brunt of the early struggles of the state and stood shoulder to shoulder in placing Oregon's star on the national flag.

February 14, 1859, Oregon became a state in the union and the 50th anniversary of that date will fall on Sunday, February 14, 1909. Since being admitted, Oregon has risen from an unknown country and a wilderness to one of the leading states of the union, and it is deemed fitting by many of the patriotic citizens of the state to do honor to the admission day and those who made it possible.

Following this thought, C. N. McArthur, a member of the house of representatives from Multnomah county, will introduce a joint resolution in the house on the first day of the session of 1909 providing for the semi-centennial on February 15, the postponement of one day being made necessary by the fact that the admission date falls on Sunday.

In the resolution it will be provided that the legislature meet in the hall of representatives on February 15 in joint assembly for the purpose of celebrating the admission of the state. The resolution will further provide that a committee be appointed from the house and senate to take charge of the preparations for the exercises and that the committee invite one of the well-known orators of the nation to be present on that occasion as the speaker of the day.

Following the plan that is now being considered, the celebration will be made an event of state-wide importance. The exercises will be held in the hall of representatives, where a vast audience may be accommodated. Besides the speaker of the day, some noted man from the East, it is expected to have Governor Chamberlain, George H. Williams and other pioneers and noted men of the state take part in the celebration. The pioneers' association and state historical association and other of the organizations of the state which represent in their membership the old men and women of the state, will be asked to take prominent part in the exercises.

At the session of the legislature of 1899 the 40th anniversary of the admission of the state was celebrated by the legislature in joint assembly, the scenes of the celebration making the meeting one of the memorable events of the history of the state. Ten years later, on the occasion of the completion of half a century of existence as a state, it is intended to make the exercises in commemoration of the event one of the historical events of Oregon.

WAS PLAYING TENNIS.

The President Was Not Surprised at Result.

(Associated Press Dispatch.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—The president was playing tennis when Secretary Loeb took to him the news of the nomination of Secretary Taft for the presidency. He had previously prepared a statement declaring Taft to be the best candidate the Republican party could possibly get and as soon as the nomination was made he gave it to the newspapers. Then he continued his game until time to go home to dinner.

In a statement the president says he has known Taft intimately for years and he does not think there could be found in all the country a man so well fitted to be president.

"He is not only absolutely fearless, absolutely disinterested and upright, but he has widest acquaintance with the nation's needs without and within and the broadest sympathies with all our citizens."

BATTLEFIELD OF CAMPAIGN.

Leaders Think Political Fight Will Be in Middle West.

(Washington, D. C., Dispatch to the Brooklyn Eagle, Ind.-Dem.)

Republican leaders believe that the battleground of the presidential campaign will be the Middle Western states, and not the East, as in former years. At the same time they admit that the situation there has large elements of danger. They do not know which way the radical vote will go, which gave to Roosevelt his tremendous pluralities i nthat section in 1904.

Party lines, Republican leaders state, have been badly shattered during the past two presidential campaigns. Whether Taft will be able to hold the great following which the progressive Roosevelt policies have in the Middle West is the problem that is worrying the managers. Some of them admit with surprising frankness that Johnson would certainly take away from Taft several of these states which Roosevelt carried with enormous votes, and further, that it is a question whether Taft will be able to hold them against Bryan.

Representative Charles F. Scott of Kansas expresses this fear. He is the Republican chairman of the house committee on agriculture, is the proprietor of a big newspaper and a keen political observer.

"The fight this year," said Mr. Scott, "will be in the states of Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska, instead of the East, where former contests have been determined. The reasons for the change of battleground are about as follows: The Roosevelt administration is popular in those states, where the people believe thoroughly in the Roosevelt program.

"The people of that section want the president's program carried forward. They are so earnest that if they thought it necessary to elect a Democratic administration in order to carry it forward they would do it.

"There is danger in the Middle Western situation. If the Democratic convention at Denver should have a lucid interval and nominate Johnson, I should think there would be a good chance of losing two or three Middle Western states. Of course, this will not happen. The Denver convention will nominate Mr. Bryan and he is not any stronger now than he was in 1900, unless he is made stronger by the failure of the Republican convention to take advantage of its opportunities."

SLOW, BUT SURE.

Local Man Recovers Money From the Government After Years.

D. E. Jones of Central Point has just received a draft from the United States government for $502, which he has had a claim against the government for a period extending over 48 years. The claim was for transportation and clothing during the civil war. Several times Mr. Jones has urged his claim and has received the sum when he had almost lost hope.
