

OUR COUNTY Correspondents

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS.

(By A. C. Howlett.)

Last week Rev. W. C. Reuter, pastor M. E. church of Medford, was a caller at the Sunnyside hotel.

Rev. A. C. Howlett will preach at Table Rock schoolhouse next Sunday at noon and at Agate at 3 p. m.

William Brown, one of the leading merchants here, has had a neat hen-house erected. Scott Bruce did the work.

Mr. McCabe, living on Rogue river, about five miles from here, brought in a load of hogs for Carlton & Holmes last Monday.

Israel Patton has moved another building back from near the street and is clearing away the rubbish and getting ready to build next summer.

Dr. Holt has been giving his new house a thorough painting and is fixing up his home so as to reflect credit on himself and beautify the town.

A man by the name of Drake, who has been staying here for several days, is engaged trimming Mr. Haak's fruit trees. He claims to be an expert at the business.

The Sunnyside hotel property is being improved by having a neat picket fence put around the premises, having it painted, having the cellar enlarged and things shaped up generally.

Green Mathews, who bought a three-acre tract of land off the old John Matthews place, paying $100 per acre, has it all fenced with a good wire fence and has it already plowed ready for tree planting.

W. E. Lane of Medford, the man who bought the Sam Jackson place in the lower part of town, spent two or three days with us last week, and while here made arrangements with S. H. Harnish to work his place for two years.

Since Henry Daley has bought out Mr. Deter in the meat market here he has fixed up a place for slaughtering hogs, and sheep in the old Daley barn, and he and Mr. Terrill are doing a good business in that line. Henry is wideawake and a general hustler.

Rev. Mark C. Davis, the traveling Sunday school evangelist, arrived last Sunday evening and preached for us, and on Tuesday evening he preached at the Reece Creek schoolhouse. He is about the busiest man I know of in these parts. He reports having grand success at Willow Springs, Moonville and Chapperell, in fact, all over his entire work in Southern Oregon.

B. H. Harris and his bookkeeper, Miss McDonald, were callers at the Sunnyside last week. They had been up to Butte Falls on business and Mr. Harris was getting ready to start for Michigan. Mr. Boughton and wife, with their two youngest children, stayed with us the same night, and the next day she went to Medford, joined Mr. Harris and they went together to Michigan to visit her mother, whom she had not seen for seven years.

Last Sunday A. C. Howlett preached at the Derby schoolhouse in the forenoon and at Reece creek in the afternoon. The people of Derby have lined the interior of the schoolhouse with nice, clean lumber and have the material on the ground to build a woodhouse, and the first thing the people of Jackson county know they will learn that Derby has a new and commodious schoolhouse. They have a store already and people are beginning to realize that the foothills are good orchard land. Mrs. Hume is teaching the Derby school.

E. S. Wolfer, the strawberry man, is kept busy in his strawberry field tending the plants and gathering the strawberries. That sounds or reads strange. The idea of having ripe strawberries here in November, but he keeps the Sunnyside supplied and sells quite a lot to outsiders from a distance. He remarked the other day that he would be able to dispose of all of his plants this fall, as he is constantly receiving orders for more plants, and one man has ordered 10,000 and this is an order where he has already sold several thousand.

Last Monday Messrs. B. F. Blaine of Ione, Morrow county, Oregon, and H. S. Rawley of New Mexico, came to look. They remained over night at the Sunnyside hotel and were so favorably impressed with the surroundings that they decided to locate here if they could find a place that would suit them. They wanted to rent small places where they could have water to irrigate or buy if the terms were such that could be within their reach. Thus this community is gradually filling up with people of the right class. Among the first things after the price of land they asked was about churches and schools, and although there is not regular preaching here now, it is expected in the near future. Then there is as good a school here as one would wish for. Professor Henry is principal and Miss Burtley Peachey is primary teacher. She told me last evening that if there was many more came in her room she would have to have an assistant, so it can be seen that the good work is going on.
