HAD NARROW ESCAPE.
Son of J. W. Bell Had Leg Broken by Tree Falling on Him.
The son of J. W. Bell of Talent, aged about 4 years, met with a serious accident Wednesday. It seems the child has been living with the family of A. Weiss on Dry creek for some time, and when Mr. Weiss went out near the house to cut some wood the little fellow went along to see the tree fall. Mr. Weiss placed him where he felt certain he was out of danger, but the tree fell in the opposite direction from what was intended.
As it started, Weiss yelled to the boy to run, which he started to do, but before he was out of its way a limb struck him, breaking his left leg a short distance above the knee. Dr. Conroy was at once sent for and reduced the fracture and the little fellow was resting easy at last accounts.

Aif Weeks, of the orchard company of Weeks & Deuel, is in the city spending the holidays. Mr Weeks tells that he is decidedly busy at the orchard near Woodville this winter. He is putting out 100 acres of pear trees, comprising all the commercial varieties, and that he has put up two and a half miles of rabbit-proof fence, this encircling a good part of land set to trees.
Last winter this company set 65 acres of apple trees and 15 acres of grapes, but unfortunately the rabbits did considerable damage to these vines.

WERE NOT SUCCESSFUL.
Two Ladies Who Started Dancing Academy Here Now in Seattle.
Quite a few people are wondering why Mrs. Creviston and Mrs. Clark, two ladies who came here from Indiana a few weeks ago and started a dancing academy, did not remain. They gave lessons for one evening in the Red Men's hall and appeared to give very good satisfaction, but there was nothing doing when the date for the next lesson arrived.
According to a letter received from Mrs. Creviston by Secretary Miller of the Medford Commercial club yesterday it appears that the two ladies have gone to Seattle. However, they intend to return here. In the meantime they are "singing praises of Medford."
