WHEN BETTY TAYLOR WAS QUEEN.

How many readers of the daily dispatches gave a second thought to the telegram from Winchester, Va., relating that Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor Dandridge was dying? Yet exactly sixty years ago "Betty" Taylor was the first lady of the land, filling her invalid mother's place at the White House.

A few weeks after the election of her father, Zachary Taylor, to the presidency, Elizabeth Taylor married an army officer, Captain Bliss, nicknamed for his attainments and popularity "Perfect Bliss." For one year, and until General Taylor's death, this charming young woman presided over the executive mansion in a manner that has linked her popularity and her graciousness with the fame of Dolly Madison.

What a leap in the nation's history from 1849 to 1909! What tales of social customs and social triumphs, of the nation's giants and heroes, and of the nation's vicissitudes, this aged woman, now in her eighty-seventh year, might tell! And how it must come to her that of those who shared in the achievements of that time and the pleasures of her republican court perhaps not one is living today.

Fourteen presidents have sat in the White House since "Betty" Taylor reigned as queen. In that time the United States has gone twice to war. Party lines have been upset; the party of her father has vanished and new parties and new orders have sprung up. All the wonderful inventions of modern science have come to light in sixty years, and the country that "Betty" Taylor's father ruled is no more like the country of the dying woman at Winchester than the country of her young womanhood was like the primitive colony.

The years roll swiftly. "Betty" Taylor belonged to the past and doubtless lived in the memory of the past. And yet it may occur to some to say of her, as is said from time to time of the more unhappy and more luckless Eugenie, "This woman was once a queen."

PENALTIES OF THIRST IN KANSAS.

Not many years ago a certain well-known character, a resident of Kansas, remarked concerning human existence along the Kaw river, "Life in Kansas is no joke." This observation was based on personal experience with the state prohibition law as then existing.

If this same contemplative gentleman is living today he will doubtless find further eloquent and convincing reason why life in Kansas does not appeal to the humorous fancy. If it was no joke at a time when the thirsty citizen could without much difficulty or peril slake his thirst at his club or at the joint, how much less facetious is it now when the yielder to temptation must tell where his wants were gratified or go to jail?

If there is honor among drinkers, as well as among other representatives not to be mentioned in a playful spirit—Kansas must soon go dry in fact as well as in law, or the jails and the penitentiaries will be filled to overflowing. For to induce a fellow-citizen to sell you a stimulant or a sedative, and then betray him to the district attorney, is a breach of confidence from which any prospective constituent might well shrink.

At last Kansas is face to face with the real thing, so far as an oppressive stimulant law is concerned. How it will meet the new situation, or whether it will find a way, as formerly, to evade the law and keep in liquor and out of jail, is the problem to be decided. The state motto, "Ad Astra per Aspera," seems to bear out the promise of new difficulties in meeting the state.

NOTED WOMAN DIES.

Daughter of Twelfth President of the United States Died Yesterday.

WINCHESTER, Va., July 31.—Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor Dandridge, daughter of General Zachary Taylor, twelfth president of the United States, and sister-in-law of the first Mrs. Jefferson Davis, died at her home here today, aged 85 years.

Mrs. Dandridge was the third daughter of General Zachary Taylor, twelfth president of the United States, and was born at Fort Snelling, Minn., April 29, 1824.

Death was due to heart failure, following a long period of illness. She will be buried here next Tuesday.

Mrs. Dandridge received her education in Philadelphia. At the age of 19 years she married Major William W. S. Bliss, who was a member of her father's staff in the Mexican war, and who later became his private secretary. After her father's inauguration, Mrs. Bliss, or

Miss "Betty," as she was popularly called, became mistress of the White House. It was said of her that she "did the honors of the establishment with the artlessness of a rustic belle and the grace of a duchess." She had a wide acquaintance with public men of the day, and was noted for her beauty and charm and the splendor of her entertainments.

After the death of her father, 16 months following his inauguration, and the death of her husband in 1853, she spent several years in retirement, later marrying Philip P. Dandridge, a member of a prominent Virginia family, whose death occurred 28 years ago.

COWARD POPULAR HERO.

All You Have to Do Is to Remove Timidity Nerve.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—To make a hero out of a man, take the small nerve that centers in the medulla oblongata out of him. That is the newest paradoxical recipe advanced by Dr. Bonnier, a French surgeon of note.

"Such emotions as fear and melancholy are conveyed by a small nerve which springs from the human brain near the medulla oblongata at the top of the spinal cord," says the physician.

Dr. Bonnier adds that he has removed this nerve and so relieved greatly persons suffering from melancholia and timidity.

Other surgeons seem skeptical about the value of Dr. Bonnier's discovery; but newspaper paragraphs find opportunity to discuss the possibility of turning a coward into a hero by a surgical operation.

The sporting fraternity was tremendously interested in the discovery today. Old Tom Sharkey declared that the French surgeon had merely discovered what was termed the yellow streak and cut it out.

PORTLAND SOUB AT TAFT.

President Cuts Short Stay to Honor California.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Yielding to appeals from a delegation of California congressmen, President Taft has promised to curtail his visit in Portland in order to stop at Oakland and Berkeley after his stop in San Francisco. When the California delegation learned that the president intended spending two days in Portland and only half a day in San Francisco, and contemplated no stops in Oakland or Berkeley, they decided to enter a protest, and after their conference with the president, announced that he had acquiesced in their wishes.

The president had originally planned arriving in Portland early Saturday morning, October 2, and leaving for California at 7 p. m. Sunday, October 3. According to the California congressmen who saw him today, he has changed his plan and will now leave Portland Sunday morning, October 3, at 6 o'clock.

HANLEY CASE IS NOW ON TRIAL

John S. Coke of Marshfield, judge, City of Medford, plaintiff.
M. F. Hanley, defendant.
Porter J. Neff of Medford, plaintiff's attorney.

E. A. Reames of Jacksonville, defendant's attorney.
The jury selected are:
J. W. Grover of Eagle Point.
C. J. Seaman.
George Garrett of Medford.
C. A. Ellason of Ashland.
Fred Minthorn of Woodville.
William Von der Hellen of Eagle Point.

Charles W. Losland of Eagle Point.
J. J. Murphy of Ashland.
Isaac A. Merriman of Central Point.
T. J. Fish of Phoenix.
George F. Weeks of Trail creek.

The above are the ones who are taking an active part in the case before the city of Medford and M. F. Hanley in connection with the laying of the water-pipe line across the Hanley ranch. It will be remembered that when Judge Hanna refused to call a special term of the circuit court in order to hear this important case that Governor Benson of this state ordered that Judge John S. Coke come here and hold a special session of the court for the purpose named, which was to begin August 2.

Court in Session.

In conformance with that order, Judge Coke called a session of the court and the sheriff summoned the jury. The day was taken up with listening to the arguments of the attorneys on both sides. Attorney Reames contended that the governor had no right or authority to call the special session. He also stated that he had no authority to appear at this session for Mr. Hanley and did not want his name to appear on the records as doing so.

City Attorney Neff replied to Mr. Reames and cited the authority that the governor had for the calling of the special session for the purpose named. He claimed that the governor had a perfect right to call it, and that the judge named had also a perfect right to hold court as was ordered by the chief executive.

Visit the Place.

This morning the members of the jury will be taken out in automobiles over the route where it is proposed to lay the pipe line. They will be in charge of two deputy sheriffs. Councilman Demmer will also go along, and Consulting Engineer Rogers will go ahead of the party and point out the way and the direction, as well as to give other necessary information. In his instructions Judge Coke informed him that he could not enter into any conversation with the jury in carrying out what he was to do.

The party will return this evening and the case will be resumed again tomorrow morning. It is expected that the members of the jury will have a far better idea of the different points involved in connection with the case after they have seen the place for themselves.

The members of the jury in the water case of the city and M. F. Hanley, accompanied by two deputy sheriffs, went out in automobiles yesterday morning in order to look over the land of the Hanley ranch and also other matters pertaining to it in the suit now being heard by Judge Coke at Jacksonville.

It is claimed by those who are in a position to know that the scheme which Attorney Reames will adopt in connection and following the advice of his client, Mr. Hanley, will be that if the suit should go in favor of the city of Medford that an injunction will be asked for to set aside all findings of the special session of the court called by Judge Coke through the orders received from Governor Benson.

The members of the jury returned last evening and then proceeded on to Ashland. The case will be resumed before Judge Coke there this morning and the chances are that all the evidence will be in and the case left in the hands of the jury either by tonight or tomorrow morning.

The water suit now going on at Jacksonville between the city and M. F. Hanley will not delay the matter of proceeding with the laying of the pipe to any great extent. Nor will that of the destruction of the National Wood Pipe company's works at Olympia, Wash., by fire.

Outside of the matter in dispute by the law suit, there is yet ten miles of wood pipe to be laid. Fortunately there was plenty either here or on the road when the fire happened, and since that the company has submitted the contract to the Portland Wood Pipe company, which has recently started a factory at Portland, and four carloads are on the way from there now.

It is stated that the Washington company would like to start up a new factory at Portland, but that the ground occupied by the other one at Olympia was donated for this purpose and the company would likely lose it if they built elsewhere.

CALLED TO THE DALLIES.
W. Vogell left Medford yesterday

for The Dalles, Oregon, whither he was called by a telegram announcing the serious illness of his father, Henry Vogell. The senior Mr. Vogell was a resident of Jackson county for a number of years, having been engaged in the stock business at Beagle and afterward a resident of Medford. He is 83 years old and a highly respected, honest and honorable citizen.

STRUCK BY TRAIN

R. R. Pugh of Spokane Has Close Call to Instant Death

Considerable excitement was caused at the Southern Pacific railway depot yesterday morning about 9:30 o'clock when a man was struck in front of the depot by the fast Shasta limited train as it was pulling into the city from the south. Those who saw the accident felt sure that the man had been killed, but after the doctors made an examination at the hospital they stated that the victim was not dangerously injured and would be all right again in a week or so.

Was From Spokane.

From letters and papers found in the man's clothes it was ascertained by Chief of Police Shearer that his name was R. R. Pugh of Spokane, Wash., who had only arrived in Medford the night before. Just as the locomotive was opposite the baggage room door, E. W. Carder, the baggage master, noticed the man walk on to the track directly in front of the train. He called to him and tried to reach him and pull him away, but before he could do so the pilot of the engine struck him and knocked him a distance of eight or ten feet and to one side.

Mr. Carder was the first to reach the man and with others they carried him to the shade. One of the first doctors there was Dr. Harry Lane, the ex-mayor of Portland, who was a passenger on the train. Drs. Pickle and Conroy arrived soon after and the injured man was removed to the Medford hospital.

Had Some Booze.

Pugh was undoubtedly under the influence of liquor when the accident happened. He was at the time looking at a freight train on another track. When he registered for a room the night before he left $10 in charge of the clerk. Yesterday morning he drew $2.50 of that amount and as he only had 50 cents on him, the chances are that he spent $2 around the saloons before he "looped the loop."

THAW IS INSANE

So Declare Expert Alienists in the Celebrated Case

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Three alienists united today and made it unpleasant for Harry Thaw. All three testified that he is insane, and when Thaw took the stand briefly, after some disconcerting testimony, he was plainly rattled and nervous, but Jerome dismissed him after a few comparatively unimportant questions.

Drs. Flint, Hirsch and Baker were the alienists who testified. Baker's testimony was most important. He is superintendent of Matteawan and testifying without compensation, to which fact Justice Mills called attention.

Baker said that in his opinion Thaw is now insane and is a dangerous person to be at large.

Thaw was called to the stand by Jerome, following Baker's testimony. He was pale and apparently shaken. He and Jerome indulged in a sparring match over Thaw's interference in his two trials, and his discharging of the lawyers, after which Dr. Flint described a paranoiac as a person afflicted with certain delusions, but who may otherwise be mentally normal except so far as delusions influence him. Flint said a paranoiac would never recover.

Dr. Hirsch declared Thaw is a "disgenerate paranoiac." This alienist was given several unhappy moments by Thaw's counsel, who, referring to a book Hirsch is writing, asked the alienist if in his book Hirsch claimed that Jesus Christ was a paranoiac.

REQUEST TO WED DENIED.

Japanese and White Girl Can't Get Married Yet.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 3.—Thomas Brents, judge of the Superior court, and Justice of the Peace T. M. McKinney have refused to unite in marriage Minnie Crockett, a white girl of this city, and Frank Ishikuro, a local Japanese. The judge refused on the ground that they did not believe in mixing races. Several ministers were then applied to, but in every instance the couple were turned down.

Ishikuro stated today that he would try until he found someone who would be willing to perform the ceremony.

ACCIDENT WAS DEATH TRAGEDY

GRANTS, PASS, Or., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Frank Ellis, Arthur Vineyard and their wives, camped at the caves, were exploring the caves when Ellis tried to climb up to an upper chamber and had his revolver in his hand. He slipped and as he fell the gun was discharged, hitting him in the eye and coming out at the top of his head. His wife ran to him, picked him up and held him upon her lap, trying to stop the flow of blood. He lived two or three hours, but never spoke or gained consciousness.

Vineyard and his wife were right behind Ellis when the shot was fired, but thought someone was shooting at the crowd and ran for the opening and went on out and down to the camp and would not go back.

Mrs. Ellis stayed with her husband, but after about four or five hours, when he began to get stiff, she realized that he was dead. She got hold of a rope and crawled out and walked down to the camp, and they went to the phone and notified her folks here.

The body arrived tonight. It will be taken to Dallas, Or., where the father and mother live.

CZAR VISITS ENGLAND

Russia's Ruler Is Being Feted and Heavily Guarded

COWES, England, Aug. 2.—The first official visit of Nicholas to England was one of the most impressive spectacles which Cowes has ever witnessed. King Edward, with most of the members of the royal family, put out on the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, and met the imperial yacht Standart and the squadron of warships accompanying it, off Spithead. Nicholas immediately went aboard the British yacht, where he was greeted by King Edward.

After luncheon the Russian squadron with the Victoria and Albert leading the way, the monarchs reviewed the British fleet, consisting of 26 battleships, 16 armored cruisers, 8 other cruisers, 48 torpedo boats, 100 gun destroyers, besides the warships there were hundreds of fishing and other vessels of all descriptions.

The measures taken to safeguard Nicholas made him seem like a prisoner of state compared with other royal personages, who visited the Cowes regatta this week. The Standart dropped anchor between two battleships, which surrounded the other naval vessels, while the small boats patrolled about the visitors constantly.

Scotland Yard has a hundred detectives at Cowes, and the Russian police department has an equal representation. The emperor will remain aboard his ship during the visit, except for the brief trip ashore to the Cowes naval school Wednesday morning.

JOKE ON BALLOONIST

Lady Companion Makes Ascent With Him

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 2.—Morris A. Helmann almost went up in a balloon today. Instead of actually flying he stood on terra firma and watched Miss Julia Hoerner, whom he was to take for a sail in the clouds and the pilot, John Berry, soaring above him, as he shouted for them to wait.

Just as the balloon was ready, Miss Hoerner had a bystander call Helmann to the telephone. Helmann had just discovered the joke and started to return to the balloon when he heard a shout and saw the big balloon slowly sailing over his head, Miss Hoerner waving at him, while Berry dumped out ballast to make sure of getting away.

The balloon landed at Barnhart, Mo., 29 miles from the starting point at 2 o'clock. The bag dropped in a clover field, making a safe and easy landing. Having plenty of gas and ballast left, Miss Hoerner tied the drag rope to a tree and made several excursions in the captive balloon with several natives, who, drawn by curiosity, came to where the balloon was anchored.

Incidentally, the runaway took Helmann's cent with them, and in it was all his money. He walked home, Miss Hoerner said she could not resist the temptation to steal the balloon.
