

Are Doctors Any Good?

Foolish question! Yet some people act as if a medicine could take the place of a doctor! The best medicine in the world cannot do this. Have a family doctor, consult him frequently, trust him fully. If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds, we would not offer it to you. Ask your doctor. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Pills for constipation, biliousness, sick-headache, we would not offer them to you. Ask your own doctor about this.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS.

(By A. C. Hewlett.)

Died—July 21, 1909, infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Woods.

Mrs. Howlett has men at work building a storeroom, so as to give her more room.

Rev. A. C. Howlett will preach at Derby next Sunday at 11 o'clock a. m., and Reece Creek at 3:30 p. m.

Mrs. J. C. Bonner, whose husband is an eye specialist, was a guest at the Sunnyside the first of last week.

Died—July 20, 1909, at the family residence, three miles north of Eagle Point, John Dahack, aged about 70 years.

S. H. Harnish and family and Henry Daley went to Crater Lake last week, to be gone for about two weeks.

Prof. J. C. Johnson, who taught the Reese creek school last year, and is engaged to teach this coming season, returned to that settlement last Tuesday.

G. H. Wamsley, daughter, Miss Mable and niece, Miss May Fickel, with L. E. Smith as teamster and guide, started for Crater Lake last Monday morning.

Mrs. Samuel Bruce of the unsurvived region, came out on Thursday of last week and is a guest at the Sunnyside. Her husband is working at the carpentering business on Jas. Jordan's new house.

A. H. Boothby, formerly of Prospect, but now of Central California, who has been visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arrant, of Klamath county, passed through here last Tuesday afternoon for Ashland.

On Saturday of last week your Eagle Point correspondent took a trip up to Peyton, where he preached twice on Sunday, and while on the road and in that and the adjoining neighborhood he met quite a number of people on their way to Crater Lake and Fort Klamath; also several teams hauling lumber out to the railroad at Eagle Point. The Derby sawmill was running at full speed and turning out a fine lot of lumber. While on the road I learned that Mr. Riggings was at work in Medford, carpentering; that A. B. Zimmerman, the man that bought out the A. J. Daley store, was preparing to move his family to Eagle Point; that Frank Neil and his two youngest daughters had gone to the county seat to visit his father, Hon. J. R. Neil; that Hon. Hafer of Medford and wife and a lady and gentleman friend had started for the Iowa lumber camp and when about half way between here and the camp their auto broke down; that Mr. Ditsworth, who happened to be passing with his load for Fort Klamath, picked up the two ladies and took them as far as he went on their road, and that the others had to walk all the way, as they could not procure a rig; that Mr. Stewart and Mrs. Susan Perry were up to the Stewart place, on Rogue river; that the crop of fruit, especially apples, was not so good as usual, but that the berry crop was up to the standard; that Mr. Swihart, the Derby merchant, was building a new store on the road near the Derby postoffice; that that part of the country was filling up very fast and everything in the business line was looking up.

While in the neighborhood of Peyton I visited Mr. Ditsworth's blackberry garden, potato patch, etc., and talking about berries, Mr. Ditsworth has about an acre in blackberries, and the vines are simply loaded, and he calculates that he will be able to market 600 gallons off of it this season. He was gathering his first picking last Monday to take to Klamath county, where he thinks he will dispose of the whole crop.

While in the neighborhood of Peyton I learned that John Pankey had taken the contract to cut and deliver in the log the timber on the Dr. Ray tract of land near Prospect.

On Monday morning I crossed the river on the Flounce Rock bridge, and visited the farm of T. M. Peelor, known as the Charley Knighton place, and he and his son-in-law and partner, Mr. Blanchard, were hauling in their oat hay and there was a large lot of it that measures six feet in length, and he had some that measured seven feet. Talking about hay, up in that part of the county they have an abundance of it and almost everything else that they want. I also called on and spent the night with F. B. Higinbotham, at one time a correspondent of the Medford Mail, and he tells me that he and his son, Bert, will cut and put up 60 tons of hay this year, and judging from the appearance of the barns and neat alfalfa, there will be no lack of hay on that road. Speaking about the road, that it, where the county had been doing so much work during the past winter and spring, cutting out the Tucker hill, and the workmen have done a good job, and after it is traveled a while and a little more work done on it, we will have a fine road to travel, although it is rather narrow in some places.

Going on to Trail, I found that little village a bustling little place, and mine hostess, Mrs. Middlebush, seemed to be just as busy as she could be, both in her store and post-office and hotel.

On arriving home I found that the railroad men were rushing their work along, laying ties and putting down the rails; that the teamsters were hauling out the pipe for the Medford waterworks, and everything about Eagle Point was going right along.

IN MEMORIAM.

Sarah Jane Johnstone, who died in Medford, August 5, 1909, was the third daughter of W. P. Johnstone, and was born May 29, 1866, in Tillamook county, Oregon. Having never married, her home has always been with her parents, with whom she came to this city in 1904. From early childhood she was the victim of a disease which forbids the common enjoyments of life, although not always helpless. For the last two months past she has been confined to her bed. On the 4th instant at the home of her parents, a suffering body released an immortal spirit, to appear before the highest tribunal known to men or angels, being at the time of her death 43 years, 2 months and 6 days. She leaves an aged father and mother, four brothers and three sisters to mourn her loss, and still wait for their summons to enter the spirit land.

The names of the others are: Fred Johnstone, living in Clatsop, Cal.; Bert, Jesse and Lee Johnstone, living in this city. The sisters' names are: Florence Henderson, living in Trinity county, California; Lucinda Hill, living at Sisson, Cal., and Lucinda Cook, living at Glendale, Or.

COUNCIL SELLS WATER BONDS.

(Central Point Herald.)

The city council at its regular meeting Monday night disposed of the city water bonds, getting a premium of $275 for the entire issue. The highest bidder was the S. A. Keen company of Chicago, and besides the premium they pay the expenses of the bond issue—that is, the expenses of making the bonds, etc. Two other bids were received—one at par and another for a premium of $254.50.

The sale of these bonds now insure the early commencement of the actual work of constructing Central Point's water system, and if nothing occurs now to delay the work the system can be completed before winter. Considering the high rates that are now being paid for money in the Eastern financial centers the council has made a good sale of the bond issue and from the thorough investigation that is made by men of finance before they will invest in bonds of this kind a good opinion will have been formed of Central Point.

INSTALLS NEW SWITCHBOARD

Another sign as to the progress which Medford is making was shown last night when the new switchboard was put into operation at the local office of the Pacific Coast Telephone company. The change from the old one to the new was made almost in the twinkling of an eye and it is doubtful if a single subscriber connected with this exchange was in any way aware of the fact.

In addition to the young lady operators in the operating room of the exchange last night was the local manager, J. J. Buchter, W. R. Logus, chief clerk, and C. F. Saylor, the transfer foreman. The latter two had charge of the work of installing the new board and changing the connections from the old one to the new.

Changed Last Night.

It was only a few minutes after 10 o'clock last night when the signal was given, the new connection made and the operators walked across the room and took their places. Immediately after the lights on the new board began to twinkle like bright stars. "Number, please," was heard, and then click, click, and three operators were busy, working away as if they had been accustomed to the new board all the time.

The difference in the appearance and the working of the new and the old switchboards must be seen for any one to thoroughly understand what a great change has taken place in the telephone office in this city, which now ranks among the best in the state, outside of Portland. On the old board, when a call was made a small lid would fall down and then the operator would have to close it up again each time.

Is Great Improvement.

Then, too, the operator had to sit so as she could speak into a hanger suspended in front of her. On the new board this is done away with and everything works automatically. When a call is made a light appears at the number on the board, and as soon as the connection is made the light goes out. Then each operator has an attachment fastened to the front of her dress with a transmitter attached to it. In this she speaks, and it makes no difference if she is several feet away or turned around, as the speaking tube, as it were, is always in front of her.

At the new board are places for four local and two long-distance operators. Along the top is a number of electric lights shaded from the eyes and throwing the light on the board. At the base is a foot rest covered with rubber. This appears to be somewhat narrow until one looks at the feet resting on it, when they can readily see that the aforesaid feet have room to spare.

Install New Phones.

So much for the interior of the local telephone exchange, but the company is not resting there by any means. In addition to improving the cable work and the wiring, tomorrow morning workmen begin installing the new phones. These will also be of the latest and will work automatically. That is, when the receiver is taken from the hook the signal for a call is given on the board. Then, when the receiver is put back on the hook that breaks the connection.

One thing which the management asks all the subscribers to be very careful of, and that is leaving the transmitter off the hook. In the old board this did not make much difference, but it does make considerable on the new one, as the light at that number would be going all the time the transmitter was off.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Traveling Man Resented Remarks Made by Fresh Young Man.

The renewal of an old quarrel which began in Marshfield, Or., was the cause of two strangers appearing before Recorder Telfer in the police court yesterday morning. Both of them were represented by lawyers, and after a hearing, which occupied the time of the court for about two hours, both cases were dismissed.

The Marshfield man was A. J. Mendel, the manager of a liquor establishment at that place. It is claimed. He arrived in Medford and shortly after that he met R. P. Eppenstein, a representative of Wolf Bros., of San Francisco. The extreme freshness of the Marshfield youth was somewhat suddenly checked when the two met in the Louvre cafe, and the California man slapped the face of the other.

E. E. Kelley appeared for Mr. Eppenstein, while C. E. Reames appeared for Mendel. Recorder Telfer appeared to think that the youth from the coast city got about what was coming to him and acquitted Mr. Eppenstein. The latter has a number of friends in this city and several of them were in the court and congratulated him when he won out.

The Wrights are reaping riches in the fields of space.

Correct Glasses Correctly Fitted

Notice the difference in the way the rays of light pass through the OLD style lens and the new TORIC glass.

When looking through the TORIC lens you get the same vision clear out to the edge of the glass, in all directions, that you do ONLY through the center of the old-style of lenses, thus giving you mere freedom of vision without the strain upon the ciliary muscles, which constantly occurs when wearing the old-style glasses.

With the old-style before the eye you see like this. With the new TORIC lens you get the same results at all angles without turning your head that you do directly through the center of the old style.

Dr. Goble makes a specialty of the above lenses; also fits the 1-SIGHT bi-focal, ground from ONE piece of glass. Optical Parlor in Perry's Warehouse, Seventh Street, Medford.
