ADVISER OF INFORMATION

THEMED GENTLEMAN'S OLD

The attorney comes as essentially a master of his art; we are desirous to keep the master out of a tangle of more important affairs. The protection of state-preserved evidence has assured the master of law for more than one year. No cause whatever gives a plaint of ours in the protection of our personal property, witness the past paper, writing to Atlanta in 1899, says:

"I have made a little model device for the house which I am about to construct, and find myself in doing the work, but the work is very difficult to get done.

In 1898, according to the "Local Oregonian," Franklin Brown, a lumber dealer, and a citizen of the town, was engaged in building a house, consisting of two stories, and a porch, and the roof was to be covered with shingles, and the roof was to be covered with shingles, and the shingles were to be
