WHY IS THE LAW NOT ENFORCED?

There is a law upon the city statute books, passed last December, which is not enforced, never has been enforced and which no serious effort has been made to enforce. It is the ordinance requiring the numbering of houses. The statute reads as follows:

"It shall be the duty of the owner, or tenant of every residence or place of business or other structure opening residence or place of business or other structure opening because he can work better there, he upon or having access to the streets of the city of Medford, says. His wife is an artist of success Oregon, to cause to be placed in a conspicuous place upon the Morganic vocation is ceramics, his the main entrance or at the principal place of ingress to such premises a number, such number to be ascertained as hereinafter provided.

"It shall be the duty of each property owner or tenant, as provided in section one hereof, to ascertain from the said city engineer the number so assigned to his, or her, respective premises, and to cause such number to be affixed thereto forthwith in figures not less than three inches high, such figures to be so placed as to be easily legible from the adjoining sidewalk or street.

"It shall be the duty of the chief of police and of the street commissioner of the city of Medford to cause written notice to be given to either the owner, agent or occupant of each residence and place of business within said city which shall not have been numbered as herein provided, which said notice shall designate the proper number to be affixed to said premises and shall require the same to be affixed within ten days from the date of service of such notice upon such owner, agent or occupant, and upon the failure of such owner, agent or occupant to so affix said number within said ten days the city council of said city may cause the same to be so affixed, and the costs thereof shall be declared a lien upon the particular lot or parcel of land upon which said costs are so expended, which lien shall be recorded upon the city lien docket and thereafter enforced against the property therein described in all respects in like manner and with like effect as a lien for the improvement of any street."

Probably two-thirds of the houses of Medford are without numbers, those in them having failed to comply with the law. This failure results in endless confusion to persons trying to find addresses. Medford has outgrown the village stage, where everyone knows where others live by instinct, and as two-thirds of the residents are comparatively new comers, it is necessary that the houses be num-

Until the houses are numbered the government will not consider a carrier delivery for mail. Most of the other conditions demanded by Uncle Sam have been complied with, but free delivery will not be forthcoming until the residences are numbered.

It is the duty of the chief of police and street commissioner to see that this law is enforced. No effort has been made by them to enforce it. The city council should see that it is enforced, and carry out the compulsory number ing on refusal of occupants, as provided by the ordinance.

SMALL WATER RETURNS.

Ashland receives from $1100 to $2400 a month for water supplied consumers. Grants Pass water receipts total from $900 to $1500. Medford's water rentals run from $450 to $700, searcely a third of those of Ashland and a half of those of Grants Pass.

A count of people will show that Medford leads in population and that nearly as much water is furnished as in the other two cities. Why, then, this small yield of revenue?

Grants Pass' water system is under private ownership, Ashland's under municipal ownership, as is Medford's. Ashland makes the best showing, indicating that public ownership, properly administered, is successful. Grants Pass water is pumped from the Rogne, while Ashland has a gravity system.

Either public or private ownership of water can be made a success or failure, dependent solely upon those managing the plant. There is no good reason why either should not be successful in Medford.

Medford people use a great deal of water they do not pay for. In some cases the measuring apparatus is defective, due in many instances to deliberate destruction and alterations of meters by consumers supposed to be reputable; in other cases water is said to be supplied places that are not of record, and which pay no water rentals at

There is no good reason why Medford's water depart ment should not yield double its present income. It will have to quadruple it under the proposed gravity system and a business administration might as well be installed and a business administration might as well be installed for sale, well improved; good orchards; vig. at once. It is up to the mayor and city council to see that it is done.
