African Natives' Drum Signals. All through the continent of Africa the natives have a very perfect system of signaling with drums, by which means they can get messages from village to village, and it is quite wonderful how swiftly and how far they are able to spread news.

The drumming is always done at night, when sound travels faster, and no one lies awake on a still, clear night the ear is often keenly assailed by the low, musical roll from a drum in the village near, and one waits with pleasant expectancy till the answering roll comes, muffled by distance, from a village somewhere two miles away—Wilde World Magazine.

Charity. Clara—At Jennie's wedding last week, owing to a misunderstanding, she had to wait at the church thirty minutes for the bridegroom. Mind—Oh, well, thirty minutes isn't anything to a woman who has waited thirty years.
