

BIG CROP IN YAKIMA VALLEY

Hundred and Twenty Cars of Pears and Twenty Five Hundred Cars of Apples

The fruit crop in the Yakima valley is summed up as follows in the Pacific:

"The Yakima valley has a splendid crop of Bartlett pears, which are now being packed rapidly and are moving to the east. There will probably be 120 cars. Many of the pears, however, will be shipped in mixed cars with peaches, plums, apples, cantaloupes and watermelons.

"The general range of prices will be much lower than last season and fruits of all kinds will find their way into the homes of all classes. With lower prices, of course, consumption will be greatly increased.

"The crop of peaches is short on some of the lower lands on account of the frost and damage from aphid, but owing to the increased acreage of new orchards, the output of peaches this season will be something of an increase over last season. Present estimates indicate the output of peaches will be about 250 cars.

Big Crop of Apples.

Apples, of course, are the big end of the fruit crop in the Yakima valley, fully two-thirds of the 2500 cars of fruit this season being fall and winter apples. The apples here this year are entirely free from worms, scale and any other disease. The fruit-growers have made large money in the past few years and given careful attention to spraying, spraying thoroughly in the winter with Rex lime and sulphur spray, and spraying thoroughly and just as the bloom is falling with arsenate of lead for the codling moth. Gray-rotted apples are now being picked and shipped to Alaska and points in British Columbia.

Low Prices Expected.

"Growers and dealers are not looking for the extravagantly high prices of last year. They are expecting from $1.25 to $1.50 for fancy export varieties and 60 cents to $1 for medium varieties, such as Black Twing, Rome Beauty, Wagner, etc. Jonathan apples are now being picked and shipped to Alaska and points in British Columbia.

Irrigation Favored

need of additional moisture in summer. His address showed that he had carefully considered all phases of the matter and that his company actually is in position to receive subscriptions for water to be delivered within a reasonable time, and much interest was taken in his proposition by the members present.

Mr. Miller, living west of Medford in the foothills, suggested making application to the United States reclamation service to induce the government to come to the aid of our farmers and land holders, but on discussion of this proposal it was disclosed that Oregon's share of the reclamation funds is all ready exhausted and that it will be ten years before the government could favorably consider an application, even should it be possible to get the property owners to sign up the necessary proportion of the lands to be covered by the proposed ditch.

Old Water Rights.

In this connection it developed that much of the water in the streams in the foothills has long been appropriated and vested rights intervene on every side between the fruit-grower and the water he may wish to secure for orchard purposes. It is the old story of the public going to sleep and on awakening to find that men have had sagacity enough to appropriate what no one else seemed to want, feeling badly over it. The public will always have to buy what it wants, and so will our fruit-growers, but it happens fortunately that there is so much water available in the foothills surrounding the valley that we will be able to purchase at a legitimate price.

The Condon Water & Power company, represented by Dr. C. H. Ray and Attorney R. G. Smith of Grants Pass, then submitted a proposition to furnish water to the fruit-growers from a reservoir on Granite Hill to be supplied by an electric pumping plant from Rogue river by the company, in connection with water for Medford, which is well worth considering, as supplying the demand in a limited way and within limited bounds.

Change in Sentiment.

The highline ditch recently proposed by the Fish Lake Ditch company was not discussed, nor was any proposition submitted by that company, but it will receive consideration from the committee, as a very different sentiment is now entertained by fruit-growers in relation to that enterprise than was held at the time application was made for 3000 acres to be subscribed before the Pittsburg bankers would take over the property. There is a strong probability that the present company will put in the highline ditch wanted in the future, having now sufficient water to warrant it.

To give due consideration to the different plans proposed and to undertake to formulate a plan whereby the greatest benefit of irrigation is to be derived, a meeting was appointed, the following committee appointed: J. A. Perry, W. L. Sawyer, J. D. Oswald, H. T. Findlay, B. A. Nye, M. B. Signs, J. E. Watt.

BID DECREASE MADE IN LAKEVIEW SHEEP

Estimates made by the sheepmen of Lake county show there has been a big decrease in the number of sheep in the county in the past two years. It is estimated that in 1906 not less than 500,000 sheep were run on the range of that county, but this year there are less than 200,000. This decrease has cut down the revenue of the county and has forced many of the former wool growers out of the business. The things that have contributed to the reduction are that range has been scarce since the creation of the forest reserves, that the price of wool has gone down, the high prices of carcasses last year, and the fact that many of the lands of the county that have heretofore been open to the sheepmen have been leased and closed to the wool growers, adding to the decrease of range caused by the reserve on which the number of sheep are limited so that the number is prohibited.—Klamath Herald.

FAIR TO OPEN NEXT MONDAY

Exhibit of Oregon Products and Livestock Best in Years

PORTLAND, Or., Sept. 7.—(Special Correspondence.)—Hillsboro, the prosperous and growing capital of Washington county, is celebrating its second rail connection with Portland, the last being an electric line.

The Oregon state fair opens next Monday, September 14, and continues through the week. The showing off all kinds of products, as well as the livestock and industrial display and a great race program, without pool selling, insures one of the best fairs Oregon has ever held.

Coshocton Man Talks.

Immediately following the Oregon state fair is the Portland Country club and livestock show, and it is certain that these two weeks, during which livestock will be foremost in the minds of the people of Oregon, will have much to do with the more rapid development of that important industry.

J. H. McMillan, now past 85 years of age and temporarily residing in Coshocton, O., writes: "Having lived in Oregon 60 years and believing it to be the best country in the United States I take pleasure in sending people there who are looking for a home. Rheumatism has a firm grip on me, and I am unable to labor, but I can talk of Oregon and spread Oregon literature and will be glad to receive same from all parts of the state. I have been able to send many people to Oregon, and they have written that they were glad they made the change." Oregonians should remember that there are thousands more to come on the colonist rates of September and October.

Oregon Horses Winning.

Oregon horses are winning first honors at the Seattle horse show.

The hurry up and build movement throughout the United States because building material and labor are about 30 per cent cheaper than they were a year ago, is the cause of some spectacular happenings in Portland. Special in the business center they are digging basements by electric light, working three shifts of eight hours each.

Commoner Addresses Laborers.

surely a reward for his toil commensurate with his contribution to the welfare of society, and unless some other party can do the work better, the democratic party ought to have the support of all, whether they belong to the wage earning class or occupy positions in which they direct the efforts of others. If an officer in the industrial army were sure that his children and his children's children would inherit his position, he might feel possibly indifferent as to those under his command, but the children of those who today work for wages may employ the children of those who in this general convention are employers. This uncertainty as to future generations, as well as our sense of justice, should lead us to make the government as nearly perfect as possible, for a parent can leave to his child, riches may take the wings of the morning and fly away, but government is permanent, and we cannot serve posterity better than by contributing to the perfection of the government, that each child born into the world may feel that it has here an opportunity for the most complete development, and a chance to secure through service the largest possible happiness and honor."

Day School Department at St. Mary's Academy

published in another column. These are the fixed rates in all the schools of the Sisters of the Holy Names, but, as the Sisters' main endeavor is to work for the physical, intellectual and moral development of youth, they wish the parents who feel that they can not meet these rates, to call and see them with the assurance of being received with every courtesy and of finding the Sisters willing to cooperate in the great work of forming the youth as good citizens.

"Something which is of considerable interest to the public generally and which is perhaps not generally known is the system of prepaid orders now in effect between stations of the Southern Pacific company and all points in the United States. By means of this system tickets may be purchased at Medford from any place in the United States and mailed or telegraphed direct to the party wishing to come here. Sleeper accommodations and small amounts of cash in connection with those tickets may also be forwarded at the same time."

PORTLAND MAN FALLS UNDER RAILS IN FIT

PORTLAND, Or., Sept. 5.—Efforts are being made today to locate the relatives of a man who gave the name of Wade Hampton Parsons, who, after falling in an epileptic fit in the tracks, was run over by a street car and almost instantly killed last night.

Parsons regained consciousness long enough to whisper his name and say that he was subject to epileptic fits. Before he could give the addresses of friends or relatives he lost consciousness again and died.
