Monarchists and Republicans Engage in Fierce Fight-Use Posts to Batter Down Doors of Church Where Mon archists Hid Themselves.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 17.—Twenty were killed or mortall minded and 40 were seriously injured in a great rist at Azambuja, between inrehists and republicans at the nunicipal election primaries today.

The republicans outnumbered the conarchists and were the agreeners in the fight. After a struggle in the streets, the monarchists were put to flight and took refuge in a chutch, bar reading the doors and windows.

The republicans then obtained heavy costs and timbers, with which they made buttering rams. With these they sattered down the doors and with stone d. When the doors were broken opethe mob rushed into the church and at compted to massacre the monarchists

A bloody battle was fought under the oof of the sanetuary, in which knives and guns were used with deadly effect The monarchists, having no means of retreat, fought desperately until the ar-rival of the troops. The soldiers ar-rested a number of the leaders and
