

Social and Personal

Sam Stoy, the genial insurance agent, is down from Portland interviewing the many agents for his company in this section. Ask for "Blue Stem" hard wheat flour. Wes Green made the quickest trip to the Blue Lodge on record the fore part of the week. It is over 40 miles to Elton, over a mountainous road, and he covered the distance in two hours and thirty minutes. Edison Phonographs at Singler Music Store. J. W. Opp of the Opp Consolidated mines, located near Jacksonville, was a recent business visitor in Medford. Are you going to improve that lot of yours? Are you going to seed your lawn? Are you going to plant bulbs? If so, Cook can supply you every want. R. B. V. D. George L. Davis, president of the Bank of Jacksonville, has been in Medford several times lately. If you want the best in fruit, shade and ornamental trees, shrubbery, roses, bulbs, seeds, small fruits, etc., it will pay you to call on C. F. Cook and place your order at once. R. B. V. D. N. W. Kime, a successful farmer of Griffin Creek district, and his family have returned from a visit to several states in the middle west. Nick says that the sentiment is strongly in favor of William J. AMUSEMENTS

At the Savoy. The performance last night at the Savoy was excellent and pleased a large audience. "The Water Sprite" is a picture portraying a German legend of the Rhine. The water scenery of this picture is very beautiful and colored like a nature. This legend is well acted and tells a story with a strong moral. "Two Clever Detectives," a farce-comedy picture, portrays the efforts of two zealous and clever detectives to capture a jewel thief and earn a large reward. Many side-splitting situations occur which caused a great deal of laughter. The picture merits it. "The Little Detective" is a very realistic melodrama, showing that strong circumstantial evidence should not convict a man of murder. The pictorial lyric, "Besides the Old Oak Gate," was sung in a most pleasing manner by Miss Elfert. The same performance will be given tonight. Next Wednesday and Thursday the management will put on pictures portraying the Olympic games. This race is very exciting, especially the finish. It causes comment all over the civilized world. Johnny Hayes, the winner of this race, Smithson, Kelly and Gilbert, the great Oregon athletes, were rendered a reception in New York City that equaled the ovation accorded Bryan upon his return from his trip around the world. This is an attraction that no one can afford to miss. Remember the date, tomorrow and Thursday. At the Bijou. An excellent frontier's day reproduction is on at the Bijou tonight. "The Frontiersman's Bride" is full of interesting scenes and is one of great reality. The opening scene of the picture shows the home of the frontiersman on the banks of a western river. The frontiersman is just returning home in his canoe from a day's hunting and his wife is down at the river to meet him. Together they walk home and sit down to the evening meal. Here they are attacked by a band of Arapahoe Indians. The Indians bind the frontiersman hand and foot and place him in the house, then setting fire to the house. They carry away the wife, intending to burn her at the stake. In the meantime the husband manages to crawl to a nearby ranch and spreads the news of the Indian raid. The ranchers then go to the rescue. It is a thrilling fight that takes place between the Indians and ranchers. The ranchers finally recover the frontiersman's wife from the Indians. An exceptionally good comic entitled, "Oh, What An Appetite," is included in this performance; also a beautiful illustrated song. The Minstrels. "The Minstrels" are a decidedly American institution. The play, the pantomime, the opera and the musical comedy all find their birth in the Old World, but the minstrel is wholly American. Doubtless this accounts for the warm place they hold in the hearts of the American people. There is a difference of opinion among biographers of the stage as to the exact date the first minstrel performance was given, but it was probably about 1859 or '60. All of the old time companies that sprang into existence from that time until '75 have passed away, with the exception of one, Richards & Pringle's, which appear at the Anglo Opera House on Thursday of this week. This company carries 40 of the genuine colored product, not a white man imitation, or make believe, but the genuine article. The sweet southern songs, dances and plantation pastimes are produced with a naturalness almost beyond belief. There are a host of clever comedians, led by that prince of Ethiopian funsters, Clarence Powell, who draws one of the largest, if not the largest salary ever paid a minstrel performer. Then there is a large company of singers, dancers and specialty artists, and the best band ever carried by a minstrel company. JACKSONVILLE ITEMS. Mrs. Amelia Elmer and daughter were Medford visitors Saturday afternoon. Frank Trancy, who was connected with Russel's confectionery store, made us a friendly visit Friday. He is now located in Portland. Miss Jessie McCully spent Saturday afternoon in Medford. Attorney Boggs of Medford was doing business at the county seat Saturday afternoon. The Native Daughters have announced that they will give their annual ball Thanksgiving night. This is always one of the chiding events of the season. Mrs. Fred Lay of Medford spent Saturday and Sunday with her father, William Forbes, who is quite ill. Mrs. John F. Miller and Misses Bertha Price and Laura Ulrich were among the Jacksonville people in Medford Saturday. W. M. Schoble was one of Ashland's business men who visited at Jacksonville Monday. Circuit Court is again in session this week and the following attorneys from Medford are in attendance: W. I. Vawter, W. E. Phipps, E. E. Kelly and W. M. Colvig. S. P. Hathaway was up from Central Point on Monday. E. D. Briggs, the Ashland attorney, is in town this week. C. L. Reames left for Salem Monday evening, where he expects to get a "certificate of probate cause" in the M. Cass case, the same having been denied in this court. Jeff Heard of the Stirling mine spent Monday in town. Mrs. C. J. Brady of Ashland spent Monday afternoon at the county seat. J. C. Aiken of Woodville was a Jacksonville visitor on Monday. F. M. Calkins, court reporter, came down from Ashland Monday to attend court.
