the actual work of grading and laying the paving on Seventh street. The work is progressing rapidly and it will not be a great while before the busi-ness streets of the city will have been improved. In the meantime the contract tors are praying for fair weather and the delivery of the rock, for with stormy weather and lack of material from the quarry of the city the work is apt to be delayed. But if things move along as they should it is only a two weeks' job to lay the paving Seventh street, necording to the con-

To follow the course of the grashed stone through the plant is of interest. First the stone is quarried inclackson-ville and crushed. Then from the crusher it is earried into the bunkers, where the ears are loaded. Then comes in the transportation to Medford, where the ears are run up a 5 per cent grade and dumped into bunkers. From these bunkers the rock is piled back of the spot where the material first enters the plant. Elevators first carry the stone into buge heaters which revolve and thoroughly heat the rock. From these heaters the rock is carried aloft through another elevator and it is turned into another elevator and it is turned into a screen, where it is divided into three bins, according to its size. These bins are directly above the mixer and so many pounds from each is allowed to fall into one mixing. #### COMPANY OPERATES FOR YEAR WITHOUT FRANCHISE

KLAMATH PALLS, Or., Nov. 7.-Klamath Falls Light and Water company has been operating for the past two years without a franchise. It seems that when the plant was constructed the company was granted a franchise for a period of ten years, which expired either two or three years ago, the time of completion not being exactly known at this time.

The question of the expiration of the franchise arose from the investigation being made by the city with a view to purchasing the plant. It is not likely that any difficulty will arise from the fact that the franchise has expired, as the company does not care to go out of business and the city cannot get along without light and water.

Klamath Falls owns an interest in the light and water plant to the extent if $10,000, and has the privilege of buy ompel the company to sell.

There was some litigation about accepting the plant when it was first mailt and if this time is allowed the life of the franchise under which the company operates has not expired, and the city has not lost its opportunity to purchase the system.

ALLEGED "BLIND PIG" LETS ROBBERS ESCAPE

Although Klamath Palls was votediry, the saloons are said to be in oper ation about as they were before, except that most of them carry a stock of fruit and vegetables.

The main contention was whether the license should be raised and the number of saloons limited to the five in business when the local option law took effect, or whether the license should remain at $600 and the number of saloons unlim-ited. The council favors the raising of the license to $1000,

The residents of the city are agitated over the prospect of "wet" days again, after they had voted for a dry town, but the city needs the money to ran its bonded water system. During Condon's five months' "dry" spell marked changes have taken place, but not for the worst, as predicted by a great many of the anti-local option law. Ten places of business have been start ed, one livery stable is being built, and an imposing structure, the home of the St. Thomas academy, costing $30,000, is nearing completion.
