OLD PAPERS ARE FOUND

In Records of Circuit Court Papers of 1865 are Dug Up.

In re-indexing the files and transferring them from the old wood cases to the modern steel receptacles in the county clerk's office, Mr. Sexton uncovered a unique legal document, says the Jacksonville Post.

The document was a case in the circuit court, entitled "Action to Recover Personal Property." J. N. T. Miller vs. W. G. T. Vault. This action grew out of the "Table Rock Sentinel," owned by T. Vault and sold to J. N. T. Miller, who was at that time publishing the "Oregon Reporter."

Four issues of the "Oregon Reporter" are on file in the clerk's office as evidence in the case, the dates on these papers are: March 15, 1865; March 25, 1865; April 8, 1865; and May 13, 1865.

The manuscript covers were leather, with the index written with ink on the outer side of the cover and securely sewed to the book with heavy twine string.

The "Oregon Reporter" was a weekly paper, and the issue of March 15 was Vol. 1, No. 11, being 11 weeks old. The type was badly worn and the columns were 14 "ems" wide, or slightly wider than the columns of the Post. This paper was democratic politically, and contained many articles about the war. One of the articles, "The View of Jeff Davis on Peace," will appear in the next issue of the Post. This article is interesting inasmuch as it was written during war times.

The editorials in those days were chiefly "roasts" for someone who did not believe as the editor believed. The news portion of the paper gives a very good sketch of history of Jacksonville. We could not find any figures on the population of the city, but would judge that Jacksonville was a city that time with about 4000 population.

FAMILY BURNED OUT IN MURPHY DISTRICT

Last Monday night the farmhouse on the old Gontor place, in the Murphy district, occupied by Joe Goldbach and a family by the name of Quinlin, was destroyed by fire, together with nearly all their belongings. About the only things saved by either family was a couple of trunks, and the people were almost entirely without clothing the next morning. Happily they had a good neighbor in A. H. Carson, who, as soon as he heard of the fire, went over and took both families to his home and provided for them temporarily. The next day Mrs. M. C. Findley and other ladies of the Newman M. E. church made a tour of solicitation through the city and secured a quantity of clothing and other things for the fire victims, and we feel sure the charitable people of this community will be glad to help these families, who are new comers, to get started again. We understand that Mr. Goldbach had some insurance on his property, but the other family none at all.—Pacific Outlook.

TO PLACE A CHECK ON CALIFORNIA REALTY DEALERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 23.—Copies of a bill designed to keep "fakirs" and "shaks" out of the real estate business, which will be presented at the next session of the legislature are being sent to all reputable real estate dealers throughout California by the state realty federation. The bill was prepared by Dowitt H. Gray of Fresno, chairman of the legislative committee and former president of the realty federation. The desired law, if passed, will make it a misdemeanor for anyone to engage as a real estate agent without securing a license and without furnishing a $50,000 bond.

WOLVES KILL GAME OFF CAUSING INDIANS TO STARVE

VANCOUVER, B. C. Nov. 23.—Wolves in large numbers are killing game off so fast, thereby depriving the Northern Indians of their usual means of procuring food that 5000 redskins near Fort George are reported to be on the verge of starvation. The wolves have killed all the game there was, so that during the past few weeks, the natives have been unable to kill or trap anything with which the barter for food with the traders. The first snow three weeks ago found the Indians without food. The situation has become so alarming that it is probable that the Dominion government will supply food.

WILL SUBMIT DESIGNS FOR SLOAT MONUMENT

Arthur Putnam, the California sculptor, who has been visiting relatives in Medford, left Friday for San Francisco, where he will submit designs for the Sloat monument to be constructed by the government. He has just finished a large memorial of Father Junipero Serra, the famous pioneer priest of the Pacific coast, which is to be placed on the site of the first mission erected in California, near old San Diego, the site of which has been donated to the city for a park. The statue is of heroic size and has been cast in bronze.

Putnam decorative architectural work ornaments many of the new buildings of San Francisco, none of which has attracted more attention than the beautiful new Bank of California. Both interior bronzes and exterior stone ornamentation were designed by Putnam, as was similar work on the St. Francis hotel, the First National bank building and other structures.

Putnam exhibited in the Paris salon a year ago, where his work attracted the attention of Rodin, the celebrated French sculptor, and others high in the art world of Paris, and as a result he was made a life member with the right to exhibit at any time, an unusual honor for a first exhibitor.

Few sculptors have a better understanding of their art than Putnam. He does not confine himself to clay, but understands all kinds of stone cutting as well as bronze casting, and so is able to cut his own designs from marble or mold them into bronze, perhaps the only sculptor in the country that understands all the mechanical as well as artistic processes of his art. He has constructed at his home a bronze foundry on the plan of the foundry designed by the ancient Greeks, one of four such foundries in the country, and here casts his own work, which has attracted a great deal of attention among artists wherever seen.

PLANNING 20 STORIES MORE FOR ST. FRANCIS

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 23.—Plans for a 20-story addition to the St. Francis hotel will be finally passed upon today by the hotel management, and with the completion of the tower, the St. Francis will become the tallest hotel on the Pacific coast and one of the largest in the world. The hotel at present has 700 rooms, and the annex will bring the total up to 10,150, placing it on an equal footing with the Waldorf-Astoria.

Willing But Too Short of the cash to buy good fruit land, is the complaint of many homeseekers. We happen to have on our list several first-class tracts, on terms so easy they will almost pay for themselves. There never was a better time to buy fruit lands in this valley than today; and when the reaction comes these "easy buys" can be subdivided and sold at a big profit. Interview the
