A NOVEMBER BRIDE

MISS HELEN COSS,
Who Was Married Tuesday in Jacksonville to Mr. Lorenzo N. Colby.

OFFICIALS ARE PLEASED

Medford, and speaks volumes for its campaign of publicity, the best, I believe, any city ever put forth. Medford has certainly pointed the way to other communities, and been an example to the whole northwest.

Cordial Relations Exist.

"I find on my frequent visits that the most cordial relations exist between the business men of Medford and the Southern Pacific," said Division Freight Agent Malhoen. "I make a score of visits here to one that other officials make, and so know that the conditions found by Mr. O'Brien are no exception. Business has all along been good in Medford. There have been no complaints. The town never felt the effects of the panic. It has continued to go right ahead, and I believe it has a fine future."

The visit of the Harriman officials and their reception shows that the new era of co-operation between traffic chiefs and the people has arrived, and that everything that can be done to advance the interests of the communities served by the railroad is being done.

Fancy china has been purchased, the room will be decorated with ferns and cut flowers and the finest meals in the west are planned for customers. It will be the latter part of the week or the first of next week before the Louvre is ready for customers.

In this school district the approximate valuation is $336,873 and the five mill levy upon this amount will produce approximately $1834 for school funds.

CONDON, Or., Nov. 25.—The proprietors of five saloons were arrested today on a charge of violating the local option law. H. S. Wilson of The Dalles and D. R. Parker of Condon have been retained by the saloon people. Bowerman and District Attorney Burdett will take up the prosecution. 50,000 BOOKLETS tive, and the city is unanimous in its desire to continue it.

What the Plan Means.

The plan provides for every feature of a well directed publicity movement, and the cost is borne by Medford and the Southern Pacific company in the ratio of about one-third for the latter. The complete plan will cost Medford $3770, and this provides for 50,000 booklets 7x10 inches, 64 pages, and cover; cover in three colors, and the highest grade presswork and paper. It also provides for photographers, artists and writers, who are to be at the call of the club during the year; also the publication of 30,000 "Conductor" booklets for Medford similar to the one issued last season and entitled "How to Get to Medford, Oregon;" 20,000 copies of the colonist folders; one page advertisement for one year in Sunset Magazine; one page advertisement in the Sunday Oregonian; writeup of Medford in Sunset; delivery of booklets to Medford; distribution of booklets in any quantity desired through five channels of the Harriman system; distribution of booklets from Portland at request of Commercial club; the inclusion of Medford in lectures delivered in east by bureau of the Harriman system; publication of extracts from Medford booklet in "Abroad"—a magazine published in various languages simultaneously in London, Liverpool, Hamburg and Antwerp; bound copies of Medford booklet to be placed on trains; inclusion of Medford literature in the "Community Case," which is sent to prominent railroad men, editors, etc., throughout the country; free exhibition of Medford products in the east through immigration bureau of Harriman system; service for one year of the important Sunset bureau, which will keep Medford in touch with the movement of homeseekers; making of sets for booklets and supervision of their publication; service of experts in preparation of copy for advertisements, and the general and hearty co-operation of the passenger department of the Southern Pacific company.

Twenty Different Ways.

In all there are 20 points in this service which is worth to Medford five times what it costs. In fact, some features of the plan are so valuable that no monetary consideration could adequately represent them. By the adoption of this plan for a third time, Medford not only "points the way" to other communities, but it is assured that every cent expended to carry out the plan is judiciously expended—that Medford is getting far more for her money than she possibly could in any other way.

Committee Met Mr. Wells.

The committee appointed for the purpose met with Mr. Wells this morning and formally executed the contract. Work has already begun on the new booklet. Mr. Wells has had a photographer here for about ten days and a selection of about 250 photos will be made for the new booklet, retaining the best of the photos used in the booklet issued last season. The smaller booklet of 30,000 copies is to be rewritten immediately and issued within the next few weeks in order that the club may have some literature for distribution, all literature for distribution issued last season being exhausted, and the demand for information concerning Medford is rapidly increasing.

City Into Districts.

In order to raise the necessary funds this year to carry on the publicity work, the city is to be divided into districts, and committees appointed to cover each district thoroughly. Those who have failed heretofore to do their part are to be called upon especially, and it is hoped that they will see the great importance of this forward movement and how they have been benefited in the past. A mass meeting may also be called to discuss this very important matter, and to show the marvelous results that Medford has received from its publicity work.

The committee empowered to sign the contract for the Medford pamphlets consisted of Messrs. Page, Olwell and Miller. The committee in charge of compiling the new pamphlet consists of Messrs. Nye, Miller and Putnam.
