STRIKERS AND GUARD CLASH AFTER DEPARTURE OF TROOPS PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Dec. 3.—A mob of 100 strike sympathizers armed with revolvers, early today charged the plant of the National Fireproofing company, firing at the guard of 40 special deputies and policemen on duty at the works. The strikers returned the fire and the battle was about even until the professional strikebreakers, who were at work at the factory, were hastily sworn in as deputies and given orders to lead a counter-charge. They soon cleared the ground in front of the plant. Many arrests followed this demonstration on the part of the strikers.

The troops who have been guarding the place were sent home yesterday. The departure of the militia caused many strikers who had returned to their places in the plant to desert once more, being persuaded by their frightened wives that, without the protection of the soldiers, their lives were in danger from the vengeance of their former comrades.

SAY HARRIMAN HAS MADE A GREAT MOVE SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 3.—That E. H. Harriman has achieved a strategical victory in persuading the American-Hawaiian Steamship company into entering an agreement to raise rates on eastern bound California commodities is the opinion of the leading merchants of the city today.

While there is no way of obtaining official confirmation of the rumor, it is believed in business circles that the steamship line committed hari-kari when it was inveigled into a traffic agreement with the trans-continental railroads. They view the voluntary raise as suicidal and believe that the ocean transportation company has sacrificed its long held independence.

THE OLD CIRCUS POSTER.

Preentious Language With Which the Show Was Described. The grandiloquent extravagance of language of the old time circus poster is illustrated by this reproduction, which is given verbatim:

"There will be presented a resplendent series of sublime, moral, interesting, instructive, amusing and wonderful scenes which would appear entirely too fabulous if expressed in an advertisement. They must be seen to be duly appreciated. These great displays will unfold in all the loveliness and beauty of enchantment, carrying the minds of the bewildered or spellbound spectators off on the gentle wings of the imagination to such pagantry as they might dream of after reading a few pages of 'Arabian Nights' Entertainments." Words are really wanting to give adequate expression. Webster's unabridged fails most signally in language to fully portray a semblance of the reality. Zoonomy may be learned at this great college in a single evening. Here the visitor will see splendid specimens of the zygodyctylos race that live upon the earth or float and poise upon the wings of air and silver plume in the cerulean air, and in reference to these the corps of superintendents in courtly dress will elucidate the peculiarities of each with guarded suaviloquence."

THE TWO ROMEO.

Mrs. Siddons' Opinion of David Garrick and Spranger Barry. David Garrick and Spranger Barry were both playing Romeo at the same time in London. Barry played it at Drury Lane on the Monday, and Garrick played it the next night at Covent Garden, and the town was divided as to which was the greater Romeo—in fact, there was quite a great excitement about it, and they acted it upon such different lines and with such marvellously different conceptions that the people argued the case as to which Shakespeare intended. The fact is that Shakespeare intended it to be acted well, and if one man's temperament suited it best to act in that way it would do for another temperament the other way.

So they asked Mrs. Siddons, who was the Juliet alternately with the same Romeo, which she considered better of the two, and she said: "It is difficult to say. They are both wonderfully great, but I will tell you how they impress me in the balcony scene. In the balcony scene Garrick seems so eager, so intense and so full of fire and spirit that I'm afraid I'll jump up in the balcony to me, and Barry is so lovable and fascinating that I'm afraid I shall have to jump down from the balcony to him."

The Relationship. "You say, madam," said the betrothed lawyer to the woman in the witness box, "that the defendant is a sort of relation of yours. Will you please explain what you mean by that—just how you are related to the defendant?"

The witness beamed upon the court and replied: "Well, it's just like this. His first wife's cousin and my second husband's first wife's aunt married brother Edward Jones, and they were cousins to my mother's aunt. Then, again, his grandfather on his mother's side and my grandfather on my mother's side were second cousins, and his mother married my husband's mother's father after his father and my mother died, and his brother Joe and my husband's brother Harry married to my sisters. I ain't never figured out just how close related we are, but I've always looked on 'im as a sort of cousin."

"Quite so," answered the lawyer. "Your explanations are perfectly satisfactory."

Forgetful. An eminent painter was once asked if he thought art students did well to go to Europe to study. He said that undoubtedly the atmosphere was more artistic in Europe than anywhere else, but that Paris as a city to study and work in was overrated.

To illustrate his meaning he said that a certain rich man's son after three years in Paris wrote home to his father: "Dear Father—I have made up my mind to set to work. Please let me know at your earliest convenience whether it was painting, architecture or music I came to Paris to study."

Humility. It is a curious fact of human nature that humility draws forth from the world almost as much admiration as courage. As in the case of courage, it is almost impossible wholly to condemn a character in which we see it, and without it the greatest virtues leave us cold. If every good word which the Pharisee said of himself were proved true we should still dislike him. We even dislike his modern and far less offensive descendant, the prig.—London Spectator.

A Straight Tip. Customer—Quick shave, please, Barber—Close, sir? Customer—See here, what business is it of yours whether I'm close or not? I'll tell you one thing, young man—I don't tip, if that's what you want to know.—Puck.

His Fears Realized. "My heart is in my mouth. I am afraid to hear you answer." "You may well be, Mr. Dollboy," retorted Ethel. "I never could marry a man whose heart was not in the right place!"

If a man is worth knowing at all he is worth knowing well.—Alexander Smith.

DANIELS' NEW CALENDAR IS A THING OF BEAUTY

"The Joy of Life" is the title of a superb calendar being distributed by T. E. Daniels, the clothier. The picture is a large one and so closely resembles an oil painting that it is hard to distinguish it from the original painting by Miss Lucy Kemp-Welch. It represents a herd of horses galloping over a green pasture and is thus described by Charles H. Coffin, the critic:

"The rush of a bunch of yearlings and colts helter-skelter over the meadow—how it recalls the scene that has often met one's gaze from the window of a train! Looking up from a newspaper or book, with eyes a bit tired of the printed page, the brain a little blurred with the roar and vibration of movement, one feels the relief of the cool, quiet grassland, undulating, perhaps, as in the picture, toward distant hills. Suddenly the yellows and greens of the pasture are interrupted by a patch of strong tints, bay and black and white, as a herd of young horses comes into view. Scarcely have we noted them when a head, with a flash of its mane, is tossed up above the others. Instantly a shock of energy is communicated to the whole herd. It has caught the contagion of the speeding train. A hunching of backs, stir of legs, swish of tails, and swinging necks and heads and the whole group is athrill with movement. They wheel into line and charge like a troop of cavalry; then, as one forges ahead, the others follow in irregular file gradually forming into a curve as the leader bears off to one side and pressing close to another's bodies. But for the roar of the train we should hear the scurrying tread of the shoeless hoofs on the turf, the heave of breathing, and the snort of nostrils; until, as suddenly as it started, the herd comes to a halt, still pawing the ground, with heads and ears erect and quivering still with the joy of movement."

The calendar is by far the handsomest yet issued for a Medford house.

POPE LEAVES HIS BED IN ORDER TO SAY EARLY MASS

ROME, Dec. 3.—Against the protest of his physician, Pope Pius X left his bed to say early mass in his private chapel. After mass he returned to his chamber, but gave an audience to Merry del Val.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

Department of the Interior, U. S. Land office, at Roseburg, Oregon, September 10, 1908. Notice is hereby given that Helen L. Haskins of Medford, Jackson county, Oregon, who, on September 10th, 1908, made timber application, No. 61214, for south 1/2 N. W. 1/4, west 1/2 S. W. 1/4 section 4, township 34 south, range 2 east, Willamette Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make final timber proof to establish her claim to the land above described, before W. H. Cannon, U. S. Commissioner, at Medford, Oregon, on the 3d day of December, 1908. Claimant claims as witnesses: Leon B. Haskins of Medford, Oregon; Fortunatus Hubbard of Medford, Oregon; Otis Hubbard of Derby, Oregon; Alexis Hubbard of Medford, Oregon. BENJAMIN L. EDDY, Register.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Medford Citizen Can Afford to Ignore. DANGER SIGNAL No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Medford proof: Mrs. J. H. Boussam, living partner of Twelfth and C streets, Medford, Or., says: "I suffered so severely from kidney trouble that I was unable to do my housework. My kidneys were very irregular and caused me much annoyance. My back pained me severely when stopping or lifting and sharp twinges were often present in my loins. I ran down in health and at times felt very miserable. Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and I procured a box at Haskins' drug store. They helped me from the first, so I continued taking them and was entirely cured. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to other sufferers."

Grand excursion to City of Mexico. Leaves Medford on the 12th of December, 1908, on the regular Overland, $92.15 for the round trip, good for 60 days. For further information, write to Emil Peil, Ashland, Or. 1f
