SOCIETY NOTES

The members of the social set are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure toward the evening of January 28, when the ladies of the Greater Medford club will give their fourth social event of the season at the Angle opera house. These dances have come to mean a great deal to those who love the dance, and no doubt there will be a full attendance on next Thursday evening.

One of the most pleasing of this season's society events was the progressive heart party given by Mrs. William Angle and Mrs. E. C. Gaddis, when the engagement of Miss Prue M. Angle and Mr. Hal C. Platt was announced. February 24 is the date set for the wedding.

The house was elaborately decorated, the color scheme being red, cupid, red hearts and branches of mistletoe were profusely and tastefully employed, long festoons being hung from the chandeliers about the room, giving a most charming effect. No detail was too small to escape attention, the room forming a veritable hovel of beauty.

Eleven hands of progressive hearts were played. Mrs. J. W. Goble won the prize—a beautiful hand-decorated jewel box in the shape of a heart. The consolation prize, a miniature pack of cards, was won by Miss Olaf Mickey.

A dainty repast followed. The place cards were twin hearts decorated on the front with intertwined hearts of red pierced by a golden arrow. On the inner heart appeared the menu:

"Creamed chicken by chance.
"Sandwiches thrown together by circumstance.
"Olives controlled by Cupid.
"Cake, by luck or favor of the fates.
"Ice cream, when the Gods propose and man disposes.
"Coffee, wherein reason enters not.
"Toasts and brimming glasses to wield love and friendship fast."

The toasts were responded to as follows: "To the Eastern Girl," Mrs. Ed Andrews; "To the Eastern Man," Miss Bernice Cameron; "To Our Mothers," Miss Laura Berry; "To Our Absent Friends," Miss Frances Haskins; "To the Chaperone," Mrs. Will Bates; "To the Husbands," Mrs. G. L. Schermerhorn; "To the Happiest Days of Our Lives," Mrs. H. N. Butler; "To the Ones Who Are Left," Mrs. L. J. Sears; "The Matrimonial Journey," Mrs. H. C. Kautner; "To the Bridegroom-elect," Mrs. York; "To the Bride-elect," Miss Jennie Snedler.

Throughout the evening Miss Nellie Briggs entertained with well rendered piano selections, playing softly as the cards were enjoyed. Miss Janet Snedler assisted in receiving and entertaining.

Those present were: Mesdames Schermerhorn, Sears, Cartwright, Elwood, Root, Foster, Howland, Baker, Alden, King, Miller, R. Woodford, L. Haskins, King, Dixon, J. Butler, Daniels, Rosenbaum, Wood, Foster, York, Goble, Kautner, Boyden, Gaddis, Bates, Miller, Butler, Andrews, and Misses Dahl, King, Cameron, Manning, Berry, Mickey, Gregory, Wood, Porter, Ulrich, Banks, Hoyt, Haskins, Ragsdale, Nichols, Snedler, P. Angle and B. Angle. The out of town guests were: Mrs. E. D. Briggs, Mrs. Joe McNair, Miss Nellie Briggs, Miss Della McNair and Mrs. Floy Chambers, all of Ashland, and Mrs. A. J. Jennings of Chicago, who is visiting with Mrs. H. C. Kautner.

On Tuesday evening Olive Rebeckah Lodge, No. 28, entertained about 100 friends at their lodge hall.

The evening's entertainment consisted of music by Hazelrigg's orchestra, and a solo by Mrs. Charles Hazelrigg. Following this games were participated in by the guests until the committee announced partners for supper to which all gladly responded. Refreshments consisted of ice cream and cake, coffee and fruit. The banquet room was decorated in holly and mistletoe.

The festivities of the evening closed with more music, and a general good time was reported by those present.

The steady downpour of rain did not deter a large and appreciative audience from gathering at the opera house Tuesday evening to hear the musicals given by Mrs. Irene Hampton Isaacs and Miss Grace Brown.

When these two artists essay to entertain, much is expected by all who have had the pleasure of hearing them in the past, and Tuesday night's performance was fully up to expectation of the most critical.

The rendition of a program of such scope and variety clearly reveals Mrs. Isaacs' remarkable technique.

Mrs. Isaacs is herself the personification of grace, and her rendition of each number was that of the true artist.

To many the manner in which she catches up handfuls of notes and flings them to the breeze in strains of melody is no less interesting than her music itself is delightful.

Mrs. Isaacs reached the hearts of her audience in "Pavilion d'Amour" from Schott, and the "Rondo" from Weber, and particularly was it delighted with the "Rhapsodie Hongroise" from Liszt.

All who heard Miss Brown believe that she has before her a future full of promise. Probably the chief characteristic of her voice and soul is sympathy. Her success in portraying deep emotion is largely due to these qualities, coupled with the fact that she easily loses her own identity in that of the part she is singing.

Under Herr Genes, Miss Brown studied the pure Italian method that has been held sacred for generations, and her singing of Tuesday evening shows how well she has succeeded in eliminating whatever was false or uncertain in her voice and in developing the pure tones of the natural voice in all its sweetness.

Miss Brown sang with much feeling several numbers in German and Italian in which she displays fine command of her voice and great artistic ability. These would no doubt lose much of their melody in translation. The numbers liked best by the audience because of the strong appeal of the words, as well as the melody, were "Three Green Banquets," "The Gypsy Love Song" and "Four-Leaf Clover."

The evening was a delightful one and Mrs. Isaacs and Miss Brown Medford has two artists of whom it is proud.

The Five Hundred club was entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. E. G. Trowbridge. Three tables of progressive 500 were played by the following ladies: Mesdames Perry, J. H. Butler, T. E. Daniels, H. E. Boyden, G. L. Schermerhorn, Baxstall, J. L. Hamilton, E. D. Elwood, E. G. Trowbridge and Miss Snedler.

The ladies have wisely dispensed with refreshments other than bon-bons, thus relieving the hostess of extra duties, and free to enjoy the afternoon. Once each month the club entertains the husbands, at which times refreshments are in order. The club meets next time with Mrs. J. L. Hamilton.

The ladies of St. Mark's Guild were entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. John Barneburg and Mrs. I. W. Berry at the home of the latter.

The ladies of this society, who are famous for their energy and ability and devotion to the upbuilding of their church, have already begun working and planning for the bazaar which they expect to give next autumn.

At the close of a delightful afternoon the ladies repaired to the dining room, where was spread a dainty repast consisting of sandwiches, salad, cake and coffee.

The Sans Souci club held its regular weekly frolic Thursday night at Miles hall. The good times enjoyed by this club is attested by the regular attendance of its members—all other days are cancelled for Thursday night.

The Stoddard club met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. V. I. Vawter. Instead of the regular subjects, the ladies devoted the afternoon to a study of the life and works of Thomas Bailey Aldrich. Good music added much to the pleasure of the occasion.

He Was Too Frank.

Uncle Joe Cannon was discussing jealously our society leader's claim that too many statesmen appear to rely on their untruthfulness on the absence of socks, etc.—for their fame.

"I would point out," said he, "that neither Caesar nor Alexander wore socks, and if I attacked New York society as frankly as this person has at tackled public life I might— But, after all, perfect frankness is invariably a bad thing."

"You have heard perhaps of the young man who adulated perfect frankness? Calling on a pretty girl, he said:

"If there is one thing that I reverence in this world perfect frankness is that thing."

"Yes?" said the girl. "Then I'll at once grasp the opportunity to urge you to shave off your mustache before you eat another soft boiled egg."

The Sting in the Tail.

Vu Koo, the brilliant young Chinese editor of the Daily Spectator of Columbia university, said the other day of a criticism:

"When I began to read I thought the article was laudatory. I soon discovered my mistake, however. That article recalled to me a motor ride that I took with a junior last month."

"The junior's car was not a remarkable one, and out in the country after luncheon the young man was rather pleased when a farmer said to him:

"I guess that that automobile of yours is a hundred horsepower, isn't it?"

"Oh, no," said the junior, with a pleasant smile. "Oh, no, my friend. It is only a five horsepower. A hundred horsepower would be ever so much larger."

"I want to bid" by the size, but by the noise," said the farmer."

What has become of the Skating club?

Is the Skating club snowed under, or has it gone into its winter quarters?

Those of us who like to skate are frequently reminded of the famous speech of the governor of North Carolina to the governor of South Carolina—"It's a long time between skates."

Bulgaria's Eclipse.

Bulgaria is sufficiently in the public eye just now to compensate her for a total eclipse that lasted for three or four centuries. Between the obliteration of medieval Bulgaria by the conquering Turk and her very modern resurrection she disappeared more completely than Poland ever has. The very name of Bulgaria was remembered only by the learned. Sir Charles Elliot points out that in journeying from Belgrade to Constantinople in 1854 Kinglake must have passed straight across Bulgaria, yet when describing his travels in "Eothen" he makes no allusion to the country or its inhabitants.

Refusing to "Feed the Brute."

"If," says Lady Frances Balfour, "women who cook and do laundry work refused to cook and wash shirts for their men folk before they return home they would get the suffrage very quickly." Our own impression is that a good many of the recalcitrant women folk would get something else first, for if you refuse to "feed the brute" the brute is very apt to wax brutal. As to the less brutal brute, he would probably be content to put his washing out, decline to "come home to his tea" and stop supplies while waiting for the clouds to roll by.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Australian Barmalids.

The barmalids of Sydney and Melbourne are the prettiest in the world. They are mostly recruited from Tasmania, the insular state of the Commonwealth, which has been christened the "Circassia of the Colonies" on account of the surpassing loveliness of its daughters, several of whom have found their way into the select pages of Dod and DeBrett.—London—Creston.
