AMUSEMENTS

"Fra Diavolo" to Be Repeated.

Leon Haxberg, who directed the all night show for the Medford Theater, reports that he has requests for about 100 seats for another performance of "Fra Diavolo." From people who were unable to obtain seats for last night's production. Consequently Mr. Haxberg has arranged to give one more performance on Saturday night, March 6th.

On this occasion Mrs. Ed Andrews will sing "Zerlina," the part played by Mrs. Haxberg in the first performance. This was one of Mrs. Andrews' favorite roles in her profession, at days, and it will be interesting to note the different conceptions of the two prima donnas.

Seats for Saturday night's performance will go on sale Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and the curtain will be held until 9 o'clock on the night of the performance.

John Garvin Dies

John Pleasant Garvin for many years a resident of this section and in a fairly well known in the mining circles of this district, says the Tidings, who has been ailing for some time, suffered a sudden attack of heart disease late in the night of 23rd at his home at Talbot at midnight. He was aged 72 years and 14 days.

The deceased was a native of Bourbon county, Kentucky, but long resided in Illinois, from which state he emigrated and served his country in the war of the rebellion. Thirty-two years ago he located in this section of Oregon and has since made his home here, following mining and prospecting in the rugged creek district most of his time.

Besides the widow, five children survive, James L. Garvin, Mrs. Minnie Netherland, Mrs. Mattie Bruns, Clifford and Walter Garvin.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence at Talent, and the interment will be in the National cemetery.

MANY ENJOY FRA DIAVOLO

Creditable Performance Given by Local Talent-Crowded House

The portrayal of Auber's famous comic opera, "Fra Diavolo," by the Medford Opera company was deserving of the large house which attended. For the fourth time this company, composed of local talent, scored their usual success. The entire performance was most entertaining, the players being recalled time and again.

Two sections of the play stand out pre-eminently. The first of these was the ballroom scene, closing with the waltzes, and the other is the burlesque of Ed Andrews in the final act. Here the opera allowed Mrs. Haxberg and Mr. Andrews to do their best work, and drew enthusiastic applause from the audience.

Mrs. Haxberg has lost some of her old gleam before her retirement from the stage. Throughout the entire performance she was a favorite with her husband and was credited until nearly exhausted. Her every move was gracefully executed. Her every voice was gratefully heard. As for her voice—it was excellent, having lost some of its charm.

Ed Andrews was funny. That is the highest compliment one can pay him, for to be funny was his given part. It was a disappointment to many that he had so little work to do, but, ably assisted as he was by W. Quisenberry, he made the most of the part. He handled the heavy work in a splendid manner.

A. C. Burgess as "Fra Diavolo" was exceedingly clever. Thoroughly alive to the possibilities of his part, he gave a splendid portrayal of the scheming Italian devil—a hoodlum by night, a soldierman by day. His fall in the final act was most spectacular and cleverly executed.

P. W. Walters as the captain of carmen was a great success. With a splendid voice and excellent understanding of "stage tricks," he held the audience throughout the play.

R. T. Burnett and Miss Edna Ebert gave a very clever presentation of a little sketch by way of comedy entitled "I Don't Object." They were really the best of the minor principals in the play. George Merritt also handled his lines well.

If there is any one thing that deserves special praise it is the music as rendered by the house orchestra. The boys have made wonderful strides in their art and can easily handle the most difficult pieces. It will be of interest to know that they will handle the music for "The Burgomaster" next week, when that company fills an engagement here.

The chorus did some splendid work. The best voices in Medford were obtained and brought into perfect harmony. The music probably could not have been improved, but the soldiers would have proved a greater success had they been drilled in the manual of arms. From every which way and two mow-ways out of sleep somewhat grated upon the eardrums.

But to Charles D. Haxberg is the greatest credit due. Only one who thoroughly understands the work as Charlie does could have drilled a local talent company to such a degree of excellence as the entire cast showed.

IT IS GOOD BUSINESS GOOD CITIZENSHIP

to give your life insurance to OregonLife

BECAUSE:

1. OregonLife is the only life insurance company "Purely Oregon," confining its operations exclusively to healthy Oregon.
2. OregonLife makes all of its investments in securities which have their origin in Oregon and is an important factor in the upbuilding of a Greater Oregon.
3. OregonLife Guarantors are Oregon men of financial standing, active in the business world, where they are remarkable examples of success. No other life insurance organization is so helpful to Oregon.
4. OregonLife is a policyholders' company, managed for the benefit of policyholders exclusively. All profits of the business from every source go to them. No other Pacific Coast company is so organized.
5. OregonLife does not pose as a cheap or half-rate company. Rates charged are with a view to absolute security under all conditions. Incidentally, however, our rates are somewhat less than other conservative companies.
6. OregonLife dividends to policyholders are large and satisfactory, reducing the actual cost of insurance below that of any other company.
7. OregonLife Policies are unquestioned. We have a larger ratio of assets to liabilities than any of the large Eastern companies operating here. In a recent article in the Portland dailies the president of an Eastern company practically apologizes for the large assets of his company. He says: "Our assets are large because our liabilities are large."
8. OregonLife Policies are modern and fit every reasonable condition of life. They are sold on business principles, without resort to "board schemes" or other questionable methods.
9. OregonLife pays more promptly than any other company in its position to pay in Oregon.
10. OregonLife will, in case of your total disability, keep your policy in full force without further payment by you.

There is No Excuse for Any Citizen of Oregon Taking Life Insurance from Any Other Company
