Phone Main 3071. Max Presidential, the motion man, is making his monthly calls in the valley. L. E. Tibball of the Blake, McFall company is again visiting his valley customers. T. E. Daniels has ordered a vestibule shower, which will be one of the most elaborate in the city when installed. Orders for sweet cream or buttermilk promptly filled. Phone the creamery. Charles O. King is rapidly recovering from the effects of an operation which he recently underwent. Mrs. C. C. Beckman of Jacksonville is for the north Thursday evening. Ar. Beckman accompanied her to Medford. Fancy vestings galore—we make them to your order. W. W. Eifert, the progressive tailor. 299. Colonel J. F. Mundy and family have moved to the Lindley bungalow on West Sixth street. Colonel Frank Ray returned from San Francisco Thursday and left later for Portland. He expects to return Saturday. Over five hundred different shades to select your suit from at Eifert's 301. Edgar Hafer has returned from an extended business trip to San Francisco. S. D. Watson of Central Point was in Medford Friday for a few hours on business. Place your order for your Easter suit with Eifert, the progressive tailor. 301. V. C. Brown, who has been spending some days in Medford, has returned to his place of business in Eugene. John B. Wilson of Yreka, Cal., is spending a few days looking over the valley with a view of locating if he can find a place that will suit him. Harry B. Jameson of Applegate country is spending a few days in Medford visiting his friends. The Medford Opera company will visit Ashland this evening to present "Fra Diavolo." They will repeat it here Saturday evening and will visit Central Point Monday evening. Miss Joy Spicer, who has spent several months with her cousin, Mrs. J. W. Bates, in this city, has left for Portland, where she will take a training course in the St. Vincent hospital. J. W. Keyes of the Valley Auto company states that he drove a Chalmers Detroit "30" to Ashland on January 29, this being the first to put a car over the road this season, which honor was attributed to A. W. Walker, who made the trip last week. Dr. Seely says that the latest triumph of modern surgery is that of removing a vowel from a cat and substituting a whistle, so that every time the cat goes to yowl she blows a whistle which calls a dog and chases her up a tree. Oregon Observer: George Hull shipped his household goods to Medford yesterday and will make that place his future home. He, with a Mr. James of Gold Hill, has taken over the delivery and express business of the stores of Medford and will conduct a delivery and express business. Hereafter the stores have been doing their own delivering. A little orchard on the Applegate of four acres of 12-year-old Spitzenbergs, owned by R. N. Robinson, near Grants Pass, in 1907 netted $1600, says the Observer. Last year Mr. Robinson figured to realize $2000 from these four acres, but before gathering time a heavy wind shook off about two carloads prematurely. E. Erickson of the same locality last year netted $50 from a 120-foot row of red raspberries. Any one with suitable soil and intelligent cultivation can get similar results. Medford Templars in Ashland. Quite a number of Medford Knights Templars were in Ashland last evening to attend a convocation of Malta commandery, at which besides regular business the order of the Temple was conferred upon W. A. Atkin of Medford, says the Tidings. Among the visitors were John E. White, B. J. Trowbridge, C. L. Roames, R. C. Garrett, L. B. Warner, W. E. Laine, M. Knapp of Woodville, and C. W. Walters of Talent.

FUTURE KAISER HEARS ABOUT AMERICAN INDIANS

BERLIN, March 5.—Walter Meffink of Pittsburgh, a specialist in American Indian ethnology, lined with Crown Prince Frederick William and the Crown Princess last night after which he talked with his hosts of his most recent studies of the religion and traditions of the Old West. He gave the Crown Prince a series of colored reproductions of scenes at the Blackfoot sun festival. Prince and Princess von Preussen and the Duchess of Mecklenburg were among the guests. Mr. Meffink gave an informal lecture before the Crown Prince and the Crown Princess some months ago on Indian ethnology. He has now returned to Germany at the invitation of the ethnological societies of Hamburg and Berlin to submit the proofs of his 1908 investigations.

KLAMATH FALLS POSTAL RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE

Klamath Falls has had a wonderful growth in the past year as is evidenced by the big increase in the business done by the postoffice, says the Herald. It is now certain that at the end of the present quarter this city will be entitled to become a second class office. To accomplish this it will only be necessary for the office to do $250 worth of business during the present month, and Postmaster Emmett states that he will probably run $200 over this amount. There is no truer index of the growth and prosperity of a city than the increase in the postal receipts.

GREAT MYSTERY OF CROOK COUNTY IS SOLVED

BRND, Or., March 5.—After a lapse of ten years, the mystery surrounding the disappearance of S. Davis, a prominent and wealthy stockman of Crook county, is thought to be solved by the discovery of the remains of his body near his home. The disappearance of Davis ten years ago is one of the great mysteries of Oregon. An examination of the skeleton shows that it is probably that of Davis. The skeleton has been taken to Princeton for a more careful examination. It is thought he was murdered. The body was found in a shallow grave.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The first squadron of the Pacific fleet has been ordered to proceed to Seattle for the opening of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition June 1. Senator Piles was notified by this office today by the secretary of the navy. The squadron, which is composed of eight armored cruisers, will remain in this port eight days and will, the secretary states, probably be ordered to return later in the summer.

MARRIED

HALDWIN JACOBS—At Baker City, Or., March 3, W. H. Baldwin of Klamath Falls and Miss Mahol Johnson of Baker City.

BORN

SANDERS—In Ashland on February 25, to the wife of W. B. Sanders, a son.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD WANTS STEEL SLEEPERS

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 5.—The Pennsylvania railroad announces that it wants nothing but steel sleeping cars created. The first steel sleeping car ordered by the Pennsylvania passed through Pittsburgh last night and was expected here by local officials. The latest car, which was built at Chicago, will be thoroughly tried out at every point along the line and will reach New York by Saturday morning. It is understood that the reason given by the Pennsylvania for insisting that it sleepers hereafter be made of steel is because of the New York tunnel, as nothing having wood in its construction will be permitted to enter that tunnel.

Modern Structure at Ashland

ASHLAND, Or., March 5.—The first steel reinforced concrete building in southern Oregon has just been completed for the Ashland creamery. The building is concrete throughout save for the doors and windows. The whole structure is about six nearly fireproof in a building will save the new building was completed in two sections so as not to interfere with the business of the plant, which embraces its own electric plant, its own cold storage apparatus and a factory for the manufacture of ice. The latter is for the supplying of ice for the butter as well as for an ice cream factory.

Ashland Talking Paving

Melville Saelle and the contingent of volunteers who have been visiting the neighboring cities in quest of information concerning paving operations, arrived here this afternoon, presumably fortified with facts and figures respecting the subject of their northward trip, say the Tidings. Although they did not see outside of the state and visit that particular locality, they have doubtless learned that Portland, Montana, though devoid of asphalt and concrete, is nevertheless paved with even more than good intentions.

JAPANESE LABORERS DYNAMITE'S VICTIM

White Salmon, Wash., Mar. 5.—A Japanese laborer on the Deer ranch, two miles north of here, was blown up by dynamite yesterday. He had placed a stick of powder under a stump and, believing it had burst out, returned to his work. The explosion occurred. One arm was blown from his body, one eye blown out and his face and body torn in many places. His recovery is doubtful. He was taken to the Portland Hospital for treatment. He has a wife and a daughter there.
