"The Matchmaker," a comedy drama in three acts, is announced for presentation at the Medford tonight by Mr. Daniel Sully and a strong company. This play deals with a subject that so far has been given little attention by dramatists—the relations of a clergyman and his flock in everyday life. Mr. Sully appears as Father Daly, pastor of a church in a western frontier village, and it is said that the role gives him greater opportunities than any he has been seen in heretofore. Of the many new plays produced last season, the one which showed the greatest indication of a long and successful career is "The Matchmaker," in which Mr. Daniel Sully and his company will be seen at the Medford tonight. This play possesses all the elements necessary to win public favor. It tells an interesting story in a strikingly dramatic manner and contains enough humor and comedy to furnish a half dozen ordinary shows.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Matchmaker." The role of Father Daly in "The Matchmaker," which Daniel Sully will portray at the Medford tonight, is said to give the popular actor great opportunities for the display of that rich Celtic humor which is characteristic of his comedy methods. In "The Matchmaker," he has another "Pvish Priest," but the play is much stronger dramatically; the scene is laid in a little frontier town in Idaho, where Father Daly, pastor of the local church, has great trouble in controlling and governing a wayward flock. There is a wealthy, domineering ranchman in love with his pretty ward, a young mining engineer who proves a formidable rival, a very disreputable half-breed "Injun," a rollicking, lovable slangy boy who is the chief torment of Father Daly's life, a pompous army colonel, a staid, starchy widow from New York, a callow young artist and a number of interesting minor characters. A strong vein of comedy runs through the play and prevents the story from becoming too serious. In Father Daly, Mr. Sully has a role that fits him to perfection. He has plenty of comedy of the clear, characteristic Sully type, while the dramatic situations give him better opportunities than has been afforded him in any of his previous plays. He is delighted with the new play and considers it one of the big winners.

Love Germ Discovered. Waco, Fla., March 17.—Great excitement prevails in this town, owing to a great discovery made by Professor Amo, a chemist in the city. The germ first showed up in a chemical compound which has been named "love tonic." The Professor used it profusely on the pleasure seekers at the beach with many startling and laughable results. The "love tonic" worked rapidly and was no respecter of previous feelings, for had it any race prejudice. People known to harbor no love toward each other, when treated with this liquid, were soon clinging in each other's arms. As Mr. Amo walked down the beach he created more affection and feelings of love than Don Cupid would create in this vicinity in a century, for he left behind him a string of people who were locked in each other's fond embraces. Don't fail to attend the Savoy theater tonight and see the effect of this "love tonic." It will be shown in connection with other laughable pictures that will make you forget all your earthly woes.

DECLARES ALASKA IS GREATEST GOLD PRODUCER

SEATTLE, Wash., March 18.—Predicting that the Tanana district will produce more gold than Nevada and will exceed the output of last year and that Alaska will lead all producing districts on the American continent during the coming summer, W. H. Parsons returned from New York today. "I do not hesitate to say," he said, "that it will not be long until Alaska will be sending through this city, $75,000,000 annually in gold." W. J. Henry and wife left Medford Tuesday for Redding after a short visit with J. P. True of this city.

ANNOUNCEMENT. I wish to call attention to my tailoring department, the only exclusive shop in connection with a clothing store in Southern Oregon. During the past year I have expended ONE THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED DOLLARS for pressing clothing free of charge to my customers. Someone has received a share of this. Are you one of them? No one else in Southern Oregon ever offered this to the trade. During the coming year my tailoring department will be in charge of Mr. C. D. Trotter, an expert cutter and designer. Mr. Robert Slewing, formerly in charge, having resigned, as he is leaving Medford for his new home in California. Every time you send your suit to a shop to be pressed it is ONE DOLLAR at least. Ten times means ten dollars. We have pressed $15 suits 30 times. Better think of this when buying a new spring suit. The Largest Clothing Store in Southern Oregon. DANIELS FOR DUDS
