WILL EDUCATE CHINA REGARDING FORESTRY

PLANNING TO GAARY ON ACTIVE WORK IN ORIENT REGARDING CONSERVATION.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—China, often called the most backward of nations in the care of natural resources, is to be the scene of a vigorous campaign in the interests of the forests, according to plans for a series of meetings which will be held under the auspices of Boone college (Wuchang, China) at Hankow, Wuchang and Kowloon. Later there will be meetings in all the large cities and important ports both on the coast and in the interior.

Howard Richards, Jr., the representative in this country of the Chinese college, has been collecting material for these courses, and has just started to China. Several of the photographs showing the effect of a deforestation in China, which accompanied the president's last annual message to congress, form a part of a set of stereopticon views which will be used in illustrating these lectures.

China has probably taken less care of her forests than any other nation of the earth, and this movement to awaken in its people a realization of the importance of the forest comes at an opportune time. Many parts of China are practically desert wastes as a direct result of the destruction of its trees. On account of the erosion which has followed the removal of trees from the slopes, farmers are compelled to terrace their hillides in order to hold enough soil in place for farming, and to build little walls across the valleys to catch silt which the annual floods deposit. Two centuries ago, many regions of China which are now barren were paying revenue to their owners. Now the wood supply is so scarce that little poles are used for building houses, and roofs and saplings are burned as fuel.

Over 300 Chinese students from 11 provinces are being educated in Boone college for the uplift of their country, and it is expected by those in charge of the proposed lecture course that a movement started there will in time spread throughout the empire.
