HEADQUARTERS FOR FISHERMEN

ROGUE RIVER VALLEY'S DUSK LIGHTS.

(Glossary of the Indian words used in this from: Anung (star), Wahan (breeze), Coma (moon), Nee-to (eagle), Ower (breeze), Ahmo (bee), Pina (patridge), Tolala (the cedar tree).

Where ringed is the valley of land and leaf

With purple mists divine

In color the sun-warmed juice

From the fruit of the Shira's vine;

There closing day with crimson steeds,

Appears on Wahan's mount;

And bits his courser's back space

Beside cool Coma's fount.

The glowing hills are circled round

With rings of sapphire hue;

Their summits, bathed in pearl and fawn,

Flash with imagined dew.

Wide and afar the silvery streams

Thread many a wooing maze

Of woodland deep and hunters' round

And length of ferny ways.

Among appears on Nee-to's height,

Ower leaves her cave;

Tolala whispers to the land,

The sun sinks to the wave.

With ruby barbs sun-shafts of light

Pierce Ahmo's dimple shades:
While bell wood notes are heard afar
In Pina's amber glades.

Thro' evening's hush approaching night,

Touched with the sun's last beam:

Strays o'er pearl peaks, by winnowy
paths,

To veil the dell and stream.

The yellow disk of Siskiyou's moon

Lifts o'er the melting hills;

With sheen of pale pink light to garb
The shades by Rogue land's rills.

Biliousness and Constipation.

For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally.—Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala. UNCLE SAM TO LOOK OVER WATER POWER

Survey Will Be Made This Summer
by Members of Geological Survey of Western Streams.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—As soon as the weather permits, experts from the geological survey will start from Washington for the mountain fastnesses of the west to explore high peaks, defiles and canyons in a search of all the water power sites available on the public domain.

This will be done in accordance with the order issued a few days ago by Secretary Ballinger at the direction of President Taft, who has announced that he will do all in his power to continue the Roosevelt policy for the conservation of natural resources. It will be a concerted effort on the part of the government to obtain information as to the operations of the alleged water power trust and to present this information to congress in such a shape that a law can be enacted for the proper regulation of such sites.

Secretary Ballinger's order excited much interest here where the devotees of the Roosevelt conservation idea have been watching every move of the government to learn where the present administration stands on that all-important subject. The recent restoration of great tracts of land that had been withdrawn by President Roosevelt for the purpose of conservation had been a topic for discussion all week, until Mr. Taft issued a statement through Chief Forester Pinchot that he believed in conservation. Then came the announcement that the interior department was going to carry out the Roosevelt policy.

Apparent Discrepancy.

The apparent discrepancy between this announcement of policy and the action of the secretary of the interior in restoring to entry the power site withdrawals is explained by the administration by stating that the land should not have been withdrawn until the department knew that it was valuable for power site purposes. It is claimed that there is no special knowledge about these lands, but that they were withdrawn pending examination. Ballinger says he will do his examining of the lands first and the withdrawing afterwards. When he has the information he seeks, he will present it to congress with the Taft idea of the conservation of water power sites. Whether the Taft bill will be the same as that recommended by Roosevelt in several of his messages, in which he denounced the water power trust, it is impossible to learn. Government officials say that they want to know conditions before they make any statement as to the contemplated legislation.

The present administration is proceeding on the theory that if congress wants to conserve the water power sites of the public domain, it must pass a law. The lands thus valuable will be withdrawn from entry as fast as they are classified, but if congress fails to pass a conservation law it will be taken as an indication that the law makers of the country want the power sites treated as any other public land, and the land will be immediately restored to entry again.

LAKE COUNTY FREIGHT BY WAY OF KLAMATH

KLAMATH FALLS, May 8.—The first shipment of freight for Lake county to arrive in Klamath Falls was consigned to L. S. Ainsworth, one of the big merchants at Paisley. Ainsworth purchased a large quantity of goods for his store in San Francisco, a portion of which has already arrived here. With the completion of the railroad the rest of the consignment will arrive.

Ainsworth stopped in this city on his return to his Lake county home. In discussing the freight situation he stated that it was cheaper for the Paisley merchants to ship via Klamath than over the N. C. O. The wagon haul will not be greater than from Alturas, the present terminus of the road from Reno. The rates is much less from Klamath Falls than from Alturas.

The wagon road from Paisley to this city is being improved, the business men of the little Lake county town having raised $2000 to build from Paisley to Bly, where the road connects with the Klamath Falls-Lakeview road.
