STATE BOARD ISSUES A WARNING AGAINST FIRE

The Oregon State Board of Forestry has set forth a number of pertinent facts regarding timber resources and fire prevention in a leaflet and also in a notice of sufficient size to be posted in the woods. The season of forest fires is almost here, and the people are reminded that timber makes many pay checks, while timber that is burned over pays no wages. On every 1000 feet burned, the stumpage owner may lose $2, but the community loses $8 in wages.

About 1,000,000,000 feet is destroyed annually in Oregon, which, if manufactured, would bring in $13,000,000. This is a loss of wealth that must be made up from other sources when the tax collector comes around. The board of forestry warnings contain the following characteristic don'ts for the guidance of campers and all who go on vacations:

Don't toss any burning matches or tobacco.

Don't make a camp fire in leaves, rotten wood, or against logs, where it may spread or you can't be sure it is put out.

Always clear all the inflammable matter away from around your fire. Never leave a fire until it is out.

Don't burn your slashings in the close season without a permit from a fire warden.

Don't operate an engine without spark arrester in the close season.

Put out any fire you find if you can. If you can't notify a fire warden or other public officer, or the land owner. Remember that any little fire may become a big one if left alone.

WASHINGTON LEADS STATES IN ROUGH TIMBER CUT

SEATTLE, June 16.—Advance figures received by the Pacific Coast Lumber trade journal from the forest service in Washington show this state led all others in the production of rough and finished lumber last year. It is indicated that the total cut in Washington was 2,915,928,000 feet against 2,722,421,000 cut in Louisiana during the same year.

GREAT CORD COULD BE MADE FROM GOLD EXHIBIT

SEATTLE, June 16.—A gold cord long enough to encircle the earth and woven at the same time, and still heavy enough to tie around the baby's neck, it has been figured out, could be made from the $1,000,000 in just bricks and nuggets in the gold booth at the Seattle exposition. The virgin gold is to be seen in the Alaska building and is from that section.

CHERRY CROP WILL BE UNDER USUAL AVERAGE

Portland Telegram: Oregon cherries will be coming in a moderate way in a week and there is a good deal of interest now in the crop prospects for the state. Fruit street fruit dealers say that so far as known at this time the outlook is for an output considerably under the normal, the result of late spring frosts, which were more or less general in the cherry districts of the state. Around Salem the frosts appear to have done great damage, but in many other places the crop promises to be relatively light.

Already some small lots of Black Tartarian and other early sorts have come in from places near the city, and larger shipments are expected the latter part of the week from Newberg, Springbrook, The Dalles and other points. Next week there probably will be offerings of Oregon Royal Annes, and Lamberts, Blings and other late varieties will follow. The chances are that for home canning cherries this year will cost a little more than a year ago. For the present Californians form the bulk of the local supply, and these are quoted at $1.25 a box.

The outlook is about the same in the case of apricots, and home canners this year will have to depend largely upon California fruit. At The Dalles, Wenatchee and other points in the northwest the apricot crop was badly cut by late frosts, and the yield generally will be light. To make up for the shortage, the California crop is a large one and the quality of the fruit fine. Two crops of fancy canning apricots are expected from the south this week, one tomorrow and the second Friday. These will sell around $1.40 a crate. The small quantities of inferior apricots now in the market are selling in a slow way at 75 to 90 cents a small crate.

VALUABLE ADDITION TO GRANTS PASS LIBRARY

GRANTS PASS, June 16.—Superintendent R. R. Turner has received word from U. S. Senator George F. Chamberlain that the Grants Pass high school library has been made an official depository of the Geological Survey. Grants Pass is one of the four cities of the state to be made such a depository. The publications of the Geological Survey are among the most valuable issued by the government and this appointment will mean the addition of about 75 valuable volumes yearly to the library.
