"MARTHA" ON THE BOARDS TONIGHT

Tonight the Boston Ideals will open their eighth week at the Medford theater with a production of Plotow's great romantic opera, "Martha," in a prologue and four acts. This is the most ambitious offering that Manager Walters has attempted, but a glance at the cast shows that there is nothing to fear but that it will be given a splendid production.

The big feature of tonight's performance will be the appearance of Ed Andrews in the role of Plunkett, this being the last part in which Mr. Andrews appeared professionally before becoming a resident of Medford.

Mrs. Hazelrigg has a magnificent part in Lady Harriett (Martha), and Miss Palmer will make an admirable foil in the opposite part, Nancy.

Mr. Walters will have the first real opportunity for his big tenor as Lionel, while Messrs. Burgess and Quisenbury have congenial roles.

The following is the cast: Lady Harriett (Martha), Mrs. Hazelrigg; Nancy (Julia), Miss Palmer; Lionel, afterward Earl of Derby, F. W. Walters; Plunkett, a rich farmer, Ed Andrews; Sir Tristan, Lady Harriett's cousin, A. C. Burgess; Sheriff, W. E. Quisenbury.
