SPRAYING SPLENDID WAY WAY TO DESTROY WEEDS

Experiments have been carried on in the East in spraying for the destruction of weeds. In the case of some weeds it has been found that certain chemicals will destroy them while not injuring other vegetation. Who originated the idea it is unable to state, but some years ago it was accidentally discovered in France that a spray of sulphate of copper (blue vitrol) would destroy wild mustard and charlock in wheat without damaging the grain. The North Dakota experiment station has been experimenting for some time along these lines, and with great success. A ten per cent solution of blue vitrol was sprayed on a very weedy plot of wheat with the result that most of the weeds were killed, while the grain suffered little from the application. Among the chemicals used are salt, sulphate of copper, kerosene, carbolic acid, arsenic and sal soda, and arsenite of soda. Some plants are more susceptible to sprays than others, for many are protected by scales, hairs or a waxy secretion that the sprays will not penetrate, but it has been found that a very large part of the worst weeds can be destroyed by this simple process without damage to the grain. How it would act in relation to other field crops is yet to be determined by experiment.

Some of the cleverest boxers and wrestlers of the Pacific Coast appear nightly in the Arena at the exposition in Seattle.

Prepaid Railroad Orders.

"Something which is of considerable interest to the public generally and which is perhaps not generally known is in effect between stations of the Southern Pacific company and all points in the United States. By means of this system tickets may be purchased at Medford from any place in the United States and mailed or telegraphed direct to the party wishing to come here. Sleeper accommodations and small amounts of cash in connection with these tickets may also be forwarded at the same time."

Danger in Eye Pouches.

Do not poultice an eye in any circumstances whatever. Binding a wet application over an eye for several hours must damage that eye, the assertions of those professing to have personal experience in this to the contrary notwithstanding. The failure to aggravate an existing trouble by binding a moist application over an inflamed eye, which application is supposed to remain for an entire night, can only be explained by the supposition that a guardian angel has watched over that misguided case and has displaced the poultice before it had got in its fine work. All oculists condemn the poultice absolutely, in every shape and in every form. Tea leaves, bread and milk, raw oysters, scraped beef, scraped raw turnip or raw potato and the medley of other similar remedies popularly recommended are one and all capable of producing irremediable damage to the integrity of the tissues of the visual organ.—Family Doctor.

Eccentric Count Bertrand.

Count Bertrand, who lived in Paris, was a very eccentric man, and to one of his eccentricities he ascribed his long life. Once a year he would take himself to bed and stay there for three months. On these occasions he would see no one but his servant, who brought him his meals, and even him he forbade to speak. Just before the Germans began the siege of Paris the count went to bed, and the servant, true to his injunctions, said nothing of the events going on around him. One day the bread proved so bad the count demanded an explanation, whereby, of course, he learned that Paris was encompassed by the enemy. Springing out of bed, the count paced the floor, repeating, "What should a Bertrand do under such circumstances?" Suddenly he stopped, exclaiming, "We should go to bed!" and to bed he went and stayed there until the siege was over.

Willie Objects.

Among the representatives in congress is one whose lack of personal comeliness is the basis of personal banter from his facetiously inclined colleagues.
"Why, Willie," said one of them to the four-year-old son of the congressman, "how much you resemble your father!"
"Yes, sir," responded Willie, with an air of resignation. "Everybody says that, but I don't think I deserve it."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Getting a Start.

"Did you secure tickets for the play, hubby?" inquired the New York wife. "I hear they are in demand."
"They are, but I managed to get seats for two months from tonight. And, by the way—"
"Well?"
"You might begin to get ready now."—Kansas City Journal.

The Annual Rooter.

"Do you know the difference between an optimist and a pessimist?"
"Yes, indeed," answered young Mrs. Torkins. "All I have to do to see the difference is to observe Charley at the beginning and at the end of a baseball season."—Washington Star.

REDDY AND ROGERS BACK FROM TRIP CENTRAL OREGON

Dr. J. F. Reddy and J. G. Rogers have returned from an auto trip to Crater Lake Fort Klamath and up the Deschutes to Bend and back. They are both greatly impressed with the possibilities and future of central Oregon. Mr. Rogers, who is an old railroad contractor, thinks that central Oregon offers the greatest opportunity for a new railroad of any section in the country.
"Oregon is an immense state and destined to witness an era of development that will put it in the lead of western states," said Mr. Rogers. "The natural wealth and resources are not comprehended until one travels through the sparsely settled interior. It will not be long until a railroad, perhaps two, tap central Oregon, and then development will proceed rapidly."
