

ALAMO Gasoline and Distillate Engines

A carload arrived the past week. If you are thinking of putting in an irrigation plant, Do It Now.

The Alamo Engine received first prize at the Oregon state fair held at Salem in 1908.

Singular and Plural.

"Whenever she gets to thinking how much they're in debt it affects her nerves."
"Huh! The way it affects her husband is singular."
"How singular?"
"Just singular. It affects his 'nerve.' He tried to borrow a hundred from me today."—Catholic Standard and Times.

New Scheme.

Jimmy—What yer looking so gay about, kiddo? Yer'll get a licking when yer get home for going in swimming.
Petey—Oh, no. I told dad I had been in swimming and got the licking before I left home. Now I can swim without anything on my mind. —Denver News.

Contradicted.

The play was dull from start to end, and the author thus addressed a friend: "If 'twas not a hit, 'twas a miss, for I didn't hear a single hiss."
"True," said his friend, "but in such weather no man can hiss and gape together." —Detroit Free Press.

A Pointer.

"Boy, have you seen a valuable hatpin? I can't find it anywhere."
"Which way was the pin headed, ma'am?" —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

She Dusted Him.

Mrs. Benham—Map is made of dust.
Benham—I wish you wouldn't use a rolling pin for a dust brush. —Philadelphia Ledger.

DOTTED LINE DOTTINESS.

HED been cutting puzzle pictures for the children every week. And at last he rose in frenzy and began to wildly speak:
"Please be careful when you trim me. I'm a puzzle picture now."
Then he slapped his palm with vigor on his superheated brow.
"You will find complete instructions at the side of the design. But be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line."

"If the dealer doesn't give me with the paper that you buy, Tell him that he is a robber and then swat him in the eye. Lay me on the dining table when the breakfast hour is over. Or if baby wants to watch it spread me out upon the floor. Note the letters and the figures where the sections all combine. And be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line."

"I'm a steamboat and an engine and a horse and wagon too. You will find that every Sunday I am always something new. Please be careful when you're working over me with happy haste. That you do not cut your fingers or upset the pot of paste. I'm a colored puzzle picture, and I think that it is fine. But be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line."

So we took him by the fingers, and we led him gently out. And we put him in a wagon that was waiting thereabout. And we hauled him to the portal of the sanitarium. While he showed us how to shape him till he was a big bass drum. The attendant nodded gravely when he said, "Note my design. And be sure that when you fold me fold me on the dotted line." —Chicago Post.

HIS CLEVER MOVE.

How a Quaker City Tenant Outwitted the Landlord.

WHEN recently leasing a house in a fashionable suburb of Philadelphia the lessee failed to examine closely the terms of the lease. After a time his landlord called and reminded him that he was bound to do all the outside painting at certain intervals. The tenant protested in vain, so he engaged painters and ordered them to paint the whole front of the house red, white and blue—in stripes.

When it was finished the neighborhood rose up in arms, and the landlord was frantic. The tenant politely explained that there was nothing in the lease about the color, so he intended to finish the job by painting the back of the house green with large yellow spots. The landlord saw that he had met his match, and within a few days the tenant had a new lease in which the landlord undertook to do all the outside painting. —Lippincott's Magazine.

A Truce.

Braun (finding his neighbors in the midst of a domestic quarrel)—But what are you doing under the bed, Tips?
Tips—Looking for a mark that we lost, aren't I, my dear?
Mrs. Tips—Yes, but you can come out now. You can look for it again after Herr Braun has gone. —Pilegende Blatter.

The Wane of the Honeymoon.

"Haven't you forgotten something?" the sweet young wife called to him from the open doorway.
He stopped and fumbled in his pockets.

"What is it?"
"You—you used to kiss me when you started downtown," she said, with a little flush on her rounded cheeks.
"Oh, is that it?" he cried as he retraced his steps. "There you are. And, say, I'll take enough for four mornings ahead. Hang it all, there goes my car!"

And he made the gravel fly as he raced for the street crossing. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In the Future.

Pausing at the entrance to the church wherein the wedding ceremony is being performed, we note an airship tugging at its moorings and at one side concealed in the shrubbery a huge mortar or siege gun. About this latter are grouped a merry party of young folk, who are laughing gayly and are loading the weapon to the muzzle with old shoes and rice.

"What are you doing?" we inquire casually.
"They're going away in their airship on their honeymoon trip," explains one of the joyous party. "Just when they clear the steeple of the church we are going to let them have the contents of this gun." —Chicago Post.

TRUSTEE WILL SELL VALUABLE

OFFICE FURNISHINGS OF

NEUBER SALOON

Tomorrow afternoon (Thursday) at 2 p. m. at a bankruptcy sale ordered by the federal court in the matter of the bankruptcy of George E. Neuber, a rare opportunity will be afforded business men to purchase valuable office furnishings at a great bargain.

In addition to a large stock of liquors, the trustee will sell at auction to the highest bidder three cash registers, including a new electric cash register of the latest pattern, an electric piano, a safe, a beautiful piece of statuary, a pigeonhole table, two pool tables, one billiard table and a great deal more property of similar character.

The sale will take place in front of the Sachs building in Jacksonville and will be in charge of the trustee, D. H. Jackson. All of the stock of liquors will be sold in bulk in one lump sale, but all of the other items will be auctioned off, article by article, to the highest bidder for cash.

As these bankruptcy sales are usually but very lightly attended, it is thought that many bargains can be had.
