CENTRAL POINT LAND IN GREAT DEMAND

Realty Market Brisk—Many Sales of Importance Have Been Recently Transacted.

The real estate market in Central Point has been exceptionally brisk during the past week and a number of good sales have been recorded.

Frank Amy has sold his residence property at the foot of Third street to J. W. Myers for $6000. This property consisted of nine and three-quarters acres, with five acres planted to orchard, and is one of the finest suburban homes in southern Oregon. Besides a fine residence the property has its own private water system, furnishing water for domestic and irrigation purposes. Mr. Myers, the new owner, recently sold his 20-acre orchard east of town to Mr. Fiero of Chicago for $20,000. Mr. Amy belongs to one of the oldest pioneer families of southern Oregon and has spent most of his life in Central Point. He left Monday for Seattle and Alaska, and after touring that portion of the country he will return to Portland, where he expects to reside permanently.

Chalmers Gilmore, deputy postmaster, has sold his 14-acre tract to Mrs. Nye of Medford, consideration $1600. This tract of land lies northwest from Central Point and is a portion of the old Obenchain estate and is considered one of the best small tracts in this locality.

Rod Easley, who for the past several months has occupied a forge in Frank Hawk's blacksmith shop, has purchased the interest of C. W. Jeffers in the Jeffers & Pearis shop, together with a half interest in the two lots on the corner of Third and E streets, where the business is located. The price was not made public. The new firm will be known as Pearis & Easley. Mr. Jeffers has a homestead in the Butte Falls district and his reasons for selling were to devote more time to his interests in that section.

W. J. Garvin has purchased one and one-half acres of land in the Amy addition of Central Point from H. A. Scott, consideration $600. The land is planted to young pear trees and has a neat cottage erected on it. Mr. Garvin is a recent arrival in Central Point, having come here a few weeks ago from Fairfield, Neb. Before coming to Central Point he traveled quite extensively over the Pacific coast, but found no place that so well suited him for a future home as did the Rogue River valley, and his decision to make this his permanent home will be pleasantly received by his friends in this section.

Ancient Greek Training.

The manner in which the Athenians brought up their children is worth remembering. At seven years of age the Athenian lad entered the palestra, which was essentially a playground. All the first and better half of the day was spent in gymnastics, dancing, games and play. In the afternoon there were singing, some writing, some reading, all in the open air, and then came a long period of play again. Such was the schooling of the Greek lad up to the age of ten or eleven, and it did not differ essentially up to the age of sixteen, except in the severity of the exercises. And yet the world has not ceased to marvel at the results of the Greek education. It produced the highest type of man, physically and intellectually, that the world has ever seen, which Galton says was as far in advance of the modern Englishman as the modern Englishman is in advance of the native African. In physical beauty, courage and patriotism, in philosophy, literature, architecture and art, the Greeks have been the unsurpassed models of the ages and are still the inspiration of our schools today. But they placed the emphasis upon hygiene, exercise, games and play, which are too much neglected in these days.—Kansas City Star.

UNCLE SAMUEL DESCRIBES CAVES

Interesting Description of Josephine Caves Issued by the Government.

The government has issued a bulletin describing the natural caves of Josephine county. The Bulletin says in part:

The caves are in marble and other limestones and consist of innumerable caverns, corridors and passageways of various sizes, all of them decorated beyond description in crystallized carbonates. They have been explored to a distance of two miles or more, the lowest of them being at a depth of about 2000 feet below the summit of Cave mountain, the highest being some 700 or 800 feet above it. There are many passageways and rooms which have never been opened, and with these distant and unexplored openings the magnitude of the Oregon caves is practically unknown.

Discovered in 1874.

These natural wonders were discovered in 1874 by Elijah Davidson, while bear hunting, and the greater part of the exploration work was done by F. M. Nickerson of Kerby, Or., in 1877, when four floors of levels were partially opened. Many of the old ladders used at that time are still in use.

Cave mountain, the peak which contains these caves, rises to an elevation of about 6000 feet and is of limestone formation. The main openings around which the national monument has been created are at an elevation of 4000 feet, but the entire mountain side for five or six miles shows caverns of various sizes and in all probability is honeycombed throughout its interior like the portion which has been explored.

Many small streams are found at different elevations, and larger bodies of running water can be heard in bottomless pits so far as measured. This running water probably accounts for currents of wind that in some of the galleries blow so hard as to extinguish an open light at once.

Many Stalactites.

The lime deposits take many beautiful forms: massive pillars, delicate stalactites of alabaster whiteness with the crystal drop of water carrying its minute deposit of lime from which they are formed, and broad sheets resembling drapery with graceful curves and waves that were certainly made by varying currents of wind during formation.

In past years visitors have broken off and carried away many of the most valuable specimens and this destruction, as well as to retain these natural wonders as public property induced the recommendation to place them in a national monument.

The forest service has rebuilt and improved the trails leading to the caves from each side of the divide in order to more easily protect the valuable forest surrounding, and to make the caves more accessible to tourists.

TEN REASONS WHY You Should Be a Reader of The Pacific Monthly

- 1st. It is the leading magazine of Western America, published on the Pacific coast edited by western men and its entire contents are Western. With pen, brush and camera, it tells the story of the wonderful progress of the West.
- 2nd. No other section of the entire world is experiencing such a rapid industrial and commercial growth as that section of the United States west of the Rockies. It is a duty you owe to yourself to keep informed—The Pacific Monthly completely covers the field.
- 3rd. There are opportunities for the extension of practically every line of business in this territory, and The Pacific Monthly tells of these opportunities.
- 4th. If you are looking for a chance to invest or locate—commerce, farming, orcharding or professional work, if you are worn, tired or in ill health, seeking rest or reasonable, The Pacific Monthly will give you a thousand valuable hints.
- 5th. Here also you can get close to nature. The great snow-capped mountains, in all their rugged grandeur, the boundless plains and the virgin forests, "God's Country," untarnished by the hand of man. Do you not wish to spend a few hours each month with us?
- 6th. The best of western literature to be found in the Pacific Monthly. Live topics of THE DAY, stories of progress and of opportunities, the Romance of the mountains and the plains, always intensely human.
- 7th. One never tires of beautiful pictures and the Pacific Monthly is famous for its illustrations, always a veritable picture book of Western scenery, from Mexico to Alaska and from Denver to the coast. No expense is spared in securing the most striking photos for reproduction in colors and halftones.
- 8th. The Pacific Monthly should be in every home. From cover to cover it is clean wholesome reading of an educational nature and is particularly interesting and valuable both to teacher and students.
- 9th. Look upon your map, note the great area west of the Rockies, think of the wonderful resources of this section of the country—thousands of acres of agriculture land, billions of feet of standing timber, mineral riches beyond comprehension, extending to the shores of the mighty Pacific, the highway to the Orient—Do you not want to know more about this marvelous country?
- 10th. A spirit of optimism prevails throughout the west that lends life and vigor to all. That is why the Pacific Monthly is different. It comes to you each month breathing this spirit of the west. It will put the red blood into your veins—try it.
