Thought She Had Arrived.
 "I have moved into a perfect gem of an apartment on the sixth floor of one of those new houses," said the woman who paints china, "and am reveling in its liberal supply of fresh air and sunlight."
 "But don't you find the stairs an overbalancing disadvantage?" asked an acquaintance.
 "The thought of the cozy quarters at such moderate cost colors my climb with the rosy hue of optimism," laughed the artist. "but one of my customers, middle aged and filled with good food and the joy of living, evidently found it a harrowing experience."
 "It seemed ages that I waited in the hall after the ringing of the lower bell, and upon hearing the labored breathing of my ascending visitor I ran back for the smelling salts."
 "When I had administered all the means of resuscitation at hand she managed to articulate between gasps: "I thought St. Peter always opened the door."—New York Times.

Food of the Chinese.
 In the Revue d'Hygiene Dr. Malençon, who lived for many years in China, gives some curious details of the food of the Chinese. This is what he says of the sons of heaven and the way they eat eggs: "The Chinese are great eaters of eggs, which they take hard boiled. One finds them in all the roadside places for refreshment. The Celestials have an expression, 'Eggs of a hundred years.' The eggs are not always a century in age, but one is able to get them of many years' standing. The Celestials have a preference for the egg of the duck or goose. They are placed with aromatic herbs in slaked lime for a period, the minimum time of treatment being five or six weeks. Under the influence of time the yolk liquefies and takes a dark green color. The white coagulates and becomes green. The product of the eggs, which has a strong odor, from which a stranger betakes himself quickly, the Chinese eat as hors d'oeuvres, and it is said to have the taste of lobster."
