LARGE TRACTION ENGINE TO BE USED IN HAULING LUMBER

GRANTS PASS, Or., Aug. 12.—The traction engine and lumber trucks for hauling lumber, etc., for the Spaulding lumber mills in Swede Basin have arrived and are yet on the cars in this city. The engine is one of the largest of the kind that is built and the trucks are made to 25 with the engine, they having extra wide tires with corks so that the wheels will stick to the road. The outfit cost something like $10,000 and owing to the long haul the Spauldings have to make, will soon pay for itself in the large amount of lumber that can be hauled at one time. There is much speculation as to how the heavy engine will affect the roads, many thinking that it will tear them all to pieces, but others who have seen them used in California, say that they are a benefit to the roads on account of the heavy wheels filling up the chuck holes.

The city recorder is authorized to advertise immediately for bids in order that the work may be completed this fall.

BELLS OF THE BASTILLE.

They Are Hung in a Little Rustic Building in Paris.

The bells of the Bastille are still in Paris in a little court in Avenue d'Eylau, where they are hung in a little rustic building. There is no doubt as to their authenticity. They carry in relief their story. "These three bells were made by Louis Cheron, founder to the court, for the royal Bastille in the year 1764." Fleurs-de-lis, crosses and sacred figures adorn the legend. The bells formerly were part of the clock installed by M. Sartine in 1764. In the archives de l'arsenal are all the documents relative to the work.

On July 14, 1789, the bells of the Bastille stopped the clock of the Bastille at a quarter past 5 in the evening. Falloy, who demolished the prison, three days later received the order to deliver the clock to the commander of the Paris militia, who transported it to no one knows whither. After the revolution the bells were found at the foundries of Rouilly-sur-Andelle, in Eure, where, under the reign of terror, the church bells were converted into money. The proprietor of the foundry was interested in these relics and did not melt them. He installed the three bells in his works with the movement of the clock. By this time the dial plate had disappeared and the figures which belonged to it. Some years ago the bells were transferred from the Rouilly foundry to Paris, and there they have since remained.—London Globe.

The French Academy. The French academy is one of the five academies and the most eminent constituting the Institute of France. It was founded in 1635 by Cardinal Richelieu and reorganized in 1816. It is composed of forty members, the new member elected by the remaining thirty-nine members for life after personal application and the submission of the nomination to the head of the state. It meets twice weekly and is "the highest authority on everything pertaining to the niceties of the French language—to grammar, rhetoric and poetry and the publication of the French classics." The chief officer is the secretary, who has a life tenure of his position. A chair in the academy is the highest ambition of most literary Frenchmen.
