PROSPECTUS FOR COMING STATE FAIR

Indications for Better Displays and Greater Attractions Than Ever Before.

The next Oregon State Fair will be the forty-eighth annual one in the history of the organization, and it will be conducted at Salem during the week of September 13-18, under the direction of the Oregon State Board of Agriculture, the secretary of which is F. A. Welch, and the president, W. F. Matlock. Several improvements are being made in the plan of the fair grounds, among which might be mentioned the construction of a massive concrete main entrance, flanked on either side by a commodious reinforced concrete administration building, in which will be located the offices of the board and which will be a very busy place during the week that the fair is in operation. This structure is located a few rods to the left of the former main or "railroad" gate and with its spacious vestibule and electric turnstiles will afford easier access to the grounds for the great crowds of people who attend the fair during the entire week.

A most desirable change has been made in the locations of the principal restaurants and poultry pavilions, all of which will be appreciated by the visitors in attendance at the fair of the future to be held on this ground.

The altering of the grounds in this respect affords larger lawns and more spacious walks up to and in front of the main exhibition buildings and the live stock barns on the fair grounds.

A live stock judging arena, 100 feet wide by 212 feet in length, has been made in close proximity to the stock barns, so that during the time that the several judges are passing upon the classes of stock entered for the premiums, those spectators interested in the work can witness it without being held back by a few people in front who are always present to obstruct a general view of such things.

The secretary reports that there are many entries in agricultural products, and live stock to their several classes will be more plentiful than ever.

The machinery pavilion has been enlarged so that there is fully 17,500 square feet of floor space for displaying farm implements, machinery, carriages, wagons, and other vehicles, etc.

The poultry pavilion is enlarged to the extent of an acre 42 x 75 feet, and the entire structure is equipped with new coops for the feathered beauties that will be entered for the ribbons and premiums. The superintendent of this department is Prof. James Dryden, of the poultry husbandry department of the Oregon Agricultural College. He is putting forth special efforts to make this exhibition of poultry the largest and most attractive in the history of the state fair. A section of the poultry building annex will be used for the Scotch Collie dog department.

The dairy department will be looked after by Paul V. Maris, one of the deputies to the state dairy commissioner. He will have a display of dairy and creamery products the like of which has never been seen on the fair grounds, and there will be a large display of dairy utensils by various dairy supply houses in the Pacific Northwest.

The racing at the fair will be of the best sort, as many horses of extraordinary speed have been entered for the rich purses that will be hung up. The race course is in splendid condition for record breaking events.

There will be special amusement features during the day and evening hours, all of which are sure to attract many farmers and agriculturists who may desire to take a short vacation at this time of the year.

CARLOAD OF PIG IRON SHIPPED TO REDDING

REDDING, Cal., Aug. 18.—An event of great industrial importance took place in Redding today when a carload of pig iron from Heroult on the Pit river was delivered in the Redding railroad yards to be unloaded and carted to a local foundry. The pig iron was the first ever made in Shasta county. It was made by the electric process smelter, and the fact that a carload of it was received shows that it can be produced in quantities large enough to give it a commercial value.

An interesting feature in connection with the shipment of the pig iron is the fact that it is to be made into castings at the local foundry to be shipped back to Heroult for use. Shipments of carloads of pig iron from Heroult will probably be frequent occurrences in the future.

The electric process smelter promises to revolutionize the iron industry of the world.
