

BUTTE FALLS ITEMS

Deputy Sheriff Powers is serving subpoenas on some of our citizens as prospective grand jurors and witnesses for the September term of court.

Edgar Hafer and a party of Eastern friends came to town in their automobile on Tuesday, and after looking over the mill and townsite proceeded towards Ranchina to inspect the timber holdings. As they were very reticent and declined to give out any information, we naturally infer that their visit was not of much moment or calculated to encourage local interests or else their secretiveness was due to their having some investments in view which they deemed it best to leave undisclosed until they had matured their plans.

The saw dust case was tried at Central Point on Monday and resulted in a verdict of not guilty. A preliminary investigation would have saved the county the large expense incident to the prosecution.

We again call the county authorities' and the road supervisor's attention to the condition of the public road near Eagle Point and especially to the absence of any foot bridge or culvert over the stream near the Jack ranch. The traveling public a right to the public highways being in passable condition and not to be compelled to wade a stream two feet or more in depth, or to cling to a barb wire fence with imminent risk of serious injury, in order to get over obstructions directly in the line of travel. Attend to this gentlemen. Stop the liches flooding the road.

A logging chain was lost last week on the Willow creek road by Beale. The finder will kindly return the same to Bill Beale.

Frank Green, of Medford, brought in to town Mr. Conklin and wife, with some other friends, for an outing, and they have all camped at the Entrop retreat.

Otis Hubbard, Jack Plymale and Del Hazel, who have been camping nearby, drove out to the valley on Wednesday.

Messrs. Brown, Starr and Woodward were trading in town on Wednesday.

Camp Nick is about deserted. W. T. Brown and wife, with Mrs. Clemens and Mrs. Kentner, left on Thursday for the valley in time to be on hand for the circus.

Miss Fannie Haskins and friends, who have been at Entrop retreat, fearful that they would not be on hand for the Ringling circus, broke camp on Wednesday and started for the valley.

As in illustration of the character of our summer climate a few miles from Butte Falls, where the boys were working on the trail, each night water froze and the liquid food left upon the table overnight was found frozen each morning, and the boys had a hard time to keep warm. Yet thousands of dollars are spent by people to visit some summer resort to find cool weather when they have the finest summer climate at their door.

Mrs. Jennie Wright of California, who owns property in Butte Falls and has purchased more, and who has been camping with us for several weeks, left on Friday for Redding. Mrs. Wright will return next season and build a fine bungalow, as she has great faith in the prospects for this town.

Mr. Nally of the unsurveyed, with several other homesteaders of Dudley, were trading with our merchants on Thursday.

It is not reasonable to believe that there are "knockers" in Medford who are working against the extension of the P. & E. railroad or who are putting obstacles in the way of Mr. Allen in his laudable enterprise. Your editorial in a late issue was timely and to the point, and it is to be hoped as well as expected that the interests which have been antagonistic in this railroad matter will unite their efforts and work conjointly in pushing to completion this important project and that Mr. Allen and his helpers will not be hindered or the construction work opposed. Such procedure has mitigated very much against the work, as it has been projected more than once in the way of securing necessary ways and means in furtherance of the enterprise. There is room and profit enough for all of these gentlemen, and there should be no dog in the manger spirit known. Medford people, put your shoulders to the wheel and encourage Mr. Allen and his co-workers. You are standing directly in the way of your own material interest.

Mrs. Doubleday has gone to the valley for a visit with her son and wife.

Fred Reineke was called to Medford on Thursday on business connected with the mill.

S. M. Clevenger and Deputy Sheriff Powers were called to Eagle Point within the week.

Nearly everybody is going to Ringling's circus on Saturday, and our town will be nearly deserted on that day.
