FIRST ROGUE PEARS IN GOTHAM TOO BIG

Sogobel & Day, fruit brokers of New York, under date of August 28, say: Eighty-one cars Thursday and Friday, making 201 cars for the whole week.

Yesterday's prices were as follows: Bartlett's, $3.75; Gros-Hungarian, $1.62; Fellenberg (Italians), $1.75; Silver-Egg, $1.10; Orange Clings, 95c; Susquehanna, 90c; Lovell, 80c.

Bartlett's—First car from Oregon coming to us from Medford auctioned yesterday, average $3.21, which is light, remembering the fruit was generally too large, bulk 100 per box. Please remember 133-150 per box are the desirable sizes on Bartlett pears for New York. California Bartlett's arriving yellow and coming ripe and soft. Best stock sells from $3.75 to $3.25, and poor stuff from $2.75 to $2.25. All pears will continue to command big figures in this market without the shadow of a doubt.

Primes—No cars Italians yet here from the northwest. We have several due to sell next week, and they will all do well. Receipts from California this week not half of what they were last, and the market is strong. A few Fellenbergs in the sale each day this week, and sold mostly $1.87 to $1.62. The buyers are all asking for Italians and Hungarians from the northwest.

Peaches—Market lower at the end of the week, although the offerings of Californians this week less than last. Increasing receipts from nearby states, and we must confess the outlook is not very good yet for peaches, but after another two weeks when the fine Colorado Elbertas come along we hope for a different state of things.

DEMAND IN PORTLAND FOR ROGUE PEACHES

PORTLAND, Sept. 4.—Though receipts of peaches for the week thus far have been fairly liberal, the supply of the fruit in the Front street market this morning, as a result of the unusually heavy trade the past two days, was decidedly small for this stage of the season. Some of the dealers reported stocks for the time actually short of requirements. Prices were unchanged, but the market was firm, especially on the better grades, the demand for which exceeded the supply.

On car of Ashland Crawfords came in last night and was unloaded on the street today, and a car of California Salways arrived later in the day. Both sorts sold freely at the prices that have been quoted since the first of the week, which are materially higher than the quotations of a year ago. There was the usual heavy percentage of the medium and small sizes in the supply of Crawfords, for the height of the season is past, but even these moved in a manner satisfactory to the trade, going generally at 60 to 90 cents. The large sizes were in strong demand at $1 to $1.10 a box. The California fruit was of good quality and went readily at 80 cents to $1.

Primes—No cars Italians yet here from the northwest. We have several due to sell next week, and they will all do well. Receipts from California this week not half of what they were last, and the market is strong. A few Fellenbergs in the sale each day this week, and sold mostly $1.87 to $1.62. The buyers are all asking for Italians and Hungarians from the northwest.

Peaches—Market lower at the end of the week, although the offerings of Californians this week less than last. Increasing receipts from nearby states, and we must confess the outlook is not very good yet for peaches, but after another two weeks when the fine Colorado Elbertas come along we hope for a different state of things.
