From Game to Game.
He was afraid to tell her right out and out that he loved her, so he began in a roundabout way, hoping she would catch his drift, then betray, by her confusion, her own feelings. He didn't dream but that she loved him, but thought that she, like himself, was afraid to demonstrate it.
"Heart trouble," she repeated. "Are you sure you've heart trouble, Alfred? You know indigestion is very like it at times."
"Oh, I know I've got heart trouble, all right. I—can't you see it yourself?"
"Why, how silly, Alfred! No one can see heart trouble. They have to feel it. Have you taken anything for it?"
"No, not yet. But I—I want to, don't you know?"
"Then why don't you?"
"I—I would—that is, if I could get it."
"Can't you get it, Alfred?"
"I—I don't know."
"Have you tried?"
"No, not yet."
(Silence for two provoking moments.)
"Alfred!" coldly.
"Yes."

Walking.
The ordinary man who is employed indoors throughout the day does not walk enough. He needs the fresh air and sunshine of the outdoors, and, no matter how tired he may be, a short time in the open air will rest him. If he has no opportunity to walk during the evening, he ought to do it in the morning. There is no better tonic than a two mile walk before going to work. Some business men who live some distance from their offices or stores walk down regularly every morning and are greatly benefited thereby. No matter how sluggish they may feel on arising, the morning walk puts them in good trim for the day's work. Exercise in the open air starts the blood circulating in every artery and vein in the entire system, opens up the pores of the skin, so that the waste matter in the body may be set free, limbers up the joints and muscles and puts one in shape for the duties of the day.—St. Joseph Gazette.

The Meredith Coconut.
George Meredith may not have been an altogether familiar author to the ordinary reader who craves for quick sensation. He never came down to the simplicity of Sherlock Holmes or Captain Kettle. Meredith required an acute and trained intellect before he could be appreciated.
It was once mentioned, in referring to the difficulty which some people experience in reading Meredith's novels, that the Meredith "coconut" was very hard, but that the milk when reached proved to be very sweet. This joke got into the papers.
Two days afterward a well known firm of fruiterers had an inquiry after these coconuts from a country customer! The letter was to the effect that, having read somewhere that Meredith's coconuts have had a large sale lately and that the milk was fashionable, the writer would like to have a few to try.—London Tatler.

Queer Postal Training.
In China whoever wishes to enter the postal service must give evidence of courage, robustness, power of endurance, ability to traverse great distances over mountains and valleys and through dangerous forests frequented by wild beasts and robbers. After this the applicant is sent into uncanny places, which are considered to be the abodes of evil spirits. When the Chinaman has satisfied the authorities in regard to these matters he is appointed a letter carrier.

A Matter of Mind.
"I have a great mind to go to the club tonight," said Mr. J. to his wife.
"What?" she replied with surprise.
"I have a great mind to go to the club tonight."
"Whose?" she asked.
"Whose what?"
"Whose great mind?"
"Why, my own, of course, madam."
"Oh!" and the rising infection she gave the ejaculation was very provoking to a man of fine feeling.

A West Indian Wife Catcher.
As is customary with Indians the world over, the Caribs are expert basket weavers, and many strong and handsome baskets are to be bought in Roseau at reasonable prices if one finds the right shops, writes Harriet Quimby in Leslie's Weekly. A peculiar instrument, made of basket straw and woven closely together so as to form a hollow tube ending in a thong of twisted ends and commonly dubbed a wife catcher, is also made and sold by the Caribs. By slipping the hollow end over a man's finger above the joint and pulling on the twisted end the catcher will tighten around the finger and the captive will be unable to release his hand. It is claimed that the Indians formerly employed this device as a handcuff for prisoners, using several for each hand and leading the captives by the fingers. Few tourists are permitted to leave Roseau without a wife catcher, for which sixpence is willingly exchanged.

Women's New Wearing Apparel

Our store is resplendent with new models in SUITS, COATS, SKIRTS, WAISTS, in addition to such lines of UNDERWEAR and HOSIERY as appeal to the discriminating buyer. No season has demonstrated this fact as the present one. Prices are right, too, although we are not holding any special sales for the simple reason that our stock moves so quickly that it is impossible to accumulate enough odds and ends for the purpose.

SALEM BEER

SALEM is the most popular beer in Northern California and Southern Oregon. It is acknowledged to be the equal of the very best eastern product. All beers are good, but some beers are liked better than others. The proof for this assertion lies in drinking Salem beer. If you wish to be convinced, ask for Salem beer and drink it.
