MOTHER LIES TO SHIELD HER BOYS FROM LAW

Also Denounced Deputy Sheriff as "Chicken Thief" When He Attempted to Enter Her House for Fugitive.

DEPUTY SHERIFF ULRICH NABS TWO PRISONERS

Nothing Heard of Other Four Escaping Prisoners Who Started in Toward the Applegate.

Denouncing Deputy Sheriff Bill Ulrich as a "chicken thief," an "egg sucker" and calling him several other uncomplimentary names, Mrs. C. Mow attempted to prevent him from entering a chicken house on the Mow ranch in Ashland canyon and apprehending Chester Mow, one of the men who broke jail on Friday evening. But her denunciation fell off Bill's head like water, he entered the chicken house and caught the fugitive, as he had caught the older brother earlier in the afternoon.

Deputy Sheriff Ulrich, accompanied by Constable Irwin, were searching in the Ashland neighborhood for the escaped prisoners, when they encountered Richard Mow, whom they arrested without trouble. They then went up to the Mow ranch in Ashland canyon.

Upon their arrival they found the house deserted, but many evidences of recent occupancy. Going out the rear they saw Mrs. Mow coming out of the chicken house. Ulrich at once accosted her and asked her regarding the whereabouts of Chester. She replied that she had not seen him. Bill's suspicions were aroused, however, by her action in closing the chicken house door and standing in front of it. When he attempted to enter it he was denounced as an "egg sucker" and "chicken thief," and ordered not to go in there. But he persisted and found his man.

"Old lady," said Bill, "you lied to me."

"I know I did," replied Mrs. Mow, "and I will lie any day in the week for my boys."

"And, after all, that is but an evidence of mother love," concludes Bill Ulrich, as he tells the story.

The Mow boys were returned to the county jail, where they were awaiting action by the grand jury for killing a calf.

HOOD RIVER SHIPS BAD APPLES TO PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Or., 18.—County Fruit Inspector J. E. Stansbery is kept busy condemning fruit these days. A considerable quantity of unsalable stuff is being sent in from the country, and as the inspector's territory is large, much of it probably escapes him, but whenever he finds any infected fruit he proceeds to coal oil it. About 30 boxes of wormy and sealy apples were condemned at the Italian market yesterday morning and some bad apples on Front street were also fixed so the dealers could not sell them.

Among the bad apples found in the dealers' hands were some fruit from Salem and also a quantity from Hood River. The latter were culls, which the shippers, for the sake of the reputation of their district should never have sent to market.

SMOKE OF RANK PIPE ENDS HER DREAM OF BLISS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—According to Mary E. Walsh's petition for a divorce from Robert Walsh, her honeymoon was unfortunate. She was a widow with a sixteen-year old daughter, and married Walsh in August. On the day of her wedding, just after the ceremony, she was struck by a United Railroads car and painfully hurt.

That evening, while she lay in bed unable to sleep from pain, Walsh, whose slumbers were ruffled by her groans, sat up in bed and lit a pipe and its odor made the collision seem like a minor matter.

Every night during their three weeks of married life he is said to have "poisoned the air" in the same way. She asks for the restoration of her former name of Austin.

SPAIN ADDS MORE FUEL TO REVOLUTIONARY FLAMES

Government Demands More Money From Poor or Service in the Army.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Socialists in the house of commons today prepared a resolution demanding the expulsion from England of the Spanish ambassador. Victor Crayson, who will present the resolution tonight, declared that the head of every European king would pay for the death of Ferrer.

MADRID, Oct. 18, (via Hedayed.)—The people are inflamed by an announcement that the cabinet has introduced a bill in the Cortes forcing the conscripts who have already paid $300 for their freedom from military duty to pay an additional $100 or serve in the army. This is a severe blow, as numbers of them had a hard time paying the $300 and can't get the additional $100, but must go to the army, leaving their wives and children to starve.

FILE SUIT FOR DIVORCE; NECKTIES DON'T SUIT HER

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—Because he husband persistently refuses to wear neckties which match the shade of her gowns, Mrs. Frances Laroche says she will file suit tomorrow for a divorce from her husband, Alfred. They were married in Syracuse five years ago. The husband's defense will be that his wife so imposed upon him by insisting that he accompany her on shopping tours that his "ernalty" is justified.

The wife's plaint is that her husband, whom she likes to have accompany her on her visits to the stores, deliberately wears clothing which does not comport with her gowns. On one occasion she says she was shopping in a plum colored silk, and her husband wore a flowing green four-in-hand, which shone in striking contrast to her costume. On another occasion he wore a tie of blue to prevent her enjoying a shopping tour in a creation of a light green shade.
