

HIGH JINKS ARE A BIG SUCCESS

ago and was received by Judge Colvig, who, like the Indians who welcomed Columbus, waved his arms and exclaimed, "Lo, we are discovered."

Ovation for Allen.

John R. Allen of New York, president of the Pacific & Eastern railroad, was introduced and received the most marked demonstration of the evening. For fully two minutes he was forced to await until the applause had subsided. Mr. Allen explained that he was not an orator and that he did not make a practice of speaking in public. Mr. Allen said that the character of the local people more than anything else had led him to invest in the Rogue River valley. After some time in reflection he concluded his address by stating: "I can tell you this much—the Pacific & Eastern will be completed." He was given another ovation when he concluded his remarks.

A. C. Burgess and Holbrook Withington, assisted by a male chorus, sang a topical song, which was warmly received. Following are a few verses:

There's a man in Salem takes the cake;
He stopped the road to Crater Lake;
An appeal we had to take,
And that's no fairy tale.

But he'll find out before he's through
That he's cut out some work to do,
For we'll show him a thing or two,
And that's no fairy tale.

McMahan says he'll surely win.
He doesn't know that he's all in,
And that's no fairy tale.

There were two cousins of the czar
Came to Rogue river from afar
Nick Romanoff knows who they are,
And that's no fairy tale.

A royal orclato was their plan;
They paid to have a trusty man
And so they chose one of their clan,
(Oh, what a fairy tale!)

They said "There's just one that will suit;
So chose their cousin, Edwin Root,
But that's a fairy tale.

To Eagle Point there was a line
Of rusty nails and ties of pine,
Jim Hill said: "It isn't mine,"
But that's a fairy tale.

John R. Allen came to town,
Answered questions with a frown;
People said "He's done up brown,"
And that's a fairy tale.

Anyone in town can tell
The P. & E. has gone to h—l,
But that's a fairy tale.

Our congressman is here tonight;
Appropriations are in sight;
We are in an awful plight,
And that's no fairy tale.
Provision congress ought to make
For taking care of Crater Lake;

BOB MCKENZIE, ACTING MANAGER, WITH MCKENZIE'S MERRY-MAKERS.

According to statement made by H. A. McLellan, advance man of the McKenzie's show, the Merry-Makers played to a packed house last night at the Star theater, Roseburg. They left on the 9 a. m. train and will arrive here at 3.32 p. m. today. The company will open their engagement at the Medford Theater tonight in that funny screaming farce, "Charlie's Aunt."

Some note of our existence take,
And that's no fairy tale.

Congress will give us quite soon
A federal building as a boon;
But that's a fairy tale.

Some knockers say the price of land
Has gone so high it will not stand;
It's going to drop to beat the band,
But it's a fairy tale.

The values here have come to stay,
In spite of what the knockers say;
Our progress they cannot delay,
And that's no fairy tale.

Over-production is the cry;
Prices are too d—d high,
And that's a fairy tale.

Then just before luncheon they sang:

I'd rather sing to you than eat,
Or stand all night here on my feet;
Every verse we'll now repeat,

That's only a fairy tale.

If you insist on verses more,
You'll find them printed by the score,
In Medford's pamphlet on page 4,
But that's a fairy tale.

Now I'm going to have lunch,
And take a drink of that harmless punch,
And that's no fairy tale.

An elaborate informal luncheon was served, consisting of sandwiches, salads and relishes. It was put up by Caterer Johnson and in a splendid style. The punch was made in George Bordeaux' establishment by Tom Jackson and was a great success.

The evening was one of the most enjoyable spent by the business men of Medford in many months.
