

STOCK DAMAGED BY POOR PLUMBING

The Hutchason Company Has Several Hundred Dollars of Clock Damaged by Water.

Sunday afternoon Mr. Hutchason came to the store to turn on the lights and raise the awnings. On opening the door he heard a noise like a cat-arract and was surprised to see two streams of water pouring from the ceiling in the rear of the store. He called to some friends that the store was being flooded and then rushed upstairs to find where the water had broken loose. A weak place in the plumbing had given away allowing the water to pour from the pipes and flood the store below.

Mr. Hutchason arrived in the nick of time to save thousands of dollars' worth of ready-to-wears from irreparable damage by water. As it was, by the kind assistance of friends, working like demons for about an hour to remove the goods, much damage would have resulted.

The store on Monday morning looked like a wreck, with goods piled and hung on every counter and ledge. By heroic work the store was opened for business at the regular hour. At this time the damage is estimated at from $250 to $500.

The goods that were slightly dampened have been hung aside for adjustment and later will probably be placed on sale at prices that will dispose of them quickly.

It is indeed a misfortune to have a stream of water poured into a store on such a pleasant day as Sunday proved to be, but the Hutchason company has its troubles, too, though not often, as the crowds that have visited this popular store make one believe that the good overbalances the bad in this store's affairs.

"The Savoy Pleases Large Audiences."

The Savoy theater played to a packed house last evening and the audience showed conclusively by their many hearty laughs that they appreciated the efforts of Manager Hubbard in giving them the cleanest and best moving picture show ever shown in southern Oregon. One thing is strikingly noticeable in the Savoy shows, and that is that regardless of the mood you may be in, on entering the door you will find something that will appeal to you and you will feel that you have had your money's worth and more on leaving.
