

MEDFORD STUDENTS MAKING GOOD AT STATE UNIVERSITY

All Taking Prominent Part in the Student Affairs—On Campus and in Class Room.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Oct. 30.—(Special).—Things are stirring at the state university for the Medford boys in attendance there. Last Thursday night Fred Strang and Ernest Smith, both sophomores, were initiated as charter members in the chapter of the Acacia fraternity recently established at Oregon. The Acacia is a branch of the Masonic order and none but Masons can belong to it. The fraternity has chapters in most of the leading universities of the country. Fred Strang received his third degree of Masonry last Monday, just in time to be admitted as a charter member of the Acacia.

Vernon Vawter is one of the few freshmen who has won a place on the Glee club and will be one of the 30 Oregon lads to invade Medford with college song and enthusiasm during the early part of Christmas week. Vernon Vawter is a member of Sigma Nu, the oldest fraternity at Oregon.

Clarence Gore is making a mark in the classroom and is taking an active interest in the work of the Y. M. C. A. and Laurean Literary society, of which he is a member.

Darreagh Aerhart is no longer in attendance at the University of Oregon. Some weeks ago he left for the University of Washington. Darreagh got astride of the faculty's technical term for hazing, and with four classmates left for greener pastures. The extracting of a few songs from freshmen was the bloody crime, and 40 others were equally implicated with him, but a trumped up charge from last year was made the ground for specializing on him. However, Darreagh took the whole affair good naturedly and apparently was not nearly so put out as were his many friends.

Ruth Merriek, one of the three girls at Eugene, is chairman of the program committee for the sophomore hop, which takes place in December. She is a member of the Chi Omega sorority.

CORELESS APPLE IS LATEST FREAK

Man Near Spokane Grows New Variety—Watchmen Guarding the Tree.

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 30.—Coreless as well as seedless are the apples produced on a single tree of unknown variety in an eight-acre orchard at Moran Prairie, five miles north of Spokane, owned by B. K. Short, a rancher. The largest of the fruit is three inches in diameter, the coloring being of a yellowish green, streaked with red. The apples have deep pink cheeks, and the flesh is firm and of excellent flavor. The tree is between 12 and 15 years old and is growing in sub-irrigated soil at an altitude of 2225 feet. Short does not claim credit for developing the coreless-seedless apple, declaring it is a freak of nature.

Seven of the new apples were brought to the offices of the National Apple show in Spokane and quartered in the presence of Ren H. Rice, secretary-manager; Professor August Von Holderbeke, formerly state commissioner of horticulture of Washington, and several growers from various parts of the northwest, but none was able to classify the fruit. Professor W. S. Thornber, horticulturist at the state college of Washington, has been delegated by J. J. Browne, regent, of Spokane, to make a thorough examination of the tree to determine its origin.

Short has engaged three watchmen each to work eight hours a day as guards in his orchard to prevent injury to the tree. He intends to graft the scions on other trees the coming spring. Expert pomologists say if the process is successful he will have made a discovery of greater commercial importance than any yet credited to Luther Burbank and other plant wizards. They add that while the seedless apple is no longer a novelty, the production of a coreless one, long sought by growers throughout the world, is a distinct triumph in apple culture.
