

Advertiser Supplement.

Vol. III.

ASHLAND, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 31, 1895.

No. 11.

UP TO ADVERTISED PROMISES.

"There are very few shows in the world which live up to the spectacle presented by their gaudy paper and effusive promises of the vollen advance agent," says the Trinidad, Col., Daily Advertiser. "The Great Wallace Shows are an exception to this rule. Their performances in Trinidad yesterday afternoon and last night were fully up to the bill board pictures, and were really first class and equal to the extraordinary. The people were treated to several new and clever features among the old but still rather attractive display of tinsel and gauze which will probably last for ages.

The Great Wallace Shows' horses are representative types of the finest in the land, and that part of the performance given by the noble animals is alone worthy of the highest praise."
