

W. C. T. U. Sparks.

Rum outwits alike the teacher, the man of business, the patriot and the legislator.—Channing.

My liberty ends when it begins to involve the possibility of ruin to my neighbor.—John Stuart Mill.

The best thing in this Republic, next to liberty itself, is the labor of our people.—Richard Cobden.

I consider the temperance cause the foundation of all social and political reforms.—James A. Garfield.

This national crime is a thing that God will reckon with, and I wish it may not lie on the nation a day longer than you have an opportunity to find a remedy.—Oliver Cromwell.

The man who says to you "you're all right, but you can't succeed," is a coward. He admits that he is willing to do wrong, because he thinks the largest number of persons are wrongdoers; that that it is all right to do wrong as long as it is popular to do so. The man who says "you are all right, but you can't succeed" is a moral and political coward. Don't pattern after him. The man who says "I'll do right though the heavens fall!" is the man to tie to.
