

W. C. T. U. Gleams.

From Willard Hall, the Temperance Temple, Chicago, come cheering reports of many wandering ones reclaimed through the noon-day prayers and Gospel meetings held daily.

Shall a young man smoke?—The answer by O. W. Homes: "Certainly not. It is liable to injure the sight, to render the nerves unsteady, to enfeeble the will, and enslave the nature to an imperious habit likely to stand in the way of duty to be performed."

Strong drink perverts the appetite, weakens the will, debases the moral nature. It makes a man coarse, brutal and repulsive, and seems to cast out every element of manliness and principle of honor. The only safe rule is to let it alone.

If there is not sufficient resolution to resist the first glass, what folly to suppose that the tenth or fiftieth can be put away, when the habit of drinking is more or less formed and an appetite created. Young men, as you cherish all the fond hopes and bright promises of your youth; as you value the lofty aspirations of your ambitious manhood; as you would preserve the brain to conceive, the will to direct and the arm to execute in all their might as God has given them to you; as you would fulfill your obligations to society, and to your family; as you would spare sorrow to the parents who lean upon you, do not tamper with this fearful vice.
